<tbody>
<tr>
<td>In this unit students undertake a detailed study of key Family Law provisions and cases and analyse the law within an interdisciplinary theoretical framework. This approach of developing doctrinal analysis within a theoretical framework challenges the conventional boundaries of family law as found in the main texts on family law in Australia. It will enable students to critically examine the understanding of familial relations and their place in society which underpin the law. In addition to understanding the laws related to different aspects of family this unit is designed to enable students to assess what is the function of family law and what changes, if any, are needed.</td>

Learning Outcomes

1. Explain and evaluate links between sociological, historical, philosophical and political perspectives on the family and developments in areas of family law.
2. Reflect and analyse how multidisciplinary ideas about the family shape family laws and critically analyse how these policies and laws regulate family life.
3. Critically evaluate the conception of family law as a means of dispute resolution and judge the implications of the move towards alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.
4. Understand legal principles of Family Law (statute and case law) and critically evaluate the role of law reform in the area of Family Law in relation to gender and racial inequalities in society.
5. Communicate arguments related to the area of Family Law effectively in written and verbal form appropriate to a range of audiences.
6. Conduct sophisticated independent research in theoretical and doctrinal knowledge relevant to family issues.

Research Essay
Due: 18th/25th April 2016
Weighting: 40%

Formulate a research topic based on Lectures 1-6 and related readings.

Research: Students may use the prescribed readings but are expected to research beyond these materials. Each person must determine for themselves how many additional references they need to support the development of their argument. The essay will not be assessed on how much research has been done, but on how well the research materials are used to advance the argument.

The maximum word length is 2500 words. The tutors will stop reading an assignment after it exceeds this word limit.

Footnotes and Bibliography are not included in the word count.

Footnotes and Bibliography are required in AGLC style. Referencing that does not follow the AGLC style will be penalised.

All assignments should be submitted through the turnitin icon on the ilearn page of this unit.

Delivery and Resources

Delivery:

The unit is structured around a two hour lecture each week and one hour tutorial for the day students. For the distance students 12 prerecorded lectures will be available through the iLearn page of the unit and students must attend a two day compulsory on campus session.

Attendance at 80% of tutorials for day students and at the OCS for distance students is compulsory.

Lectures and Tutorials commence in Week One of the semester. Lectures will be recorded and available through echo360 on iLearn.

Students will be required to use a computer to interact with online research databases and web based research tools.

Students should check iLearn regularly for announcements and updates.

Resources:

The Unit is structured around selected and edited readings. These readings are available electronically through the the library. The iLearn page of the unit will provide the list of readings for each week.

Occasionally additional Readings will be available on iLearn.

Students will need access to a computer that gives them access to the internet and they can use for word processing.

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and evaluate links between sociological, historical, philosophical and political perspectives on the family and developments in areas of family law.
- Reflect and analyse how multidisciplinary ideas about the family shape family laws and critically analyse how these policies and laws regulate family life.
- Critically evaluate the conception of family law as a means of dispute resolution and judge the implications of the move towards alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.
- Understand legal principles of Family Law (statute and case law) and critically evaluate the role of law reform in the area of Family Law in relation to gender and racial inequalities in society.
- Communicate arguments related to the area of Family Law effectively in written and verbal form appropriate to a range of audiences.
- Conduct sophisticated independent research in theoretical and doctrinal knowledge relevant to family issues.

Assessment tasks

- Class Participation
- Research Essay
- Take Home Assessment Task
PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and evaluate links between sociological, historical, philosophical and political perspectives on the family and developments in areas of family law.
- Reflect and analyse how multidisciplinary ideas about the family shape family laws and critically analyse how these policies and laws regulate family life.
- Critically evaluate the conception of family law as a means of dispute resolution and judge the implications of the move towards alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.
- Understand legal principles of Family Law (statute and case law) and critically evaluate the role of law reform in the area of Family Law in relation to gender and racial inequalities in society.
- Conduct sophisticated independent research in theoretical and doctrinal knowledge relevant to family issues.

- Research Essay
- Take Home Assessment Task

PG - Research and Problem Solving Capability

Our postgraduates will be capable of systematic enquiry; able to use research skills to create new knowledge that can be applied to real world issues, or contribute to a field of study or practice to enhance society. They will be capable of creative questioning, problem finding and problem solving.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Reflect and analyse how multidisciplinary ideas about the family shape family laws and critically analyse how these policies and laws regulate family life.
- Critically evaluate the conception of family law as a means of dispute resolution and judge the implications of the move towards alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.
• Conduct sophisticated independent research in theoretical and doctrinal knowledge relevant to family issues.

Assessment tasks

• Research Essay
• Take Home Assessment Task

PG - Effective Communication

Our postgraduates will be able to communicate effectively and convey their views to different social, cultural, and professional audiences. They will be able to use a variety of technologically supported media to communicate with empathy using a range of written, spoken or visual formats.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Reflect and analyse how multidisciplinary ideas about the family shape family laws and critically analyse how these policies and laws regulate family life.
• Understand legal principles of Family Law (statute and case law) and critically evaluate the role of law reform in the area of Family Law in relation to gender and racial inequalities in society.

PG - Engaged and Responsible, Active and Ethical Citizens

Our postgraduates will be ethically aware and capable of confident transformative action in relation to their professional responsibilities and the wider community. They will have a sense of connectedness with others and country and have a sense of mutual obligation. They will be able to appreciate the impact of their professional roles for social justice and inclusion related to national and global issues.

This graduate capability is supported by:
Learning outcomes

- Explain and evaluate links between sociological, historical, philosophical and political perspectives on the family and developments in areas of family law.
- Understand legal principles of Family Law (statute and case law) and critically evaluate the role of law reform in the area of Family Law in relation to gender and racial inequalities in society.
- Conduct sophisticated independent research in theoretical and doctrinal knowledge relevant to family issues.

Assessment task

- Research Essay

PG - Capable of Professional and Personal Judgment and Initiative

Our postgraduates will demonstrate a high standard of discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgment. They will have the ability to make informed choices and decisions that reflect both the nature of their professional work and their personal perspectives.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Explain and evaluate links between sociological, historical, philosophical and political perspectives on the family and developments in areas of family law.
- Critically evaluate the conception of family law as a means of dispute resolution and judge the implications of the move towards alternative dispute resolution mechanisms.
