Unit description

In this unit students examine the principles of administrative law, that is, the law governing government decision-making within the Commonwealth of Australia. It considers the fundamental principles that underpin good decision-making, such as accountability, integrity and procedural fairness, and explores the various avenues available to challenge the merits and the legality of government decisions. It also considers modern developments, such as the increasing involvement of the private sector in providing goods and services traditionally provided by the public sector, and the impact this is having in the field of administrative law

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Acquire an advanced understanding of key mechanisms and principles of administrative law (merits review, judicial review, Freedom of Information, natural justice, errors of law).

Identify contemporary administrative law questions and develop, critical, coherent and well-researched arguments

Contextualise administrative law within the government, legal, constitutional and social settings

Demonstrate advanced legal problem-solving skills

Collaborate with peers to develop arguments and optimise learning and reflective practices

Produce clear and grammatical writing and analysis

General Assessment Information

Macquarie Law School Policy on Assessment

In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked.

All assessments in the unit, other than the sit-down exam, are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Supplementary examinations

Any students who are unable to sit the final exam due to Disruption to Studies, or who sit the exam but then makes a successful application for Disruption to Studies, will be provided with an alternative but not dissimilar sit-down exam. Only ONE opportunity to entertain a supplementary examination, in a form not dissimilar to the sit-down examination, is available.

Requirements for all Written Work in Assignments All written work must be written clearly, with good grammar, correct word usage, correct punctuation, and lack of spelling errors. Poor or bad expression will be penalised, as the study of law is one in which clear expression and the meaning of words are of the highest importance. All written work must be properly referenced and conform to standard stylistic conventions. All cases have to be properly cited. Students must consult The Australian Guide to Legal Citation (3rd edn., 2010) which may either be bought from or ordered through the Co-op Bookshop, or accessed for viewing through <http://www.law.unimelb.edu.au/files/dmfile/FinalOnlinePDF-2012Reprint.pdf>.

In addition to clear grammatical sentence structure, students are expected to structure their work logically. Headings may be used to facilitate the progress of your argument in the essay. A very poorly referenced and expressed essay will likely fail. Essays may include a bibliography of all sources consulted (though all bibliographical information of sources quoted or referred to in the essay must be included in footnotes.) A bibliography is not mandatory. Essays are to comply with the word limit. The number of words must be clearly stated on the first page of the essay. The type-face for the body of the essay is to be in Times New Roman (or similar) 12-point font and use 1½ line spacing is to be used. Footnotes are to be in Times New Roman (or similar) 10 point font using single line spacing. Footnotes are only to be used for referencing, not for argumentation. All four margins of the pages are to be 2.5 cm. Footnotes are not to be counted in the word length.

Please note: students who fail to follow these guidelines on style, length and formatting are liable to be significantly penalised.

Students must keep a printed copy of their paper made at the same time as they submit their work, and identical to the submitted work. Do not just keep a copy on disk.

Be sure to answer the question. To do so, it is necessary to begin by identifying the key points that need to be addressed in your essay, and by defining the key terms. Students, as a result of their analysis, must always come to a conclusion

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Presentation	10%	Beginning Week 2
Research Essay	30%	Wednesday 5 October 2016
Final Examination	60%	Examination Period

Presentation

Due: Beginning Week 2

Weighting: 10%

Internal students: (attendance at 80% of tutorials is compulsory, and attendance on the designated day for the presentation is compulsory, subject to the Disruption to Studies policy))

Tutorials begin in Week 1. From Week 2, each student will present a 10 minute presentation, followed by questions. Speakers to weeks will be allocated in Week 1.

1. Formulate a question, based on that week's topic, to be discussed and argued before the class. Each student must submit his or her question to the convenor prior to presenting. (The schedule of weekly topics will be available on iLearn).
2. Develop a thesis. Students must present an argument that answers the question they have chosen. This should include: presenting the question and why it is important; addressing counter-argument; reaching well-reasoned conclusions.
3. Deliver the presentation in an articulate, accessible, and engaging manner; and provide a well-researched resource for the class.
4. Be able to answer subsequent questions from the convenor and/or class members

External students: (Attendance at the two-day OCS is compulsory, subject to the Disruption to Studies policy).

An individual presentation of ten minutes, followed by questions, will be required on day two of the first compulsory on campus session (Monday 26 September 2016). Topics will be allocated online prior to the OCS; students should then check their chosen question with the convenor. The requirements are the same as those set out above.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire an advanced understanding of key mechanisms and principles of administrative law (merits review, judicial review, Freedom of Information, natural justice, errors of law).
- Identify contemporary administrative law questions and develop, critical, coherent and well-researched arguments
- Contextualise administrative law within the government, legal, constitutional and social settings
- Demonstrate advanced legal problem-solving skills
- Collaborate with peers to develop arguments and optimise learning and reflective practices

Research Essay

Due: Wednesday 5 October 2016

Weighting: 30%

Students will develop a 2000 word research essay on a topic that will consolidate their learning in this subject.

Detailed instructions regarding this assessment task will be provided on ilearn and outlined in the Seminars regularly from Week 1.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire an advanced understanding of key mechanisms and principles of administrative law (merits review, judicial review, Freedom of Information, natural justice, errors of law).
- Identify contemporary administrative law questions and develop, critical, coherent and well-researched arguments
- Contextualise administrative law within the government, legal, constitutional and social settings
- Demonstrate advanced legal problem-solving skills
- Produce clear and grammatical writing and analysis

Final Examination

Due: Examination Period

Weighting: 60%

A sit-down closed book exam; but students may take 2 A4 pages of notes into the exam room.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire an advanced understanding of key mechanisms and principles of administrative law (merits review, judicial review, Freedom of Information, natural justice, errors of law).
- Identify contemporary administrative law questions and develop, critical, coherent and well-researched arguments
- Contextualise administrative law within the government, legal, constitutional and social settings
- Demonstrate advanced legal problem-solving skills
- Produce clear and grammatical writing and analysis

Delivery and Resources

Weekly lectures in this unit will be pre-recorded and available to students on iLearn. They are delivered by Dr Margaret Kelly and are two hours in duration.

There will also be an additional 30 minutes of supplementary recorded material prepared/curated by Margaret Kelly each week. This will consist of short recorded lectures, videos and other multimedia online content.

The lectures and seminars will commence in Week 1 and go through to Week 13.

The schedule of topics to be covered in the lectures will be available on iLearn.

Margaret Kelly will lead the 1.5 hour weekly seminars on Mondays 2.30-4.00 pm, which begin in week 1 for internals (reading is required for Week 1's seminar).

Attendance at at least 80% of seminars is compulsory. External students will have a compulsory two day on campus session on Sunday 25 and Monday 26 September 2016, with (possibly) an additional optional on campus session on Sunday 23 October 2016.

The required text is: MRL Kelly, LawBrief: Administrative Law (Lawbook Co, 2015)

The following texts are also recommended:

- R Creyke, J McMillan, and M Smyth, Control of Government Action: Text, Cases and Commentary (Lexisnexis, 4th ed, 2015)
