Unit description

This unit extends the abilities of students studying Spanish at an advanced level through the investigation of concepts of place and belonging in the Spanish-speaking world. Throughout their histories Spain and Spanish-speaking America have been transformed by migrations, exiles, shifting borders and territorial disputes and cultures shaped by complex relationships between place and peoples. The unit will amplify students' understanding of the Hispanic world through a variety of case studies on space and belonging on the themes of exile and return, border zones, tourism, indigenous rights, and regimes of inclusion/exclusion.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Identify geographical, political and historical factors in current debates about place and belonging in the Hispanic world.

Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.

Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Graduate Capabilities

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.

Assessment tasks

- Video + Debate
- Peer/self evaluation

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify geographical, political and historical factors in current debates about place and belonging in the Hispanic world.
- Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Assessment tasks

- Participation
- Video + Debate
- Proposal
- Final project

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.
- Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Assessment tasks

- Critical review
- Video + Debate
- Final project

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Assessment tasks

- Proposal
- Final project

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.
- Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Assessment tasks

- Video + Debate
- Proposal
- Final project

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.
- Explain the historical context of some issues around mobility and place in the Spanish-speaking world and defend in Spanish the student's own interpretation of their consequences.

Assessment tasks

- Critical review

- Video + Debate
- Peer/self evaluation
- Final project

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify geographical, political and historical factors in current debates about place and belonging in the Hispanic world.
- Recognise rhetorical strategies in spoken and written Spanish and self-evaluate the student's own implementation of these strategies.
