Unit description

This unit explores the foundations of and recent developments in the sociology of education and examines links to teaching and learning and other relevant workplace learning contexts. The seminars explore topical research findings in several areas including the equality and disadvantage in education, global competition, markets and regulation in education, and education and work. The unit will also explore the research methods: ethnography, discourse and contextual analysis. The learning tasks will develop skills in understanding approaches to research and the way in which research problems are identified, described and investigated in this discipline.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Understanding of traditional concerns in the sociology of education

Understanding of contemporary concerns relating to: Inequality and disadvantage in education, markets and regulation in education, and global trends shaping education

Understanding of research methods relevant to the sociology of education, particularly:

Ethnography and narrative inquiry

Cognitive skills to demonstrate mastery of theoretical knowledge, to reflect critically on theory for professional practice and/or scholarship

Cognitive, technical and creative skills to investigate, analyse and synthesise complex information, problems, concepts and theories and apply to established theories of different bodies of knowledge or practice

Cognitive, technical and creative skills to generate and evaluate complex ideas and concepts at an abstract level

Communication and technical research skills to justify and interpret theoretical propositions, methodologies, conclusions and professional decisions to specialist and non-specialist audiences

Delivery and Resources

Scholarly articles for critical review are identified on the iLearn unit website. These articles are also relevant in preparing the essays on educational disadvantage, and markets and competition in education. For the section on Global trends shaping education an OECD (2016) document, available on-line will be used.

Podcasts will be created each week and will be available by 7:30PM on Tuesday of that week. On the weeks when a seminar is held, the podcast will be a recording of that seminar presentation.
