Unit description

The unit will equip students with the knowledge and skills to carry out research in the broad area of Metaphysics and Epistemology. The focus of the unit is the relationships between mind and the world as mediated by language, science, and culture. The unit will cover classic and important contemporary works on a chosen theme (such as “The Nature of the Conscious Mind”, “Free Will”, “Language and Reality”, or “Scientific Reasoning”) or will be devoted to a study of an important classical text (such as Hume’s “An Enquiry concerning Human Understanding”, Russell’s “The Problems of Philosophy”, or Wittgenstein’s “Philosophical Investigations”).

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Acquire a coherent and advanced knowledge of the methodology, concepts and arguments of Hume’s ‘Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding’.

Synthesise and analyse information from a variety of sources concerning foundational concepts and arguments in Metaphysics and Epistemology.

Articulate clearly and coherently philosophical arguments in of Metaphysics and Epistemology in written and oral form.

Analyse and critically evaluate philosophical arguments.

Apply acquired knowledge and skills in the context of philosophical scholarship.

Work in cooperation with others and reflect on individual and group performance to identify opportunities for improvement.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Research Essay	50%	5pm Monday June 16, 2014

Class Presentation	15%	TBA in class
Participation	15%	Weekly

Research Essay

Due: 5pm Monday June 16, 2014

Weighting: 50%

The essay is designed to develop your ability to engage with a topic in depth. The essay develops your ability to express, analyse and organise key ideas clearly and systematically, and your ability to develop a sustained argument. Essay topics will be provided, but students may develop their own topic, in consultation with the teaching staff.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire a coherent and advanced knowledge of the methodology, concepts and arguments of Hume's 'Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding'.
- Synthesise and analyse information from a variety of sources concerning foundational concepts and arguments in Metaphysics and Epistemology.
- Articulate clearly and coherently philosophical arguments in of Metaphysics and Epistemology in written and oral form.
- Analyse and critically evaluate philosophical arguments.
- Apply acquired knowledge and skills in the context of philosophical scholarship.

One Page Summaries

Due: On going weekly

Weighting: 20%

Ten one page summaries of readings : (10 pieces of work worth in total 20%). You will give a summary of each week's reading and bring this along to the seminar with you. You will use it as a basis for your own contributions to the discussion at seminar, and submit it each week at the seminar.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire a coherent and advanced knowledge of the methodology, concepts and arguments of Hume's 'Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding'.
- Articulate clearly and coherently philosophical arguments in of Metaphysics and Epistemology in written and oral form.
- Analyse and critically evaluate philosophical arguments.

Class Presentation

Due: TBA in class

Weighting: 15%

Each student will also make one class presentation introducing the text(s) to be discussed in the seminar. This will be assessed for its clarity and ability to identify relevant issues for discussion.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire a coherent and advanced knowledge of the methodology, concepts and arguments of Hume's 'Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding'.
- Synthesise and analyse information from a variety of sources concerning foundational concepts and arguments in Metaphysics and Epistemology.
- Articulate clearly and coherently philosophical arguments in of Metaphysics and Epistemology in written and oral form.
- Analyse and critically evaluate philosophical arguments.
- Apply acquired knowledge and skills in the context of philosophical scholarship.
- Work in cooperation with others and reflect on individual and group performance to identify opportunities for improvement.

Participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 15%

Seminar participation is a vital part of learning in philosophy. You are expected to attend all seminars, to prepare thoroughly for seminars by reading the material set for each week, and to participate in class discussion. Your participation mark will depend on your engagement with the course material, your degree of preparation for the seminars, and your willingness to participate in discussion with the group.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire a coherent and advanced knowledge of the methodology, concepts and arguments of Hume's 'Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding'.
- Synthesise and analyse information from a variety of sources concerning foundational concepts and arguments in Metaphysics and Epistemology.
- Articulate clearly and coherently philosophical arguments in of Metaphysics and Epistemology in written and oral form.
- Analyse and critically evaluate philosophical arguments.
- Work in cooperation with others and reflect on individual and group performance to identify opportunities for improvement.
