Unit description

In this unit, we critically assess Australian politics from the perspective of political and economic history, through the lens of social power and financial interests, and drilling down into contemporary debates about economic crisis, globalisation, nationalism, environmental catastrophe and war. With this approach in mind, we examine key Australian political institutions, ideologies, and issues. What is the nature of Australia's key political institutions (the Constitution, the High Court, Federalism, Government and Parliament), and are they democratic and just? Could we live without them? What are some of the radical critiques of these institutions and the interests they serve? What is 'Australia', after all – a unified nation of peoples with shared identities and interests, or a construct that serves wealth and power by masking deep social fractures, or something else again? These questions should be seen as an entrée to Australian politics before embarking on the more in-depth companion unit PLT210. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. A sound understanding of the foundations of the Australian political system and its relationship to its global context
2. A working knowledge of the key features of Australia's main political institutions and the debates and controversies that surround them

3. Familiarity with the main political ideologies and parties that are influential in the Australian political scene
4. Development of an analytical vocabulary for better appreciating some of the more pressing contemporary issues in Australian politics

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Essay One	30%	Week 4, 23 December (11.55pm)
Major Essay	45%	Week 11, 10 February (11.55pm)
Reading Critique	10%	Multiple
Weekly Participation	15%	Ongoing

Essay One

Due: Week 4, 23 December (11.55pm)

Weighting: 30%

In this first 1000 word essay, students will have an opportunity to explore one of the key Australian political institutions that we deal with in the early weeks of the unit. Essays should be submitted via turnitin. The essay topics are available on ilearn under the assessments tab, a separate word file for the essay has also been provided. Late submissions without an extension will be penalised 1 mark out of 20 for each late day.

Choose one of the following topics, making sure to reference all of the sources that you use:

1. Does inequality represent a threat to Australian Democracy? Discuss
2. What can the Constitutional Crisis of 1975 tell us about the ambiguities in Australia's Constitution?
3. Outline the strengths and weaknesses of Federalism, and discuss the ways in which it contributes to tensions between State and Commonwealth governments in Australia.
4. Outline the key differences between the Commonwealth House of Representatives and the Senate, and discuss whether or not the latter enhances or curtails democracy.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. A sound understanding of the foundations of the Australian political system and its relationship to its global context
- 2. A working knowledge of the key features of Australia's main political institutions and the debates and controversies that surround them

- 3. Familiarity with the main political ideologies and parties that are influential in the Australian political scene

Major Essay

Due: Week 11, 10 February (11.55pm)

Weighting: 45%

Write 2000 words, +/- 10%, on one of the following topics:

1. Both major political parties in Australia have a policy of mandatory detention for “unauthorized boat arrivals.” Outline the origins of this bi-partisan policy, and provide arguments either for or against its continuation.
2. There has been much recent talk about the politicization of Australia’s federal public service. Discuss
3. What are the key elements of “economic rationalism,” and how have they impacted on Australia over the past three decades?
4. How, if at all, has Australia’s High Court contributed to indigenous people securing land rights? Discuss in relation to the High Court’s Mabo judgment
5. What have been the consequences of political professionalization on Australian politics?
6. What political and electoral challenges does the contemporary Liberal Party face?
7. What political and electoral challenges does the contemporary Labor party face?
8. Outline the political challenges that environmentalists face in Australia today
9. Marxists argue that political and economic change in Australia over recent decades can be best understood through the lens of social class and capitalism. Discuss
10. Can Australian foreign policy be simply understood as being a lapdog to the US?

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. A sound understanding of the foundations of the Australian political system and its relationship to its global context
- 2. A working knowledge of the key features of Australia's main political institutions and the debates and controversies that surround them
- 3. Familiarity with the main political ideologies and parties that are influential in the Australian political scene

Reading Critique

Due: Mutiple

Weighting: 10%

Chose one of the additional readings and write a 500 word analysis about it. There is no need to reference or include a bibliography. Post your reading critique in the relevant weekly forum as a word document so other students have an opportunity to look at it

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. A sound understanding of the foundations of the Australian political system and its relationship to its global context
- 4. Development of an analytical vocabulary for better appreciating some of the more pressing contemporary issues in Australian politics

Weekly Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 15%

Post at least one 100-250 word response to the weekly questions. One student should start a forum thread and include their answer; then others may also respond. Do not create more than one forum thread for each question.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. A sound understanding of the foundations of the Australian political system and its relationship to its global context
- 2. A working knowledge of the key features of Australia's main political institutions and the debates and controversies that surround them
- 3. Familiarity with the main political ideologies and parties that are influential in the Australian political scene
- 4. Development of an analytical vocabulary for better appreciating some of the more pressing contemporary issues in Australian politics

Delivery and Resources

Welcome to POIX101, Australian Politics in Global Context. Australian politics has undergone rapid change over the past three decades. The relative stability of the post-war era has given way to a political and social landscape of accelerated transformation. Previously taken-for-granted values are challenged, once stable institutions are destabilised, and the very idea of an Australian political community (what it is, who it encompasses, and the future directions it should take) is the subject of fierce controversy. These political tremors have been expressed most acutely in the rise of and subsequent challenges to multiculturalism, and in the neo-liberal restructuring of key Australian institutions, with an attendant growth of inequality.

In this course, we introduce Australian politics through the lens of debates about globalization and its consequences for state capacities, sovereignty and decision-making. In so doing, we examine key political institutions, ideologies and contemporary issues. We explore the ways in which they been affected by, and have also filtered the effects of, accelerated globalization.

Amongst other questions, we ask: what is globalization and how, if at all, has it blurred the boundaries between 'domestic' and 'foreign' policy issues; what is the nature of Australia's key political institutions, and do they ensure a high degree of democratic participation and accountability in a global era; what are the strengths and weaknesses of the main political ideas that inform public debate in this country, and how are they expressed in political struggle between the main parties?

In trying to answer these questions, we will follow readings from the prescribed text book quite closely. Hence it is essential for all students to purchase a copy from the university bookshop:

Narelle Miragliotta, Wayne Errington and Nicholas Barry (2013) The Australian Political System in Action (2nd edn.) South Melbourne: Oxford University Press.

To do well in this unit it is imperative that students listen to all lectures and contribute to the discussion board on iLearn. You will enjoy the unit much more if you do. Beyond the prescribed text, I will also be recommending additional supplementary readings as we go. Students will also find the following resources useful:

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure (<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.
