Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Major Assignment	55%	25/5/15
Short Answer Exam	40%	June 6
Multiple Choice tests	5%	Various

Major Assignment

Due: 25/5/15

Weighting: 55%

Topic 1

Are human beings irrational? Discuss this question with respect to the work of Gigerenzer and Kahneman?

Topic 2

Human beings must make decisions in situations where they are uncertain about many aspects of those situations. Describe and discuss the work of people such as Philip Tetlock in particular with regard to how effective they are in such situations and what cognitive characteristics are found to be most useful in making better predictions?

Topic 3

This is an open topic, that is the student is free to determine the question and provide her/his answer to it. Students who undertake this topic must be aware that they will be marked according to the expected standards of an essay at 4th year. PROPOSED TOPICS MUST BE SUBMITTED TO ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR WASTELL IN WRITING BEFORE THE SEMESTER BREAK ON APRIL 4th FOR APPROVAL.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- As a result of participating in this unit students will be able to: A Describe and outline the major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding.
- D Outline and critique the application of major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding to a specific domain of human endeavour. In 2016 this will be Cognitive and Cultural foundations of Religion.

Short Answer Exam

Due: June 6

Weighting: 40%

The examination paper will consist of four questions. Students must complete two of the four in 1 hour (60 minutes). The questions will not be provided to students before the exam.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- As a result of participating in this unit students will be able to: A Describe and outline the major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding.
- B List and critique the central assumptions of the major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding,
- C Describe and critique the Dual (Multi) Processes models of human thinking, reasoning and deciding,

Multiple Choice tests

Due: Various

Weighting: 5%

Each weeks recorded lectures will have a short multiple choice test. To gain the marks for this component students will need to complete 4 of the 6 tests. The average score out of 10 will be the assessed mark for this component

On successful completion you will be able to:

- B List and critique the central assumptions of the major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding,
- C Describe and critique the Dual (Multi) Processes models of human thinking, reasoning and deciding,
- D Outline and critique the application of major approaches to the study of human thinking, reasoning and deciding to a specific domain of human endeavour. In 2016 this will be Cognitive and Cultural foundations of Religion.

Delivery and Resources

The Unit seminars will be conducted on Monday afternoons 3-5pm W5C 220. The unit will consist of presentations by staff as well as by students. Students will be required to take a question or unresolved issue in the field and to examine it from within a theory or approach. The emphasis is on the empirical resolution of the question not merely a rehearsing of the facts and features of the question.

Students are required to attend SEVEN seminar sessions. A roll will be marked in each of the sessions. Pre-recorded lectures and slides sets will be available on the Unit web page for each of the 10-12 topics covered in the Unit. Students are required to listen to the pre-recorded lectures prior to coming to the seminars.
