Unit description

This unit will explore the literary culture of Regency England, placing the iconic texts written by Jane Austen at the centre of an investigation of the contexts of the literary, social and political milieus that surrounded their production. Students will closely study Austen's novels, juvenilia and letters, and will be encouraged to research connections between her writings and prominent movements and debates that characterised the literary culture of her time.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. To critically engage with texts written by Jane Austen and by others who form part of the cultural and intellectual milieu that surrounded their production and reception.
2. To synthesize and analyse information relating to a variety of current critical approaches to the study of literature within the academy, demonstrating an ability to apply them to the texts under scrutiny on the course.
3. To creatively apply knowledge of texts and critical approaches in developing research practices and projects.
4. To effectively communicate learning and research to peers and teachers (using oral and written forms).

5. To actively participate in the production of a scholarly community of learners that investigates issues pertaining to the intellectual parameters of the course.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Class participation	10%	Ongoing

Research Essay (3000 words)	50%	16/11/14

Class participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Seminar attendance, preparation and participation in class activities.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. To critically engage with texts written by Jane Austen and by others who form part of the cultural and intellectual milieu that surrounded their production and reception.
- 4. To effectively communicate learning and research to peers and teachers (using oral and written forms).
- 5. To actively participate in the production of a scholarly community of learners that investigates issues pertaining to the intellectual parameters of the course.

Presentation and Report

Due: As described below

Weighting: 15%

Students will report on one of the unit's set weekly topics and deliver a 6-10 minute presentation to the class in the appropriate week of semester. Following in-class feedback, the presentation will then be revised as a 750 word report, which will be submitted by the time of class in the week following the initial presentation. For further details of this task, see the unit handbook (available via the unit's iLearn site).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. To critically engage with texts written by Jane Austen and by others who form part of the cultural and intellectual milieu that surrounded their production and reception.

- 2. To synthesize and analyse information relating to a variety of current critical approaches to the study of literature within the academy, demonstrating an ability to apply them to the texts under scrutiny on the course.
- 4. To effectively communicate learning and research to peers and teachers (using oral and written forms).
- 5. To actively participate in the production of a scholarly community of learners that investigates issues pertaining to the intellectual parameters of the course.

Research Proposal + Lit Review

Due: 21/09/14

Weighting: 25%

Students will develop a proposal for a topic for their final research essays and submit a bibliography of 6-10 appropriate scholarly resources that will form a preliminary basis for their research project. For further details of this task, see the unit handbook (available via the unit's iLearn site).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 2. To synthesize and analyse information relating to a variety of current critical approaches to the study of literature within the academy, demonstrating an ability to apply them to the texts under scrutiny on the course.
- 3. To creatively apply knowledge of texts and critical approaches in developing research practices and projects.

Research Essay (3000 words)

Due: 16/11/14

Weighting: 50%

Students will produce an essay of 3000 words in length, based on the research proposal developed for assessment task 3.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. To critically engage with texts written by Jane Austen and by others who form part of the cultural and intellectual milieu that surrounded their production and reception.
- 2. To synthesize and analyse information relating to a variety of current critical approaches to the study of literature within the academy, demonstrating an ability to apply them to the texts under scrutiny on the course.
- 3. To creatively apply knowledge of texts and critical approaches in developing research practices and projects.

- 4. To effectively communicate learning and research to peers and teachers (using oral and written forms).
