Unit description

This unit aims at providing students with a general knowledge of the historical tradition and transition of Japan. The unit begins in ancient Japan and continues through the major periods of Japanese history until the present day. For each period, the key individuals, groups, events and developments, along with the important issues and concepts, will be introduced. Topics covered include the Japanese imperial court and emperors, the rule of the samurai, Japan's national isolation and subsequent modernisation, and WWII and its related events and issues. The underlying theme of the unit will be to examine the links between Japan's history and the Japan of today. This unit is conducted in English and is open to students of any Faculty interested in Japan.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate detailed knowledge of Japanese history.

Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history. Present information in a clear, focused, well-structured manner, displaying academic rigour, both orally and in writing.

Demonstrate initiative and competence in research, including locating relevant and appropriate resources, and use of correct referencing procedure.

Demonstrate a high level of interpersonal skills through class participation.

General Assessment Information

Late Submissions, Extensions and Supplementary Tests

Assessment tasks are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason (e.g. medical certificate). Late submissions will be penalised by 5% for each day (including weekends) the assessment task is late. A request for a supplementary test will be considered only in the case of serious illness or disruption. No assessment tasks will be accepted after assessment tasks have been corrected and feedback has been provided. Assessment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date. If you anticipate unavoidable difficulty in completing an assessment task (in class and/or online), contact the convener or your tutor as soon as possible.

Disruption to Studies

If a student is prevented by serious and unavoidable disruption from completing unit requirements in accordance with their ability, they may apply for support under the Disruption to Studies Policy. To access this support, students must notify the university via ask.mq.edu.au. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies Policy for further information (see the link provided in the 'Policies and procedures' section of this unit guide).

Participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 15%

Participation refers to much more than simply being in attendance. Students must consistently demonstrate their commitment to the course by being punctual and well prepared for all classes. Participation marks are also gained through active involvement during the class, demonstrated by asking and answering questions, participating constructively in activities as required, and showing consideration for the teaching staff and other students by behaving in a mature and co-operative manner. The assessment rubric for Participation is available in iLearn.

There will also be a compulsory online discussion component in Weeks 5 and 7 in lieu of class attendance due to public holidays falling on a Monday in those weeks.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate detailed knowledge of Japanese history.
- Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history.
- Present information in a clear, focused, well-structured manner, displaying academic rigour, both orally and in writing.
- Demonstrate a high level of interpersonal skills through class participation.

Online Test 1

Due: 13 March

Weighting: 5%

This is a low risk assessment task designed to test your understanding of the unit content, as well as your critical thinking and academic writing skills. Questions will be based on the unit content from Week 1 to Week 2. You are advised to revise the content of the lectures, tutorials and essential readings. The test may include the following question types: multiple choice, true/false, short response and medium response.

This test will be completed via iLearn. It will be available from 5pm Monday 7 March, 2016 until 11:59pm Sunday 13 March, 2016. Once you start the test you must complete and submit it within one hour.

Further information on this test will be provided in tutorials and iLearn. The assessment rubric for this task is available in iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate detailed knowledge of Japanese history.
- Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history.

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate detailed knowledge of Japanese history.
- Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history.
- Present information in a clear, focused, well-structured manner, displaying academic rigour, both orally and in writing.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history.
- Present information in a clear, focused, well-structured manner, displaying academic rigour, both orally and in writing.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate detailed knowledge of Japanese history.
- Generate reasoned, considered and original analysis and evaluation of key individuals, groups and events, as well as of important concepts and issues, in Japanese history.
