Unit description

This unit covers writing for business from an international perspective. Students are given instruction in writing for different international audiences. On the one hand, the lectures cover strategies for writing effective business reports, government papers, press releases and public relations documents for a wide range of business and government publications. On the other hand, theoretical enquiry will explore the historical organisational and aesthetic contexts of writing for international business media.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of business writing criteria and how to communicate specific ideas in plain English.

Apply techniques of interpersonal interviewing and understanding of commercial principles in corporate communication.

Critically evaluate a range of corporate cultures and apply decision making to specific business situations.

Research and analyse international corporate communication techniques and apply detailed cultural criteria to each assessment.

Persuade and convince an audience through individual and group interaction.

Identify and evaluate the particular forces at work in cross-cultural communication as well as the underlying biases and preconceptions.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Writing assignments in class	25%	weeks 2-12
Presentation and report	20%	weeks 5-6
Financial institution report	25%	week 7
Corporate Business Report	30%	weeks 12

Writing assignments in class

Due: weeks 2-12

Weighting: 25%

From week 2–12 students will complete 250-300 word assignments and participate in class discussions. Each task will cover a corporate writing document and will be assessed as to writer's ability to understand the format and complete the task on time. Details about tutorials and grading procedures will be provided in tutorial discussions. All in-class assignments must be completed by week 13.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of business writing criteria and how to communicate specific ideas in plain English.
- Persuade and convince an audience through individual and group interaction.
- Identify and evaluate the particular forces at work in cross-cultural communication as well as the underlying biases and preconceptions.

Presentation and report

Due: weeks 5-6

Weighting: 20%

Each group will be assigned an international business newspaper for analysis using research, course readings, and class discussion as a guide. You will be provided with a detailed list of review items to discuss. Group presentations will take 10–15 minutes. The presentation will be judged on coherence, conciseness and information given to the class.

Written assignment: Each member of the group will provide a 500 word written summary of their research. The report should detail your research, analysing the particular business newspaper. This is not a summary of your presentation but an analysis of your area of research about the newspaper. Reports will be assessed on their analysis of the subject area and ability to write grammatically and clearly. Presentations will take place during week 5 and the report is due in week 6 (for late submissions, 5% per day including weekends will be deducted).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of business writing criteria and how to communicate specific ideas in plain English.
- Apply techniques of interpersonal interviewing and understanding of commercial principles in corporate communication.
- Persuade and convince an audience through individual and group interaction.

Financial institution report

Due: week 7

Weighting: 25%

In keeping with business journalism, and considering what you have learned about the aim and purpose of business news production, you will write a piece of finance journalism detailing the history and current status of one of the world's financial institutions such as, the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the G-8+5, the Euro Bank. You may consider some recent news reports covered in the daily press. The report should include a history and analysis of the functions of the institution and focus on a recent example from your country of origin in which the agency was involved.

Your report will be assessed on the basis of adequate research on the topic; ability to analyse the effects of the financial institution on your area of focus; and ability to explain in writing the main strengths and weaknesses of the institution. The report is due in week 8. For late submissions, 5% per day including weekends will be deducted.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of business writing criteria and how to communicate specific ideas in plain English.
- Apply techniques of interpersonal interviewing and understanding of commercial principles in corporate communication.
- Critically evaluate a range of corporate cultures and apply decision making to specific business situations.

- Research and analyse international corporate communication techniques and apply detailed cultural criteria to each assessment.
- Persuade and convince an audience through individual and group interaction.
- Identify and evaluate the particular forces at work in cross-cultural communication as well as the underlying biases and preconceptions.

Corporate Business Report

Due: weeks 12

Weighting: 30%

Identify an industry and analyse at least two corporations or companies involved in that industry. One of the entities should have an Australian connection. You will discuss the key issues and the implications for the relevant companies. The report should be presented as a news analysis investor feature that could be placed in a business publication discussed in class. The report will be based on independent research drawn from a variety of primary and secondary sources including interviews. The report will contain a bibliography.

Your writing will be assessed on your ability to put into practice the knowledge of formats you have used during the semester, such as, executive summaries, charts and graphs, the use of up-to-date financial data and grammatically correct writing. The report is due in week 12. For late submissions, 5% per day will be deducted.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a thorough knowledge of business writing criteria and how to communicate specific ideas in plain English.
- Research and analyse international corporate communication techniques and apply detailed cultural criteria to each assessment.
- Identify and evaluate the particular forces at work in cross-cultural communication as well as the underlying biases and preconceptions.
