Unit description

This unit will house International Criminal Law. This unit will address the history, sources and development of international criminal law, as well as the political dynamic influencing its operation. A range of international criminal courts will be examined, taking into account their interaction with national courts and others actors in the international system. Students will further gain an understanding of the substantive crimes (genocide, war crimes, crimes against humanity and aggression) and substantive principles (such as defences, immunities and forms of responsibility) in this area of international law, as well as the relevant procedural law. Previous study of LAW459 International Law is required for permission to enrol in the unit.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.

Identify sources of international criminal law.

Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems

Explain and critique the substantive crimes punishable under international law, including genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and aggression.

Explain and critique the different modes of individual criminal responsibility in international criminal law and circumstances excluding individual criminal liability. Critically analyse the importance and content of procedural law applicable to international criminal proceedings, including fair trial rights and basic rules of procedure and evidence.

Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios. Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

General Assessment Information

Moderation

Detailed marking rubrics will be made available on iLearn. All Fail papers are double marked.

Late assignments

In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word limits

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked.

Electronic submission

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Research essay	50%	8/01/17 at 5pm
Legal advice	50%	21/01/2017 at 5pm

Research essay

Due: 8/01/17 at 5pm

Weighting: 50%

Students will be provided with a choice of three essay questions, of which you will need to answer only one. In answering one of the three questions, students should focus on independent writing and independent legal research. Students should also consider and reference both primary and secondary sources.

Word limit: 2,500 (excluding footnotes. Note that footnotes must not contain substantive discussion). Word limits will be strictly enforced.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.
- Identify sources of international criminal law.
- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems
- Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios.
- Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

Legal advice

Due: 21/01/2017 at 5pm

Weighting: 50%

This assessment consists of a number of questions upon which you will be asked to provide legal advice. The content will be based on material covered across the whole course.

The legal advice will be available from 5 pm on Tuesday 17 January 2017 and is due by 5 pm on Saturday 21 January 2017.

This assessment is designed to be completed in approximately 10 hours. I have allowed a four day window to accommodate student and work timetables and for students who require reasonable adjustments to the timing of assessments.

Total word limit: 2,000 words (excluding footnotes. Note that footnotes must not contain substantive discussion). Word limits will be strictly enforced.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.
- Identify sources of international criminal law.
- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems
- Explain and critique the substantive crimes punishable under international law, including genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes and aggression.
- Explain and critique the different modes of individual criminal responsibility in international criminal law and circumstances excluding individual criminal liability.
- Critically analyse the importance and content of procedural law applicable to international criminal proceedings, including fair trial rights and basic rules of procedure and evidence.

- Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios.
- Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

Delivery and Resources

Resources

Prescribed text

There is one prescribed text for this unit:

- R Cryer, H Friman, D Robinson and E Wilmshurst, An Introduction to International Criminal Law and Procedure (Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, 3rd Ed. 2014).

A Reading List will be available on iLearn.

Recommended Texts

The following texts are recommended:

- A Cassese, G Acquaviva, M Fan and A Whiting, International Criminal Law Cases & Commentary (Oxford University Press, Oxford, 2011).
- W Schabas, An Introduction to the International Criminal Court (Cambridge University Press, Cambridge, 4th Ed. 2011).
- A Cassese, International Criminal Law (Oxford University Press, Oxford, 3rd Ed. 2013)
- A Cassese, The Oxford Companion to International Criminal Justice (Oxford University Press, Oxford, 2009).

These texts have all been placed on Reserve at the Library.

Lectures

There are 10 topics in this unit.

All lectures will be pre-recorded and uploaded via the EchoCentre on the unit iLearn page.

- The lectures for topics 1 to 4 will be released via the EchoCentre on 5 December 2016.
- The lectures for topic 5 will be released via the EchoCentre on 12 December 2016.
- The lectures for topics 6 to 10 will be released via the EchoCentre on 19 December 2016.

Students are expected to have listened to all of the lectures prior to the on-campus sessions in January 2017.

On campus sessions

You must attend an on-campus session for this unit. The on-campus session runs for two consecutive days, from 9am to 4pm on each day. Students are expected to attend both days of the on-campus session.

You may attend the on-campus session on 14-15 January 2017 (OCS 1), or 16-17 January 2017 (OCS 2). You only need to attend OCS 1 or OCS 2, not both.

The on-campus sessions will be run as seminars, engaging students in discussion in relation to the particular issues addressed. During the on campus session a number of hypothetical problem questions will also be discussed, that is, applying the knowledge learned in the lectures in relation to particular factual settings.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems
- Critically analyse the importance and content of procedural law applicable to international criminal proceedings, including fair trial rights and basic rules of procedure and evidence.

- Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios.
- Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

Assessment tasks

- Research essay
- Legal advice

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.
- Identify sources of international criminal law.
- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems

- Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios.
- Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

Assessment tasks

- Research essay
- Legal advice

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Describe and analyze the history and development of international criminal law, including the social and political context.

- Identify sources of international criminal law.
- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems

- Critically analyse and apply principles of international criminal law to factual scenarios.
- Prepare effective written legal analysis and arguments.

Assessment tasks

- Research essay
- Legal advice

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and critically analyse the interaction of international criminal courts and tribunals with other actors and bodies of law in the international and domestic systems
