Unit description

In this unit we examine systems of global governance and question whether law and other instruments of governance can protect and provide for human rights. We examine Australia's place in the international law system and discuss law, rights and institutions in relation to socio-political and economic issues including questions of self-determination, indigenous rights, sexuality and free speech. In multidisciplinary teams students will be mentored to develop a major socio-legal reform submission addressing challenges for human rights, democracy and justice. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.
4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

General Assessment Information

Disruption of Studies

In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word Limit

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limits will not be marked.

Submission of Assessments

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Moderation of Assessments

Detailed marking rubrics will be made available on iLearn. Markers in this unit undertake a process of 'blind marking' to establish a common marking standard and all Fail papers are double marked.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Participation	10%	Ongoing
Referencing Exercise	15%	Week 7
Essay	40%	Week 11
Final Assessment	35%	Week 13

Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Students will be required to participate in the online forums and demonstrate that they have engaged with the set readings. You are judged on your contribution to class discussion and group work.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.

Referencing Exercise

Due: Week 7

Weighting: 15%

Students will be required to identify appropriate sources (journal articles, books, media sources, government reports and so on) related to current debates in human rights, law and global governance, and produce an annotated bibliography.

Detailed instructions regarding this assessment task will be provided on Ilearn and outlined in the lectures.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
- 6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

Essay

Due: Week 11

Weighting: 40%

Choose a group of people who are affected by a human rights issue relevant to the course material and explain the ways in which the human rights of the vulnerable group are at risk, being threatened, or not protected in Australia.

In your essay you should identify the various international treaties that are relevant to the vulnerable groups human rights situation, include an assessment of the Australian political context, and a discussion of relevant existing national legislation. At the end of your paper you can make some recommendations about what could be done to enhance protection of the human rights of the vulnerable group. More information about the essay can be found on iLearn and will be included in the lecture material.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
- 6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

Final Assessment

Due: Week 13

Weighting: 35%

Students will be required to demonstrate their knowledge of the material canvassed by writing three short essays.

Detailed instructions regarding the time allowed for the final assessment will be provided on iLearn and outlined in the lectures/tutorials.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.

Delivery and Resources

This unit requires students to attend or listen online (through Echo360) a weekly one-hour lecture and participation in the online forums.

Before listening to the weekly live lecture, students are required to access the unit's iLearn page to review online content such as videos (of approximately one hour) and read assigned readings (available through e-reserve linked through iLearn)

Student workload, in accordance with university guidelines, is 3 hours per credit point per week

(over a 15 week term), and can be estimated as follows:

24 hours - attendance of lectures and tutorials

50 hours - readings, review of online content and self-study

61 hours - assessment tasks

135 hours total

Students will be required to use a computer to interact with online research databases and web-based research tools. This unit's ilearn page will also contain additional lessons with multimedia content to facilitate learning.

Policies and Procedures

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure \(https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration\)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

OUA Specific Policies and Procedures

Withdrawal from a unit after the census date

You can withdraw from your subjects prior to the census date (last day to withdraw). If you successfully withdraw before the census date, you won't need to apply for Special Circumstances. If you find yourself unable to withdraw from your subjects before the census date - you might be able to apply for Special Circumstances. If you're eligible, we can refund your fees and overturn your fail grade.

If you're studying Single Subjects using FEE-HELP or paying up front, you can apply online.

If you're studying a degree using HECS-HELP, you'll need to apply directly to Macquarie University.

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
- 6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

Assessment tasks

- Participation
- Essay

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
- 6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

Assessment task

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.

- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.

Assessment task

- Participation

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.

- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.
- 6. Develop a practical law-reform project associated with a key issue in human rights governance.

Assessment tasks

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.

- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Define and describe various conceptions of global governance, human rights and the role of law.
- 3. Describe the historical development of human rights principles and instruments, in the context of contemporary civil and political, and economic and social rights.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
- 5. Assess established theoretical frameworks about current responses to human rights claims, and communicate law reform and/or policy critiques effectively in written and verbal form.

Assessment task

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 2. Define and describe Australia's role in the international law system.
- 4. Critique key views concerning the governance of human rights associated with indigenous rights, self-determination, sexuality, free speech and refugee rights.
