Unit description

In this unit students are introduced to the study of European integration and its result, the European Union, through different disciplinary lenses. For example, the common European currency, the Euro, and the project of a Europe without boundaries (the Schengen area) are addressed not just in terms of history, economics and law but also in relation to their sociological implications for European identity and for member-states' sovereignty.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge about the European Union - its history, its institutions and their processes, its impact on its member-states and accession states and its role in the world

Students will be able to analyse the successes and impediments to European integration in writing and in discussion.

Students will develop arguments relating to the efficacy of the principles and policies of the European Union

Students will be able to absorb the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others in readings and in class discussions and build upon them and communicate the resultant synthesis

Students will be able understand, interrogate and apply various theoretical positions and weigh the importance of alternative perspectives.

Assessment Tasks

Delivery and Resources

Technologies Used: This unit has a mandatory online presence.

Login is via: <https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/>

Students are required to have regular access to a computer and the internet. Mobile devices alone are not sufficient.

- For technical support go to: http://mq.edu.au/about_us/offices_and_units/informatics/help
- For student quick guides on the use of iLearn go to: http://mq.edu.au/iLearn/student_info/guides.htm

Students will need to access reliable broadband and a computer more than once a week.

Students can download lectures and reading materials in advance of the Thursday seminar session and are strongly advised to do this. Lectures and readings can be saved to your personal computer or a USB, so there is not excuse for not meeting the Thursday deadline for preparation for the seminar. The university offers multiple outlets for access to reliable broadband, so if you encounter problems at home, please either visit the university, or if a distance student, please visit your local library.

Mini - Lectures (1 - 3 per week) are pre-recorded videos which will be available from Monday of each week.

Seminars (1 per week, compulsory attendance each week, including week 1. Absence from a seminar without a valid medical excuse will result in 0 marks for the day.

Thursday 1:00 - 2:00 E8A386

Graduate Capabilities

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge about the European Union - its history, its institutions and their processes, its impact on its member-states and accession states and its role in the world
- Students will develop arguments relating to the efficacy of the principles and policies of the European Union
- Students will be able to absorb the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others in readings and in class discussions and build upon them and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Students will be able understand, interrogate and apply various theoretical positions and weigh the importance of alternative perspectives.

Assessment tasks

- Quizzes
- Research Essay 1
- Research Essay 2

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to analyse the successes and impediments to European integration in writing and in discussion.
- Students will develop arguments relating to the efficacy of the principles and policies of the European Union
- Students will be able to absorb the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others in readings and in class discussions and build upon them and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Students will be able understand, interrogate and apply various theoretical positions and weigh the importance of alternative perspectives.

- Seminar
- Research Essay 1
- Research Essay 2

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge about the European Union - its history, its institutions and their processes, its impact on its member-states and accession states

and its role in the world

- Students will be able to analyse the successes and impediments to European integration in writing and in discussion.
- Students will develop arguments relating to the efficacy of the principles and policies of the European Union

- Students will be able understand, interrogate and apply various theoretical positions and weigh the importance of alternative perspectives.

Assessment tasks

- Quizzes
- Research Essay 1
- Research Essay 2

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to analyse the successes and impediments to European integration in writing and in discussion.
- Students will be able to absorb the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others in readings and in class discussions and build upon them and communicate the resultant synthesis

Assessment tasks

- Seminar
- Research Essay 1
- Research Essay 2

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge about the European Union - its history, its institutions and their processes, its impact on its member-states and accession states and its role in the world
- Students will be able to analyse the successes and impediments to European integration in writing and in discussion.

Changes from Previous Offering

This year the video lectures have been broken down into mini-lectures, and seminars include more activities to develop research skills. Both changes are a response to student feedback

Late Submissions

Assignments are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason (e.g. medical certificate). Late submissions will be penalised by 5% for each day (including weekends) the assignment task is late. No assignments will be accepted after assignments have been corrected and feedback has been provided. Assignment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date.
