Unit description

This unit is concerned with the formulation and implementation of macroeconomic policy.

Topics include: measurement of the business cycle, inflation targeting, monetary policy rules, the cash rate as the instrument of monetary policy in Australia and how it is set, the impact of economic shocks and the appropriate policy response in both a closed and open economy setting, economic bubbles and the stock and housing markets, the fiscal outlook and public debt and the role of technology and ideas in generating rising living standards. Short-run economic policy will be discussed in the framework of the AD-AS model with an interest rate rule. A version of Romer's model that emphasises the role of ideas is used to explain sustained rises in living standards.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.

Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.

Source and use macroeconomic data.

Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.

Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

General Assessment Information

NOTE

To pass this unit, you do not need to pass each component of assessment. Your final score is a weighted average of all components.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Class test	30%	No	Week 7
Assignment	20%	No	Week 9
Final Examination	50%	No	University Examination Period

Class test

Due: Week 7

Weighting: 30%

The class test exam is one 1 hour 20 minutes plus 10 minutes reading time. It will be based primarily on the exercises covered in the last hour of lectures presented from weeks 1 to 6.

No material is allowed in the exam except for a non-programmable calculator.

No extensions will be granted. Students who miss the class test and are granted disruption to studies will have to sit a supplementary test (the supplementary test may be oral).

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.
- Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.

- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Assignment

Due: Week 9

Weighting: 20%

Description: Provide a short answer to questions either of an analytical nature and/or based on Australian data.

Provide a clear analytical framework in which to express your answers. You may need to reference Australian data. You do not need to provide an extensive list of references in your answers.

Submission: Submit to turnitin. Keep a copy of your assignment. The submission date will be announced on iLearn and in class.

Penalties: No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for disruption to studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.
- Source and use macroeconomic data.
- Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.
- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Final Examination

Due: University Examination Period

Weighting: 50%

Description: Two (2) hours (plus 10 minutes reading time)

To be held in the University Examination Period for Session 2, 2017.

The final exam will be based on lectures from Weeks 1 to 13 (inclusive) with an emphasis on material presented after the class test .

No material is allowed except for a non-programmable calculator.

There will be a supplementary final exam for students with approved disruption to studies.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.
- Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.
- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Delivery and Resources

Classes

There is one three-hour lecture per week. The timetable for classes can be found on the University web site at: <http://www.timetables.mq.edu.au/>

Learning and Teaching Activities

Independent learning

Learning by doing (about 7 hours each teaching week and 10 hours each week during the 2-week mid-session recess). ECON311 relies heavily on independent learning where students read the relevant chapter and assigned journal articles, revise the lecture notes, prepare answers to the assigned questions covered in the last hour of the lecture and extend themselves by doing additional reading, questions, exercises, problems and sourcing macroeconomic data.

Lectures

This unit is taught in a three hour block as a lecture. However, part of the last hour of the lecture will be allocated to working through assigned questions either from the textbook or developed by the lecturer. The purpose of this is to reinforce the material covered in the lecture. At the end of each week, solutions to the assigned questions worked through in the last hour of that weeks lecture will be posted on the unit website. Lectures are intended to provide overviews of the conceptual framework and economic data that are critical to the core themes of the unit namely, the design and implementation of macroeconomic policy in Australia and elsewhere. Students are expected to read the relevant chapters and assigned readings before each lecture.

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

Academic Honesty Policy http://mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html

Graduate Capabilities

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.
- Source and use macroeconomic data.
- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Assessment tasks

- Class test
- Assignment
- Final Examination

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.

- Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.
- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Assessment tasks

- Assignment
- Final Examination

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand macroeconomic policy in a broad and general framework.
- Understand how the current settings of monetary and fiscal policy were determined in the context of the current economic environment, evaluate the effectiveness of these policies in achieving stated economic outcomes and be able to participate to the economic policy debate in an informed way.
- Source and use macroeconomic data.
- Discuss issues in an analytical framework with reference to economic data.
- Formulate macroeconomic policy in the context of Australia as a small open economy with the rest of the world.

Assessment tasks

- Class test
- Assignment
- Final Examination

Research and Practice

This unit gives you practice in applying research findings in your assignment and provides you with the background to conduct your own research.
