Unit description

This unit is offered online and is intended for students who have completed PLH221 and PLH222, or those who have equivalent knowledge of Polish at this level. PLH324 is designed to enhance students' competence in Polish and focuses on very intensive vocabulary development on the basis of individual reading of and listening to Polish short stories, and study of word derivation in Polish, on the syntax of compound and complex sentences, as well as on the ability to write longer compositions and short essays. It uses a variety of delivery modes such as printed materials and a recorded CD, as well as computer-mediated communication. All material, except the printed version of the short stories, is online. A voluntary on-campus session will be held, where you will have the opportunity to meet your lecturer and fellow students, to review and discuss difficult items before the end of the course, and practice your speaking skills. Interstate students will find the revision material in their online unit.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

To hear, speak, read and write modern Polish language in a variety of registers.

To read, listen to, comprehend and discuss a variety of Polish texts.

To attain a good level of spoken and written Polish through practice in class and completion of exercises and assignments.

To revise grammatical structures previously studied and learn new structures essential to oral and written fluency and accuracy.

To understand and gain proficiency in the mechanics of writing Polish.

To gain an appreciation of the Polish culture through textual (including literature) and aural material introduced in the class resources and discussed in class as well as online.

The unit aims at fostering language skills to level B1, described as follows in the Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR): Can understand the main points of clear standard input on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc. Can deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling in an area where the language is spoken. Can produce simple connected text on topics which are familiar or of personal interest. Can describe experiences and events, dreams, hopes and ambitions and briefly give reasons and explanations for opinions and plans.
