Unit description

This unit examines the concept of heritage and the various mechanisms for conservation of natural and cultural, intangible and tangible, elements of heritage. Specific areas include world heritage, underwater cultural heritage, movable heritage, Indigenous conceptions of heritage, intangible heritage and cultural expression. Legal regimes for heritage conservation at international, national, state and local levels are examined and case studies are used to illustrate the policy tensions inherent in environmental decision making in this area. International initiatives to address issues in heritage conservation are examined and the challenges to effective implementation in developed and developing countries assessed.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate a thorough understanding of the philosophical and contextual frameworks which shape definitions of heritage

Display a sound knowledge of the scope of natural and cultural heritage, including intangible, tangible (moveable and immoveable), Indigenous and underwater heritage

Display a thorough knowledge of existing global laws to conserve heritage and the challenges involved in effectively implementing them

Demonstrate an enquiring, critical and creative approach to established heritage law and policy

Make recommendations for law reform and/or further research needed to address issues in international; national; and local heritage conservation taking into account the perspectives of various actors

Make a sound assessment of heritage conservation under the Australian legal system at Federal, State and local government levels and in particular the policy rationales which underpin domestic/national legal responses to heritage

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Assessment One	10%	On campus session
Assessment Two	30%	28th April 2014
Assessment Three	60%	9th June 2014

Assessment One

Due: On campus session

Weighting: 10%

Class participation will be assessed on the basis of involvement in the on campus sessions. Students should ensure they have completed the required reading for each session before the on campus sessions commence, and be prepared to discuss this material in each session. Specific questions are set out in the Course Schedule and Reading List and should be prepared in advance. But students should be prepared to participate in further discussion and analysis beyond the set questions. Students will not be awarded participation marks just for attending class. The following non-exhaustive list of criteria will be used to assess your class participation:

- The level of preparedness for each on campus session assessed by your responses to questions and answers and opinions offered throughout class
- The level of analysis you display in class
- Your ability to answer questions put directly to you in class
- Your ability to make an educated and legally feasible arguments in class
- The way in which you engage in a constructive way with other students and the Convenor in the class

- The quality NOT quantity of your work in class

Please note that the onus to participate in class is on you not on the Convenor. In other words, it is not the job of the Convener to engage you in discussion so that you may avail yourself of the class participation assessment.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Display a sound knowledge of the scope of natural and cultural heritage, including intangible, tangible (moveable and immovable), Indigenous and underwater heritage
- Display a thorough knowledge of existing global laws to conserve heritage and the challenges involved in effectively implementing them
- Demonstrate an enquiring, critical and creative approach to established heritage law and policy
- Make recommendations for law reform and/or further research needed to address issues in international; national; and local heritage conservation taking into account the perspectives of various actors

Assessment Two

Due: 28th April 2014

Weighting: 30%

“Adopting a standard definition of cultural heritage would facilitate a uniform understanding of the nature of its subject matter and the development of a coherent international legal framework for its protection”.

Critically assess this comment with reference to the different definitions in 2 treaties or other international instruments. Consider the problems associated with the diverse range of current definitions, advantages and disadvantages of a standard definition and proposals for the future. Students should utilise the course readings and additional references as set out on the Course Schedule and Reading List but some further research should also be undertaken.

The paper should be well structured including sub-headings where appropriate. The introduction should set out the scope of the paper. Be sure to answer the question asked. The essay should be fully referenced according to the Australian Guide to Legal Citation. [Maximum Word Length 3,000 words.]

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a thorough understanding of the philosophical and contextual frameworks which shape definitions of heritage

- Display a sound knowledge of the scope of natural and cultural heritage, including intangible, tangible (moveable and immoveable), Indigenous and underwater heritage
- Display a thorough knowledge of existing global laws to conserve heritage and the challenges involved in effectively implementing them
- Demonstrate an enquiring, critical and creative approach to established heritage law and policy
- Make a sound assessment of heritage conservation under the Australian legal system at Federal, State and local government levels and in particular the policy rationales which underpin domestic/national legal responses to heritage

Assessment Three

Due: 9th June 2014

Weighting: 60%

Students are to complete an independent research paper on a topic of their choice related to this Unit. This task allows students to undertake in depth research and analysis of a specific aspect of heritage law, the legal frameworks in a given country or the legal issues associated with a particular site. A brief outline of the research question and structure of the paper should be submitted to the Convenor for approval by 5 May 2014. This is for your benefit to ensure that the topic is suitable and the structure and content appropriate.

The paper should be well structured including sub-headings where appropriate. The introduction should set out the scope of the paper. You need to include sufficient detail of the specific legal principles or regime and analysis/application of that law. Your conclusion should include recommendations for new law, law reform, further research and/or creative application of the existing law where appropriate. The essay should be fully referenced according to the Australian Guide to Legal Citation. [Maximum Word Length 6,000 words.]

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an enquiring, critical and creative approach to established heritage law and policy
- Make recommendations for law reform and/or further research needed to address issues in international; national; and local heritage conservation taking into account the perspectives of various actors
- Make a sound assessment of heritage conservation under the Australian legal system at Federal, State and local government levels and in particular the policy rationales which underpin domestic/national legal responses to heritage
