Unit description

This unit introduces a theoretical framework for the analysis of intercultural communication. Some of the concepts introduced in ICOM100, such as power and discourse will be revisited and reapplied. Students will be introduced to Marshall McLuhan's notion of the global village and look at the importance of intercultural communication as part of the latest phase of globalisation. Lectures and tutorials are dedicated to the cultural, economic and political implications of intercultural communication and will address intercultural communication across university settings, in the workplace, and in the media. In this unit we expand our knowledge of international media flows and explore media image management. Approaches on how to increase social tolerance and understanding are assessed in the context of how intercultural communication may be used as a tool in conflict situations.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate basic knowledge of intercultural communication theory; key issues and concepts: culture, global village, power, interpersonal and intergroup communication, conflict and conflict management

Define cultural identity and develop empathy

Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict

Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations

Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
active engagement	25%	No	week 4
Identity Sheet	10%	No	week 7
Essay	45%	No	Week 11
Mini Essay	20%	No	week 9

active engagement

Due: week 4

Weighting: 25%

To be successful in this unit, you need to actively participate in lectures and tutorials. Marks will be awarded for active participation rather than physical presence. There will be 2 in class assessments, one in weeks 3 and 4, the other in weeks 6 and 7. In week 3, you will be divided into 3 groups. Each student of each group will individually research an aspect of the history of globalization as outlined on p. 51 in your coursebook. In week 4, each group gets together and compares notes on the events, time periods, etc, then each group draws a timeline and presents their results to the other groups. Your individual findings need to be uploaded to ilearn before class, the group summary after class.

Distinction

High Distinction

Not attempted, information not relevant, unable to contribute to group work

Some relevant info from reliable sources some input to group assignment participation in discussion

Thorough approach, appropriate info from a variety of sources leadership in discussion and group work

Excellent approach, relevant information well reflected, leadership in discussion and group work

Comprehensive results, good presentation of findings, leadership in discussion and group work, ability to include other students ideas

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate basic knowledge of intercultural communication theory; key issues and concepts: culture, global village, power, interpersonal and intergroup communication, conflict and conflict management
- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Identity Sheet

Due: week 7

Weighting: 10%

Prepare a short account about your identities. Use chapter 4 to inform yourself about avowed and ascribed identities and think about how much your own identity depends on where you are, where you grew up, your age, gender, ethnicity, etc. Your identity page needs to be brief, one page (around 300w) must suffice. Upload your identity sheet (use link on ilearn) before coming to class in week 7. In week 7, share your identity page with your group. You will be instructed how to peer review each other's work.

Delivery and Resources

Lecture: Tues 2-3 (1hour) T5

Tutorials: see student timetable

Resources: ilearn

Textbook: Sorrells, Kathryn 2016. Intercultural Communication. Globalization and Social Justice. 2nd edition, Sage.

Unit Schedule

Week 1	Introduction: Lecture Globalisation has drawn people together in complex systems, created competition for resources as well as offered amazing opportunities to traverse the world. Does an assessment of Intercultural relations help make sense of global interconnectedness? How do we negotiate the complexities of cross cultural contact? No tutorials in week one
---------------	--

Week 2	The theoretical field of intercultural relations began as an attempt to ensure contact was positive and constructive. How much does culture influence the way we see the world? Reading: Chapter 1, Definitions of Culture Tutorial: Intercultural Praxis in the Context of Globalization be prepared to explain some of the key terms listed on p. 24!
Week 3	Rethinking the concept of globalisation: what does globalisation mean for individuals and nation states? Lecture: As McLuhan explicates in his notion of the global village, there is a trend for the homogenisation of lifestyles, cities, goods and even the arts across the world. Yet billions of people continue to lead traditional lives in villages and isolated communities. Working with these people requires a real ability to negotiate deep cultural challenges. Reading: chapter 2: Understanding the Context of Globalization Tutorial: Intercultural Dimensions of Economic, Political and Cultural Globalization In preparation of week 4, students will be divided into 3 groups. Each group is assigned to research the history of globalization as outlined in your book, p. 51.
Week 4	Tutorial: The history of globalization. Each group gets together and compares notes on the events, time periods, etc. they have found in their research. Together, each group will draw a timeline. Each group presents and all three projects will be compared and discussed. This will be one of your in class assessments. Reading: chapter 2
Week 5	Gender, race, class. Lecture: physical bodies play a major role in shaping public spheres and therefore cross cultural relations. Race as a social construct functions to keep power relations in place, social class as a category seems to have been replaced by notions of equal opportunity and classless societies and gender seems to be much less important in workplaces than it used to be - or is it? Tutorial: Have a look at the discussion questions on page 74 before coming to class. Reading: Chapter 3, in particular from page 56 to page 70.
Week 6	How do the media influence our perceptions of race and ethnicity and how do perceptions of race/ethnicity shape the way we communicate across cultures? Reading: chapter 3 In preparation for week 7, write a very short account (about 1 page) about your identities. Think about avowed and ascribed identity, and how your personal identity depends on where you are, where you grew up, your age, gender, ethnicity...
Week 7	Identity and cultural space. Lecture: Are cultures still grounded in geographic location? What are the implications of changed communication modes, globalization forces and cultural identities? Tutorial: Share your thoughts about your identities, discuss avowed and ascribed identity and the notion of 'home'. Use chapter 4 to elaborate. Hand in your identity page to your tutor, it will be your second in class assessment. Reading: chapter 4

Week 8	Lecture: Travel and living in new conditions typically leave people feeling disoriented and uncertain as familiar conditions are challenged by new ways of doing things. Culture shock is the classic sign of intercultural stress – but is cultural transition a negative experience? Tutorial: Cultural transition and intercultural learning Reading: Chapter 6, Crossing Borders With your guided discussion during the tutorial in mind, write a mini essay on one of the following discussion questions at the end of ch6, page 149: question 3, question 4, or question 5. Your mini essay should be around 500words and have in-text citations as well as a short reference list (2 or 3 sources). This is your last in class assessment. Upload before next class in week 9.
Week 9	Lecture: Is there a clash of civilizations as Huntington predicted? We will explore the role of religion in different parts of the world and identify how intercultural relations are affected by religious beliefs. Tutorial: To understand the role of religion in so-called secular societies, it is useful to look at how law and politics are intertwined with religion.(ch 9, pages 210-214) Reading: chapter 9
Week 10	Power imbalance and conflict Tutorial: Identify the sources of conflict and different ways of analysis and solution styles. How useful is the framework of analysis for intercultural conflict Sorrells offers? (p.217) Reading: chapter 9, Negotiating intercultural conflict and social justice
Week 11	Lecture: Global citizenship: rights and responsibilities Tutorial: What does citizenship actually mean? What is social justice? Reading: chapter 10, Engaging Intercultural Communication for Social Justice Critical essay due this week!
Week 12	Tutorial: Empowerment for Change Reading: chapter 10, analyse empowerment case studies
Week 13	No lecture. Tutorial time will be used for wrap up and individual feedback

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations

Assessment tasks

- active engagement
- Identity Sheet
- Essay

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations

Assessment task

- active engagement

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate basic knowledge of intercultural communication theory; key issues and concepts: culture, global village, power, interpersonal and intergroup communication, conflict and conflict management
- Define cultural identity and develop empathy

- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Assessment tasks

- active engagement
- Identity Sheet
- Essay
- Mini Essay

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate basic knowledge of intercultural communication theory; key issues and concepts: culture, global village, power, interpersonal and intergroup communication, conflict and conflict management
- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Assessment tasks

- active engagement
- Identity Sheet

- Mini Essay

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations

Assessment tasks

- active engagement
- Essay
- Mini Essay

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Demonstrate basic knowledge of intercultural communication theory; key issues and concepts: culture, global village, power, interpersonal and intergroup communication, conflict and conflict management
- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Assessment tasks

- Identity Sheet
- Essay
- Mini Essay

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations

Assessment tasks

- Identity Sheet
- Mini Essay

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Define cultural identity and develop empathy
- Extend communication skills relevant to cross-cultural conflict
- Identify creative ways to manage intercultural (work) situations
- Assess political and social developments in the context of globalization and intercultural relations
