Unit description

This unit will explore some of the fundamental problems raised in the transdisciplinary first year course MHIS115 as they play out across multiple disciplines. Is there a universal long-term trend towards rising complexity? Does the notion of Universal Darwinism work outside the biological realm? What new mechanisms of change can be observed with the appearance of our own species, Homo sapiens? What are the main similarities and differences in methods of studying the past as we move from the realms of physics to those of geology and biology and eventually to human history? The course will explore these and many related questions. The choice of topics will be determined in part by discussions in the first week. In a problem-based course, lectures are less valuable than group discussions, so the classes will combine short informal lectures with group discussions and debates. The unit will also explore a flipped classroom model that will deliver some unit content and learning tasks digitally through the iLearn learning management system.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Weighting: 10%

Draft Essay 500 words: 10% essay explaining proposed theme for synoptic essay

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will explore themes that link the sciences and the humanities

- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines

Synoptic Essay

Due: Week 13

Weighting: 40%

Synoptic Essay 2500 words: 40 % essay expanding short essay and exploring links between several different problems in big history

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Students will be able to apply ideas and concepts across disciplines
- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will explore themes that link the sciences and the humanities
- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines

Participation Grade

Weighting: 10%

Participation: For external students, the participation grade will be based entirely on online posts in response to each week's seminar discussions (available on Echo). Each week, external students will be expected to post at least one brief comment and one brief comment on other contributions to the week's discussions.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Delivery and Resources

LECTURE/SEMINARS:

The course will be taught in 2 hour lecture/seminars, consisting of introductory lectures followed by discussion. Lecture/Seminar 1 will meet on Mondays from 12-2 pm in W6B 315. Lecture/Seminar 2 will meet on Thursdays from 2-4 pm in W6B 345. For external students, audio recordings will be available of the lecture/seminars each week. External students will be welcome to join the internal groups if they choose to do so.

TEXTS:

Basic Text: A summary of the core narrative of big history can be found in David Christian,

Cynthia Stokes Brown and Craig Benjamin, Big History: Between Nothing and Everything, New York: McGraw-Hill Education, 2014.

Optional texts:

- David Christian, Maps of Time: An Introduction to Big History (Berkeley, CA: University of California Press, 2004).
- For the second half of the course you may find David Christian, This Fleeting World: A Short History of Humanity (2008), helpful as a short overview of human history.
- Particularly useful for the synoptic essay will be Fred Spier, Big History and the Future of Humanity (2010, 2nd ed., 2015).

Where to Get Texts: Required and Optional texts will be available for purchase at the Co-Op bookstore on campus. ## Graduate Capabilities

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines

- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Assessment tasks

- Synoptic Essay
- Participation Grade

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to apply ideas and concepts across disciplines
- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will explore themes that link the sciences and the humanities

Assessment tasks

- Draft Essay
- Synoptic Essay

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to apply ideas and concepts across disciplines
- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will explore themes that link the sciences and the humanities

- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines
- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Assessment tasks

- Group Project
- Short Essay
- Draft Essay
- Synoptic Essay
- Participation Grade

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will be able to apply ideas and concepts across disciplines
- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will explore themes that link the sciences and the humanities
- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Assessment tasks

- Group Project
- Short Essay
- Draft Essay
- Synoptic Essay

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines
- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Assessment tasks

- Group Project
- Short Essay
- Draft Essay
- Synoptic Essay
- Participation Grade

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
- Students will learn to write using jargon-free language that can explain ideas across many disciplines
- Students will develop skills in debate and argumentation about complex trans-disciplinary topics

Assessment tasks

- Group Project
- Draft Essay
- Synoptic Essay
- Participation Grade

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Students will deepen their understanding of the history of the universe and of the place of human history in that larger story
