Unit description

This unit examines some of the most representative texts of Polish prose and poetry. Students will read two of the six prescribed novels by such authors as W. Gombrowicz, Cz. Miłosz (Nobel Prize), T. Konwicki and S. Lem. Poetry will be represented by W. Szymborska (Nobel Prize), M. Pawlikowska-Jasnorzewska, H. Poświatowska, T. Różewicz, Z. Herbert, Cz. Miłosz. Reading the novels and poems will not only enrich vocabulary and knowledge of Polish literature but also will be an enjoyable activity. We hope that students will enjoy discovering an imaginative world of prose and poetry. Students will have an opportunity to study major works in Polish or English. A voluntary on-campus session will be held where you will have the opportunity to meet your lecturer and fellow students, to review and discuss difficult items before the end of the course. Interstate students will have an opportunity to revise the material in their online unit.

Graduate Capabilities

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- development of independent and analytical judgement
- advanced communication skills, written and oral (demonstrated through assignments and class discussion)
- self-organization and time management (demonstrated through successful completion of work on time and consistent class attendance)
- library and information retrieval skills (demonstrated through research for assignments)

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- development of independent and analytical judgement
- advanced communication skills, written and oral (demonstrated through assignments and class discussion)
