Unit description

This unit provides an introduction to the legal rules, fundamental principles and institutional framework of trade transactions at international level. The aim of this unit is to acquaint students with the legal regime governing international trade in goods, services and intellectual property rights (IPRs). It focuses on key World Trade Organisation (WTO) agreements and provides insights into some major concepts, principles and rules of international trade law. It also examines the scope, functions and efficiency of the WTO. The interaction of international trade, investment and monetary issues and the interplay of global trade law, politics and international relations in regulating these issues are covered in this unit. Topics addressed include evolution and institutionalisation of international trade law, fundamental principles and exceptions to the GATT-WTO legal regime, trade in goods, services (GATS) and intellectual property rights (TRIPS), rules on regional and bilateral preferential trade arrangements, trade remedies such as safeguards, anti-dumping and countervailing measures, and the WTO dispute settlement mechanism. It also encompasses major critical analysis of contemporary issues such as the legal protection of foreign direct investment, labour standards, environment and human rights, which are substantially interlinked with the regulation of international trade.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

- Understand the origin, development and contemporary institutional arrangements of global trade;
- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Participation	10%	No	Ongoing
Presentation	20%	No	Ongoing
Media Assignment	20%	No	End of Week 9
Research Assignment	50%	No	Thursday of Week 13

Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Class participation does not necessarily mean mere physical attendance in a seminar. Students are expected to display knowledge that they have completed the required reading for a seminar, and are prepared to ask and answer questions on scheduled topics. Class participation will include a student's engagement in a class.

See the Assessment Guide on iLearn for Detailed Criteria and Information on Class Participation.

Penalty:

Other than where a relevant application pursuant to the Disruption to Studies policy is approved, if a student attends less than 50% of the allotted seminars the total available mark for participation will be reduced by 50%.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the origin, development and contemporary institutional arrangements of global trade;
- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Presentation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 20%

Students of a seminar will be divided into small groups (maximum 5-6 in a group). All groups are required to give a short presentation (10 - 15 minutes) on a pre-selected topic in every week. It is a mandatory requirement that one student will deliver and represent their group presentation in every week and each student of the group has to deliver at least one presentation in the seminar. Presentation will start from week 3 and topics will be posted on iLearn from week 2. Students are also free to choose their own topics after consulting with the class teacher.

See the Assessment Guide on iLearn for Detailed Criteria and Information on Presentation.

Penalty:

No extensions will be granted. Students who have not completed the assessment task in accordance with the required time-frame will be awarded a mark of 0 for the task, except for cases in which an application for disruption of studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the origin, development and contemporary institutional arrangements of global trade;
- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;

- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;

Media Assignment

Due: End of Week 9

Weighting: 20%

Students are required to identify and make an independent analysis of any concurrent global or regional trade-related problem/issue that is reported in any news-media, article or journal. They are required to examine the problem/issue and give their own opinion to resolve it in the light of global trade laws that are covered in this unit.

See the Assessment Guide on iLearn for Detailed Assessment Criteria.

Penalty:

No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for disruption of studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Research Assignment

Due: Thursday of Week 13

Weighting: 50%

Students are required to select their respective topics from the sample trade-related topics posted on iLearn. Students may choose a topic of their own interest but that must be approved by the lecturer first. Students MUST NOT start working on a research assignment on any unapproved and/or unlisted topic.

Assignment topics will be posted on iLearn during semester time.

See the Assessment Guide on iLearn for Detailed Assessment Criteria.

Penalty:

No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for disruption of studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Delivery and Resources

Unit Structure and Requirements

Students are required to attend a 3 hour seminar session in each week. The lecture part of the seminar will be recorded on ECHO360. The sequencing of seminar program and the unit contents will allow students to develop gradually the understanding of global trade law as the unit progresses.

Note that besides regular class lectures and discussions on seminar topics, the seminar sessions will also cover students' presentations on scheduled topics relevant to the unit.

Students are generally expected to devote at least 150 hours for this unit. Here is a sample breakdown of workloads.

	Activities	Hours
1	Weekly Seminars (3×13)	39
2	Assessment Task 1 (self-study for class participation)	10
3	Assessment Task 2 (self-study and Presentation)	16
4	Assessment Task 3 (self-study and preparation of media assignment)	25
5	Assessment Task 4 (self-study and preparation of research assignment)	60

Total	150

Graduate Capabilities

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the origin, development and contemporary institutional arrangements of global trade;
- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Assessment tasks

- Participation
- Presentation
- Media Assignment
- Research Assignment

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the origin, development and contemporary institutional arrangements of global trade;
- Identify the tensions between legal and non-legal issues in international trade regulations;
- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Assessment tasks

- Media Assignment

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Recognize multiple aspects of trade liberalization, protectionism, fair and unfair trade practices;
- Recognize concurrent global and regional trade-related problems and issues, and the ability to provide individual opinion/solution of the problems from legal point of view;
- Critically assess and analyse international trade law principles, apply relevant laws and undertake research on trade regulatory policies.

Changes from Previous Offering

This Unit will run in a similar manner to its previous offering.

Research and Practice, Global and Sustainability

This unit addresses global and sustainability issues as direct areas of study and as necessary implications arising from the materials, assessment and academic discussion and debate in classes/seminars. We promote sustainability by developing ability in students to research and locate information within accounting discipline. We aim to provide students with an opportunity to obtain skills which will benefit them throughout their career.

The unit materials have a reference list at the end of each chapter/module/text containing all references cited by the author. These provide some guidance to references that could be used to research particular issues.
