Unit description
This unit will examine the writing of Indigenous Australians to explore Indigenous perspectives of culture and continuity. Students will be introduced to a variety of written work, including biography, and the growing and rich array of fiction and poetry. We will consider the range of reasons Indigenous Australians write, from resistance to celebration, as well as the political motivations for publication. Students will also examine the impact of Indigenous literature on national identity and understandings of Indigenous Australia.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at http://students.mq.edu.au/student_admin/enrolmentguide/academicdates/

Learning Outcomes

1. Discuss key features of Indigenous Australian literature (written creative texts produced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders).
3. Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
4. Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Four short pieces

Due: week 10

Weighting: 40%

These four short pieces are designed to provide you with opportunities to engage with the major themes of our class. Please note their individual due dates below. Please note these short pieces do NOT require any research; they are designed to give you a chance to explore your own thoughts about each topic.

SHORT PIECE ONE

Spend the two hours becoming familiar with some examples and aspects of Indigenous Australian literature. One reason I am asking you to do this is because I want you to have the experience of 'following your nose'... of reading and skimming according to your own interests. You might like to read chronologically, or starting with things with which you're familiar/unfamiliar, or randomly, or following genres or styles that interest you.

Spend ONE HOUR reading through the Macquarie/ PEN anthology of Aboriginal Literature (one of our unit textbooks)

- As you read, think about the representation and self-representation of Indigenous Australian people... here are some questions you could think about while you read: what is the range of ways that people use English? does the writing engage with stereotypes? do you get a sense of similarity or diversity? do you find favourites or find texts you're not so keen about? as you read, which texts make you feel affirmed/challenged/enlightened/ uncomfortable/ excited/ proud/ curious/ etc? do any texts make you laugh? do any texts make you cry?

Spend ONE HOUR looking through the BlackWords website.
As you look through the database, notice the range of resources available: visual, aural (things you can hear), textual (things you can read) etc. Take the time to read some interviews; in the 'Teaching BlackWords' section you'll find information about all kinds of things; notice links between the Macquarie/ PEN anthology and the BlackWords site.

After the two hours of reading...

Go onto the online forum for this week (on iLearn).

- Put up an initial post introducing yourself to us, telling a little bit about who you are and why you’re taking this unit. Then, tell us some of your reflections after your two hours of reading.
- Before FRIDAY of week 2, post at least TWO more times in reply to other people, trying to connect with what they say and perhaps adding some ideas from your own background or your own experience of reading the book/ website.

Approx 400 words; upload initial post to iLearn before 5pm on Monday of week 2. INT and EXT students contribute to discussion board about this topic on iLearn (at least two responses) before 10am Friday of week 2.

SHORT PIECE TWO

Write a short piece about ONE writer from the Macquarie/ PEN anthology whose writing was published before 1980 (it's okay if they also published some work after this date). Reflect on the biographical information provided, what you know of the context in which they wrote. Focusing on their writing published in the anthology, include your own observations about the context, language, significance and insights of their writing.

Approx 400 words; upload to iLearn before 5pm on Monday of week 4. INT and EXT students contribute to discussion board about this topic on iLearn (at least two responses).

SHORT PIECE THREE

Taking it to the people. Decide on a public venue for your insights into Indigenous Australian Literature: Wikipedia; an amazon.com review; a 'comments' section or a blog or website; a poster or handout; a facebook quiz; a contribution to a church or school newsletter; or come up with another idea (run it past me first – and keep it legal!).

Document this somehow (upload a copy of what you did/ provide photographs or other evidence/ etc) and upload to iLearn before 10am on Friday of week 7. INT and EXT students contribute to discussion board about this topic on iLearn (at least two responses).
We will discuss the expectation of this assignment in depth before the semester break.

SHORT PIECE FOUR
Pick one character from Butterfly Song and imagine you are going to go and meet them for lunch. Choose ONE text (poem, short story, essay) from our course which you would like take along to recommend to that character; explain why.

Approx 400 words; upload to iLearn before 10am on Monday of week 10. INT “and” EXT students contribute to discussion board about this topic on iLearn (at least two responses).

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
- Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Short essay about a poem
Due: Week 6
Weighting: 20%

Write a 1000 word essay about ONE poem from the Macquarie anthology. We will discuss the expectations of this assignment in more detail in class.

This isn’t a long formal essay: it’s a close reading. You are not required to do any research although if you would like to look up specific terms in dictionaries or other reference works, or look for a bit more contextual information to understand the poem, that's fine.

Submit a copy of your text, with all of your annotations and notes scrawled over it, along with your 1000 word essay via Turnitin by 10am on Monday of week 6.

(If you are not comfortable with scanning and uploading, feel free to bring the annotated copy of your text to class.)

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
- Discuss key features of Indigenous Australian literature (written creative texts produced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders).
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.
Essay about a novel
Due: week 13
Weighting: 30%

Write a 2500 word essay about ONE of the three novels we have read in this unit. Drawing on critical work we have read in class, and our classroom and tutorial discussions, focus on ONE aspect of the novel. We will spend time preparing for this in class, including selection of a book and possible aspects you could choose for your specific focus.

Submit the essay via turnitin by 10am on Friday of week 13.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Discuss key features of Indigenous Australian literature (written creative texts produced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders).
• Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
• Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
• Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Participation and engagement
Due: week 13
Weighting: 10%
In this unit, 10% of your final grade will be made up of your active participation (5%) and engagement (5%).

Active participation looks like this:

* Attend all weekly classes (if you are an INT student) OR participate in all weekly online tutorial discussions (if you are an EXT student).
* Turn in all assessment on time.

Active engagement looks like this:

* Actively engage in all of these sessions: come prepared (having read all required readings for that week); have a question or idea about the readings to share with classmates; be an active member of the class (either face to face or on iLearn); read beyond the required readings; inform me ahead of time if you are unable to participate during a specific period of time and suggest a way to make up for your non-participation.

Please note that talking without listening is not engagement; listening to classmates and responding to their ideas and questions is engagement.

If there is any reason you are not able to participate or engage at any time throughout the semester, please let me know by email or come and see me during my office hours. It is always better, where possible, to let me know ahead of time if you are unable to participate or engage.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

• Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Delivery and Resources

Required books will be available through the campus bookshop (Coop) or can be accessed from libraries or other booksellers. You MUST access all required readings in order to read them; but you are more than welcome to borrow books if you are trying to keep costs down. All required readings will be available in the MQ library.

* Anita Heiss & Peter Minter Macquarie PEN anthology of Aboriginal Literature
* Kim Scott Benang
* Terri Janke Butterfly Song
* Tara June Winch Swallow the Air
We will also read some critical pieces throughout semester. Information on how to access these will be on iLearn.

Graduate Capabilities
Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking
We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes
- Discuss key features of Indigenous Australian literature (written creative texts produced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders).
- Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks
- Short essay about a poem
- Essay about a novel

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills
Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Discuss key features of Indigenous Australian literature (written creative texts produced by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders).
- Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks

- Four short pieces
- Short essay about a poem
- Essay about a novel

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.
Assessment tasks

• Short essay about a poem
• Essay about a novel

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
• Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
• Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks

• Four short pieces
• Essay about a novel

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
• Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks

• Four short pieces
Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Assessment tasks

• Four short pieces
• Short essay about a poem
• Essay about a novel
• Participation and engagement

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation’s historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
• Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.
• Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks

• Four short pieces
• Essay about a novel
• Participation and engagement
Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Articulate the place of Indigenous Australian literature in relation to Indigenous Studies, Australian literature, and comparative Indigenous literary studies.
- Critically consider specific texts by Indigenous Australian people in the light of the above understandings.

Assessment tasks

- Four short pieces
- Essay about a novel
- Participation and engagement

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Demonstrate an understanding of relevant literary traditions, histories of interaction colonisation and nationalism, various creative art forms, and the politics of publication and anthologising in Australia.

Assessment tasks

- Four short pieces
- Participation and engagement
