Unit description

This unit provides both an introduction to the formal study of curriculum as well as an opportunity to undertake a more in-depth and specialised study of an area of curriculum interest. The nature of curriculum is explored from national and international perspectives. Curriculum design, implementation and change are considered from both theoretical and practical orientations with a focus on contemporary curriculum in the workplace and/or jurisdiction of the participant's choice.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Demonstrate an understanding of the strategic importance of the curriculum field
2. Demonstrate an understanding of the breadth of the curriculum field, including i. the nature of curriculum ii. the relationships between curriculum, knowledge and ideology iii. the foundational disciplines that underpin curriculum studies, and iv. the dynamics of curriculum planning, implementation and evaluation

3. Demonstrate an understanding of curriculum priorities, change processes and preferred curriculum futures in an educational jurisdiction.

4. Demonstrate a capacity to apply these understandings to a school/workplace/organisation and/or educational jurisdiction, and to the analysis of current state, national and international trends in curriculum.
