Unit description

Many students think they can produce good translation in Chinese if they are proficient in both English and Chinese, but professional translators need special skills to achieve effective translation. This unit introduces useful translation theories and skills and encourages their use in translation practice. Students will analyse various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text. Students will learn how to conduct Chinese translation which meets the needs of Chinese readers. They will develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation. Students will also become familiar with translation procedure and be able to identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Understand the main translation theories

Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice

Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text

Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation

Translate different genres of English text into Chinese

Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Due
Class participation	10%	every week
Weekly Translation	50%	every week
presentation	10%	A Week by choice on ilearn
2 Reflective journals	10%	Week 7 and 13
Final test	20%	week 13

Class participation

Due: every week

Weighting: 10%

Class attendance and participation in discussion is required. Participation will be marked on attendance, willingness to participate in class discussion, preparation and performance of reading and responding to questions. Students are expected to be well prepared in order to participate in class discussion – this will ensure good use of class time as well as improving your learning skills and sharing your knowledge with others. Class attendance and participation is expected and will be part of the assessment. This means you not only come and sign in the class but come well prepared and participate in class discussion. You need to reflect on your assignments and think about the translation issues you have encountered and share your thought with others. Your marks for class attendance and performance will be determined by a) Whether you attend class regularly or not; b) How much effort you have taken to prepare for the class; c) How actively you participate in class discussion; and d) How helpful your comments are on the work of our fellow students.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation

- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Weekly Translation

Due: every week

Weighting: 50%

There will be 1 weekly translation assignment (from English into Chinese) available on iLearn every week from week 2 to week 11. You are required to submit each of your translation assignments on time through iLearn assignment entry. It is strongly suggested that you write annotations for your translation assignments, which can contribute to both your in-class presentation and your reflective journals (see the tasks below).

Your marks will be determined by but not limited to: 1) your understanding of the source language text; 2) grammar in your translation; 3) idiomatic usage in your translation; 4) meaning and word choice in your translation; 5) style and tone in your translation. Students will only be granted extensions/special consideration with valid reasons (eg., serious and unavoidable disruption from completing any unit requirements in accordance with their ability.) Work that is submitted late will be subjected to an assessment penalty if an extension has not been granted. Please check the late submissions section of the unit guide.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

presentation

Due: A Week by choice on ilearn

Weighting: 10%

There will be one individual in class presentation. In the beginning of the semester, by the end of week 2, you will be asked to choose one weekly assignment to present the problems you meet in doing the translation.

Late submission policy will be applied if you fail to register a presentation topic by the due time set on iLearn. Please check the Late submissions section of this unit guide.

You are expected to share your experiences in dealing with translation problems when doing your assignments. Your oral presentations are expected to be 5-8 minutes each. You have to finish your presentation within the time limit or marks will be deducted. You should be prepared that the rest of the class will raise questions.

When preparing your presentation, you may wish to consider the following questions:

- 1) What are the functions of the source language texts?
- 2) What difficulties do you have in understanding the source language text?
- 3) What difficulties do you have in finding equivalent expressions in Chinese?
- 4) What kinds of translation strategies do you use in your translation?
- 5) What factors do you consider in finding equivalent expressions in Chinese?

After the in class presentation, you need to submit a presentation report through iLearn by the end of the week you do the presentation.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the main translation theories
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

2 Reflective journals

Due: Week 7 and 13

Weighting: 10%

You are required to hand in two 500-word reflective journals in English. This task aims to learn how to justify your translation decisions. The journals should contain problems identified, possible solutions and the decision in selecting the best solution. You are allowed to use same examples used in your presentations. However, journals are written assignments, it should cover the issues from more than one of your translation assignments, and your language skills will be taken into account in the mark of this task. These assignments should be your own original work. Plagiarism is not acceptable (For further information and advice, see www.student.mq.edu.au/plagiarism). Students will only be granted extensions/special consideration with valid reasons (eg., serious and unavoidable disruption from completing any unit requirements in accordance with their ability.) Work that is submitted late will be subjected to an assessment penalty if an extension has not been granted. Please check the late submissions section of the unit guide.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the main translation theories
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Final test

Due: week 13

Weighting: 20%

There will be a final test for this unit in week 13. During the end-semester test, you are to translate one approximately 350-400 word text from English into Chinese and to answer an ethics question for professional translators. You will have 2 hours to translate the text and to answer the question. Any paper based and dictionaries are allowed in the examination.

The only exception to not sitting an examination at the designated time is because of documented illness or unavoidable disruption. In these circumstances you may wish to consider applying for Special Consideration. Information about unavoidable disruption and the special consideration process is available under the Extension and Special Consideration section of this Unit Guide. It should also be stressed that failing to turn up for exams without prior notification to (WITH DOCUMENTATION) and obtaining approval from the lecturers for resitting the exams will mean that the students have forgone (that is, given up the opportunity to sit for) the exams. In which case, no supplementary exams can be arranged.

If a Supplementary Examination is granted as a result of the Special Consideration process, the examination will be scheduled after the conclusion of the official examination period. Individual Departments should contact the Associate Dean Learning and Teaching to confirm when Supplementaries are scheduled.

You are advised that it is Macquarie University policy not to set early examinations for individuals or groups of students. All students are expected to ensure that they are available until the end of the teaching semester, that is the final day of the official examination period.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Assessment tasks

- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Assessment tasks

- Class participation
- Weekly Translation
- presentation
- 2 Reflective journals
- Final test

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese

- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Assessment tasks

- Class participation
- Weekly Translation
- presentation
- 2 Reflective journals

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the main translation theories
- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate key translation skills in English-Chinese translation practice
- Analyze various English texts to identify the genre, style, register and potential reader of the text
- Develop awareness of the cultural and social factors that contribute to effective translation
- Translate different genres of English text into Chinese
- Identify and solve problems when translating from English into Chinese

Assessment tasks

- Class participation
- Weekly Translation
- presentation
- 2 Reflective journals

late submissions

Late assignment policy – International Studies, 11 December 2012

Assignments are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason (e.g. medical certificate). Late submissions will be penalised by 5% for each day (including weekends) the assignment task is late. No assignments will be accepted after assignments have been corrected and feedback has been provided. Assignment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date.
