Unit description

This unit provides students with Chinese-English interpreting techniques and practice that meet community demands. Students who have completed CHN386 will develop more interpreting skills in studying this unit. They will learn and be able to demonstrate interpreting techniques such as text analysing and note-taking. Core communication skills such as emotion control and non-judgment listening will also be introduced to the students, who will be able to apply these skills and align the skills to the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics in their own interpreting practice. Students will also gain social and cultural awareness in class. By doing the interpreting practices designed for this unit, the students will be able to achieve paraprofessional interpreting level at the end of their study.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.

Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.

Develop core communication skills.

Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
2 Reflective journals	20%	Week 7 and 13
presentation	30%	week 6 or 7
Class participation	20%	every week
Final examination	30%	week 13

2 Reflective journals

Due: Week 7 and 13

Weighting: 20%

You are required to submit two 500-word reflective journals in English on iLearn. This task aims to learn how to justify your interpreting decisions. The journals should contain problems identified, possible solutions and the decision in selecting the best solution. You are allowed to quote the issues emerge from your presentations and in-class interpreting practice. However, journals are written assignments, your language skills will be taken into account when marking this task.

In preparing to your journals, you may wish to consider the following questions:

- 1) What are the functions of interpreting?
- 2) What difficulties do you have in your interpreting practice?
 - 3) What difficulties do you have in finding equivalent expressions in Chinese or English?
 - 4) What makes a good interpretation?
 - 5) What can you prepare for interpreting?

These assignments should be your own original work. Plagiarism is not acceptable (For further information and advice, see www.student.mq.edu.au/plagiarism).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.

- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

presentation

Due: week 6 or 7

Weighting: 30%

In week 7, there will be a presentation including 2 tasks. You are to deliver a 5-8 minute speech in English on a given topic (15%), and one of your classmates will interpret it into Chinese. You also need to interpret one of the speeches delivered by your classmates (15%). The speech topic will be given in week 3 and the interpreter will be chosen randomly on the day of the presentation. The main criteria of this assessment will address your ability to communicate effectively with your audience. A sense of energy and spontaneity will be expected and you should be very careful to avoid a style that is overly memorized.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.
- Develop core communication skills.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Class participation

Due: every week

Weighting: 20%

Class participation is required. Participation will be marked on in-class activities, your willingness to participate in class discussion, preparation and performance of reading and responding to questions. Students are expected to be well prepared in order to participate in class discussion – this will ensure good use of class time as well as improving your learning skills and sharing your knowledge with others. Class participation is expected and will be part of the assessment. This means you not only come and sign in the class but come well prepared and participate in class discussion. You need to reflect on your assignments and think about the translation issues you have encountered and share your thought with others. Your marks for class participation will be determined by

- a) Whether you attend class regularly or not;
- b) How much effort you have taken to prepare for the class;
- c) How actively you participate in class discussion;
- d) How helpful your comments are on the work of our fellow students; and
- e) The quality of your in-class interpreting practice.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.
- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Final examination

Due: week 13

Weighting: 30%

There will be a final examination for this unit in week 13. The examination weighs 30% of your final mark of this unit. In the final exam, you are to:

- 1) interpret a dialogue between an English speaker and a Chinese (10%).
- 2) answer an ethic question in English (10%)
- 3) Sight translate a 200 word English text into Chinese after 3 minutes preparation. (10%).

The only exception to not sitting an examination at the designated time is because of documented illness or unavoidable disruption. In these circumstances you may wish to consider applying for Special Consideration. Information about unavoidable disruption and the special consideration process is available under the Extension and Special Consideration section of this Unit Guide. It should also be stressed that failing to turn up for exams without prior notification to (WITH DOCUMENTATION) and obtaining approval from the lecturers for resitting the exams will mean that the students have forgone (that is, given up the opportunity to sit for) the exams. In which case, no supplementary exams can be arranged.

If a Supplementary Examination is granted as a result of the Special Consideration process, the examination will be scheduled after the conclusion of the official examination period. Individual Departments should contact the Associate Dean Learning and Teaching to confirm when Supplementaries are scheduled.

You are advised that it is Macquarie University policy not to set early examinations for individuals or groups of students. All students are expected to ensure that they are available until the end of the teaching semester, that is the final day of the official examination period.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.
- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.
- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Assessment tasks

- presentation
- Class participation
- Final examination

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Align interpreting theories to interpreting practice.
- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate professional interpreting skills.

- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Develop core communication skills.
- Understand and apply the AUSIT (Australian Institute of Interpreters and Translators) Code of Ethics.
- Apply social and cultural awareness in interpreting practice.

late submissions

Late assignment policy – International Studies, 11 December 2012

Assignments are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason (e.g. medical certificate). Late submissions will be penalised by 5% for each day (including weekends) the assignment task is late. No assignments will be accepted after assignments have been corrected and feedback has been provided. Assignment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date.
