Unit description
Individually and collectively people make their lives meaningful through practices of symbolic representation. During the twentieth century anthropologists concerned with the study of culture came to focus on systems of symbols and meaning. Psychoanalysis and linguistics were important early influences on symbolic anthropology because they identified the capacity of the human mind to operate according to symbolic processes, but these theories also proved too universalist in their claims for anthropology's cross-cultural evidence. The 1980s saw a marked shift in anthropological approaches. Taking the anthropology of religion as its focus this unit examines key theorists and ethnographic studies in the field of symbolic anthropology and phenomenology. We discover that the study of culture shows that human consciousness includes a non-rational or affective aspect sometimes described as 'mystical' or mythic. Mythic consciousness is also explored in this unit as a distinct form of consciousness that should not be seen as false, inferior or irrational. We therefore consider the way phenomena such as dreams, spirits, magic, and emotions figure importantly in anthropological analysis.

Weighting: 15%

Attendance is compulsory and your level of participation will also be assessed. Each week all students are expected to have done the required readings and be ready to discuss them (and to link this to the lecture). Your preparation should include the formulation of at least one discussion question each week.

You will be expected to hand in a half-page to one-page summary/commentary on each reading (150-200 words) to your tutor in each tutorial session. Your tutor will discuss these with you in detail.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- 1. Participate in group discussion and formulate discussion questions relevant to the themes of the unit
- 2. Execute anthropological methods of collection and analysis
- 4. Develop critical analysis and creative thinking skills through a tutorial exercise and an essay project
- 5. Understand key themes, theories and issues in the anthropology of myth and symbolic anthropology
Classification exercises
Due: 01/04/15
Weighting: 20%

From weeks 2 to 5 you will be set a series of small tasks, the results of which are to be written up and contextualized in the course readings and films we have covered so far in a short paper (1000 -1200 words in essay format with references). Further details for this assignment will be provided in lectures and tutorials.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• 2. Execute anthropological methods of collection and analysis
• 4. Develop critical analysis and creative thinking skills through a tutorial exercise and an essay project
• 5. Understand key themes, theories and issues in the anthropology of myth and symbolic anthropology

Major Essay
Due: Wed May 13th
Weighting: 40%

The essay topics will be distributed in week 6. They will focus on the various theoretical perspectives presented in readings and lectures whilst allowing you to investigate a particular area of interest. The further readings listed for each topic and the lecture references each week should provide the basis for this essay.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• 3. Examine and evaluate a range of ethnographic and theoretical texts
• 5. Understand key themes, theories and issues in the anthropology of myth and symbolic anthropology

Take-home exam
Due: 09/06/15
Weighting: 25%

The exam will consist of short essay questions and will cover the lectures and tutorial readings for the unit. You will need the book of readings to complete the exam.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• 3. Examine and evaluate a range of ethnographic and theoretical texts

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Participate in group discussion and formulate discussion questions relevant to the themes of the unit
- 3. Examine and evaluate a range of ethnographic and theoretical texts
- 4. Develop critical analysis and creative thinking skills through a tutorial exercise and an essay project

Assessment tasks

- attend tutes and lectures
- Classification exercises
- Major Essay
- Take-home exam
Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- 4. Develop critical analysis and creative thinking skills through a tutorial exercise and an essay project

Assessment tasks

- attend tutes and lectures
- Classification exercises

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.
