Co-badged status
Unit description This unit will examine contemporary research in ethics, moral psychology, applied ethics or political philosophy. The unit will focus on a current 'hot' topic of research in one of these sub-disciplinary fields. The topics chosen will align with the research projects and expertise of faculty members. Examples of areas that might be explored include, the philosophy and psychology of emotions: the nature of moral cognition: justice and public health ethics. Students will develop an in-depth knowledge of the major debates relevant to the topic, and acquire the necessary research skills for pursuing their own research project.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Name	Weighting	Due
Short Reading Exercise	15%	29/08/2014 or 19/09/2014
In-class Presentation	15%	Various
Research Essay Plan	10%	17/10/2014
Research Essay	50%	17/11/2014

In-class Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

You will be expected to attend class every week and participate in discussions. You will receive 10% of your grade for the quality of your participation.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Become aware of a number of different recent research topics in ethics.
- Develop your presentation skills.
- Develop your communication skills.

Short Reading Exercise

Due: 29/08/2014 or 19/09/2014

Weighting: 15%

A short writing task (1000 words) will be set for Topics 1 and 2. You must pick ONE topic ONLY and complete the short writing task for that topic. The due date for this assessment will depend on which topic you choose to write on. Note: the topic you select for your short reading exercise should be different to the topic that you choose to work on for your research essay. If choosing Topic 1 then due Friday August 29. If choosing Topic 2 then due Friday September 19.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Develop your communication skills.

In-class Presentation

Due: Various

Weighting: 15%

You will be expected to present a seminar-style presentation on your research topic. You will also be expected to lead an in-class discussion of your research topic. And you will also need to select one extra reading for other students to read beforehand. Depending on student numbers, presentations (including discussion and questions) should go for about 1 hour. Dates: 28/10/2014, or 4/11/2014, or 11/11/2014

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Develop your presentation skills.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Develop your research skills.

Research Essay

Due: 17/11/2014

Weighting: 50%

Write a research essay (3500 words).

Note: for the following three items (In-class Presentation, Research Essay Plan and Research Essay) students will select a topic presented in the unit for in depth study. They will arrange a supervision meeting with the relevant staff member to discuss further readings, research question, and plan.

Alternative: depending on the availability of supervisors and the gaining of prior approval, it may be possible to complete the following three items on another research topic of your choice in the field of ethics broadly understood. The essay could then take the form of a research proposal (or be the basis for one) for the second year of the MRes.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Develop your research skills.
- Develop your communication skills.
