Unit description

In this unit we examine a range of embodied subjects that stand in a relation of crisis and/or dissent in the context of dominant Australian culture. We focus specifically on how such apparatuses of racialised punishment as the camp, prison, reserve and detention centre have been constitutive in founding and shaping the Australian nation. We examine: Aboriginal sovereignty and the colonial camp; the cultural politics of terrorism and state violence; the power of whiteness; the racialisation of criminality and the prison industry; histories of political internment; and Australia's treatment of refugees and asylum seekers. These topics are examined through the lens of social justice and are situated in the context of film, documentaries and contemporary news media. The unit brings into focus the manner in which targeted communities have mobilised activist networks and a range of media in order to work toward social change and a more just society.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate critical skills, informed by cultural theories, that will enable students to understand the ways in which the categories of nation and national identity are inscribed with a series of normative values that function to construct othered subjects that are disenfranchised and/or excluded from the official corpus of nation.

Develop the ability to synthesise and articulate the relations between knowledge and power in the context of nation.

Deploy analytical skills that enable students critically to evaluate institutions of authority in order to disclose such things as institutional racism and other discriminatory practices.

Develop ethical skills that will enable students to address issues of cultural difference and social justice concerns within the context of the Australian nation and its relation to global events and issues.

Deploy critical argumentation skills that will enable students to support and materially evidence their particular viewpoints on contentious national issues.

Employ cultural literacy skills that will enable students to address issues concerned with cultural difference in an informed manner.

Develop socially active and responsible skills that will enable students to analyse and solve problems.

General Assessment Information

Late Submissions:

Tasks 10% or less: No extensions will be granted. Students who have not submitted the task prior to the decline will be awarded a mark of 0 for the task, except for cases in which an application for Disruption to Studies is made and approved.

Tasks above 10%: No extensions will be granted. Students who submit late work without an extension will receive a penalty of 10% per day. This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for Disruption to Studies is made and approved.

Engagement & Participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 10%

Over the course of this session, students are expected to actively engage and participate in weekly tutorial activities and class discussions. You will be assessed on your engagement in tutorial activities and, in line with the learning outcomes, your ability to develop ethical and informed means of contributing to debates on complex and often contentious issues of cultural difference and social justice.

Assessment Criteria:

Students will be assessed according to the following criteria:

1. Demonstrates preparation for tutorials, including engagement with the weekly lectures and required readings
2. Demonstrates active engagement with peers in the tutorial activities
3. Demonstrates cultural literacy skills in order to offer informed and ethical responses to activities

If you cannot attend a tutorial due to an unavoidable and serious disruption, please email your unit convenor and submit a disruption to studies notification via ask.mq.edu.au. To learn more about how to apply for Disruption to Studies, please click here.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate critical skills, informed by cultural theories, that will enable students to understand the ways in which the categories of nation and national identity are inscribed with a series of normative values that function to construct othered subjects that are disenfranchised and/or excluded from the official corpus of nation.
- Develop the ability to synthesise and articulate the relations between knowledge and power in the context of nation.
- Deploy analytical skills that enable students critically to evaluate institutions of authority in order to disclose such things as institutional racism and other discriminatory practices.
- Develop ethical skills that will enable students to address issues of cultural difference and social justice concerns within the context of the Australian nation and its relation to global events and issues.
- Employ cultural literacy skills that will enable students to address issues concerned with cultural difference in an informed manner.
- Develop socially active and responsible skills that will enable students to analyse and solve problems.

Critical Analysis

Due: 11:59pm 19 March 2017

Weighting: 15%

For this assessment, students are required to perform a 500-800 word critical analysis of one of the required readings from weeks one, two or three of this unit. In their analysis, students must outline the purpose of their chosen text and the contribution that it makes to scholarly research (such as the theoretical concepts, arguments or methodologies developed by the author). Most importantly, they should also include an informed and nuanced critique of their chosen text that identifies any inadequacies or gaps in the research and explores how the research could be extended and adapted for our contemporary context.

Assessment Criteria:

Students will be assessed according to the following criteria:

1. Demonstrates the ability to identify and outline the purpose of the selected text
2. Demonstrates engagement with relevant external scholarly research in order to identify and outline the contribution the selected text makes to the field
3. Demonstrates an understanding of the theoretical concepts, arguments and/or methodologies explored in the selected text
4. Draws on external research to perform an informed and nuanced critique of the chosen text that identifies potential gaps in the research and potential ways in which the research could be extended
5. Demonstrates the effective use of writing skills to present academic research, including consistent and accurate use of in-text referencing

Submission: Students will submit their Critical Analysis via the Turnitin link on the unit iLearn Site.

Late Penalty: A late penalty of 10% per day (including weekends) will be deducted for late submissions.

Disruption to Studies: Students who have experienced an unavoidable and serious disruption to their studies and are seeking an extension should contact the unit convenor and submit a Disruption to Studies application via ask.mq.edu.au. Extensions will only be granted in line with University Policy. To learn more about how to apply for Disruption to Studies, please click here.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Deploy analytical skills that enable students critically to evaluate institutions of authority in order to disclose such things as institutional racism and other discriminatory practices.
- Deploy critical argumentation skills that will enable students to support and materially evidence their particular viewpoints on contentious national issues.
- Develop socially active and responsible skills that will enable students to analyse and solve problems.

Policy Briefing Paper

Due: 11:59pm 26 April 2017

Weighting: 25%

For this assessment, students are required to write a policy briefing paper that could be submitted to either local, state or federal institutions or government bodies. In order to write this briefing paper, they must select one specific issue or case study that we have discussed so far in the unit. Then, students must prepare a scholarly policy paper that draws on theoretical concepts and cultural studies methodologies in order to critically analyse the issue at stake and offer productive recommendations.

For example, you may identify a specific issue such as the criminalisation of Indigenous people in the Northern Territory following the introduction of new legislation or the erasure of Indigenous counter-histories in our high school history syllabus. After identifying a topic, you must then use cultural studies concepts and methodologies, relevant external research and a case study or example in order to perform a well-informed analysis of the issue. In line with the unit's learning outcomes, you must also outline well-researched and ethical recommendations. We will further discuss the components of policy briefings and scholarly research in selected weekly tutorials.

Assessment Criteria:

Students will be assessed according to the following assessment criteria:

1. Demonstrates a clear and effective grasp of the relevant key concepts and methodologies explored in this unit
2. Demonstrates scholarly research into the issue under review, including engaging with relevant research papers, case studies and resources such as legislation, institutional policies and government procedures.
3. Draws on relevant concepts and research in order to provide a well-informed analysis of the issue under review
4. Deploys cultural literacy and analytical skills in order to put forward well-developed, ethical and responsible recommendations
5. Demonstrates the effective use of writing skills to present the policy briefing paper, including consistent and accurate use of in-text referencing.

Submission: Students will submit their Briefing Paper via the Turnitin Link on the unit iLearn Site.

Late Penalty: A late penalty of 10% per day (including weekends) will be deducted for late submissions.

Disruption to Studies: Students who have experienced an unavoidable and serious disruption to their studies and are seeking an extension should contact the unit convenor and submit a Disruption to Studies application via ask.mq.edu.au. Extensions will only be granted in line with University Policy. To learn more about how to apply for Disruption to Studies, please click here.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate critical skills, informed by cultural theories, that will enable students to understand the ways in which the categories of nation and national identity are inscribed with a series of normative values that function to construct othered subjects that are disenfranchised and/or excluded from the official corpus of nation.

- Develop socially active and responsible skills that will enable students to analyse and solve problems.

Final Essay

Due: 11:59pm 5 June 2017

Weighting: 50%

Students must write a 2,000 word essay in response to one of the questions listed below. In their answers, students must use the theoretical concepts discussed over the course of the semester in order to develop an well-informed argument that can be demonstrated via analysis of examples or a relevant case study.

Questions:

1. Discuss the issues of contested histories and space, colonial assimilation and the politics of Aboriginal identities in the context of Blackman's Houses and Ian Anderson's essay "Re-claiming Tru-ger-nan-ner."
2. Discuss the significance of what Irene Watson calls "proper law-full acknowledgements of the sovereignty of Aboriginal peoples."
3. Discuss the key attributes of "invisible whiteness" and ground your discussion in concrete historical and contemporary examples.
4. Discuss the concepts of Aboriginal law, colonial law and terra nullius in the context of Dhakiyarr vs the King.

5. Discuss the relation between colonial policing and racialised punishment in the context of contemporary Australian culture.
6. What are the key issues that emerge from the yoking of crime to ethnicity, and the consequent criminalisation of specific ethnic minorities? Discuss in the context of Collins et al's essay, Of Middle Eastern Appearance and/or contemporary of racial profiling, policing and crime.
7. Discuss the importance of the camp, as a place of quarantine, internment and punishment of targeted groups, in the context of Australian history and national identity.
8. How is suburban space also a place where cultural politics is played out? Discuss in relation to ethnic architecture, backyards and their relation to issues of memory, identity and place.
9. Discuss the significance of Aboriginal "life writing" and oral histories in the context of Auntie Rita and dominant colonial histories.
10. Discuss the relationship between Indigenous sovereignty and white colonial possession in the context of Australia's policies on refugees and asylum seekers.
11. Stage an in-depth critique of the politics of fear and terror.
12. Construct a question of your choice that focuses on a text and any of the issues raised in the course of this unit. Please consult with your tutor if you wish to take up this option.

Assessment Criteria:

Students will be assessed according to the following assessment criteria:

1. Demonstrates a clear and effective grasp of the relevant key concepts, arguments and methodologies explored in this unit
2. Demonstrates scholarly and nuanced engagement with cultural studies research in order to address issues of power, cultural difference and social justice concerns
3. Demonstrates critical argumentation skills by drawing on both academic research and their own forensic analysis of a chosen case study or examples in order to materially support and illustrate their argument
4. Effectively addresses the chosen question using relevant scholarly and external texts
5. Demonstrates the effective use of writing skills to present academic research, including consistent and accurate use of in-text referencing

Submission: Students will submit the Final Essay via the Turnitin Link on the unit iLearn Site.

Late Penalty: A late penalty of 10% per day (including weekends) will be deducted for late submissions.

Disruption to Studies: Students who have experienced an unavoidable and serious disruption to their studies and are seeking an extension should contact the unit convenor and submit a Disruption to Studies application via ask.mq.edu.au. Extensions will only be granted in line with University Policy. To learn more about how to apply for Disruption to Studies, please click here.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate critical skills, informed by cultural theories, that will enable students to understand the ways in which the categories of nation and national identity are inscribed with a series of normative values that function to construct othered subjects that are disenfranchised and/or excluded from the official corpus of nation.

Delivery and Resources

Attendance:

You are required to attend all tutorials. As participation in the process of learning is linked to, and underpins the unit Learning Outcomes, you will need to either apply for Disruptions to Studies to cover any missed tutorial (if the disruption is greater than three consecutive days) or supply appropriate documentation to your unit convenor for any missed tutorial (if less than three consecutive days).

Unit Delivery:

Lectures and Tutorials will begin in the first week of the semester.

This unit will be taught through a combination of lectures and tutorials. Echo recordings of the lectures and the lecture notes will be available on iLearn. Each week, students will also be required to complete the set readings and relate them to the lecture material. Students should use the set tutorial questions in the unit schedule to orient their reading of relevant materials.

All students are expected to contribute to group discussions and, as this is a unit that explicitly taps into topical issues in the context of the Australian nation, students are expected to follow current developments in government policy, the media, and so on, and to related these developments to the issues under discussion.

For lecture times and classes, please consult the MQ timetable website: <http://www.timetables.mq.edu.au>. This website will display up-to-date information on your classes and classroom locations.

Required Texts: CUL321 Reader

Unit Schedule

Week 1: Introduction

Readings: Michael Hodson, "Government Lies Again – Tiwi Islanders: 'We're all non-Australians'" from Green Left Weekly <http://www.greenleft.org.au>

<http://www.greenleft.org.au/back/2003/562/562p7b.htm>

Tony Birch, "The Last Refuge of the 'un-Australian'"

Suvendrini Perera, "Girt by Sea"

WEEK 2: Contested Histories and Aboriginal Sovereignities

Screening: "Black Man's Houses"

Readings: Ian Anderson, "Re-claiming Tru-ger-nan-ner: Decolonizing the Symbol"

Irene Watson, "Aboriginal Sovereignities: Past, Present and Future (Im)Possibilities"

First Nations Interim National Unity Government, "Declarations of Independence Advanced at Brisbane Treaty Talks"

Murrawarri Republic, “Queen Recognises Murrawarri Republic”

Questions:

1. Discuss what Anderson means when he says that Tru-ger-nan-ner signifies the “land empty of natives and the colonial period over.”
2. Discuss the problematic concepts of “authentic” and “hybrid” Aboriginals – with specific reference to Anderson’s essay and Blackman’s Houses.
3. What needs to be done in order to recognise Aboriginal sovereignties?
4. Discuss the political, legal and cultural ramifications of Irene Watson’s call for Aboriginal sovereignties.

WEEK 3: Whiteness

Readings: K. E. Supryia, “White Difference”

Ruth Frankenberg, “Thinking Through Race”

Anita Heiss, “Invisible Whiteness” and “My Best Friend is White”

Questions:

1. How is whiteness “invisible”? What are the key attributes of whiteness?
2. How is whiteness about power, privilege and institutionality?
3. What does Frankenberg mean by the “colour and power evasiveness” of whiteness?
4. How does, according to Frankenberg, whiteness normalise race privilege?
5. How does Heiss make whiteness visible in her poems? What Black tactics does she deploy in order to counter-act white racism?

WEEK 4: The Racialisation of Punishment

Readings: Chris Cunneen, “The Nature of Colonial Policing”

Gerry Georgato, “The Burning Issue of Deaths in Custody: Aboriginal People Die 5 Times the Rate of Apartheid South Africa”

Natasha Robinson, “Black Sentences Soar as Juvenile Jails Become a ‘Storing House’”

Angela Davis, “Race and Criminalization”

Angela Davis, “The Prison Industrial Complex”

Questions:

1. Discuss in detail the nature of colonial policing?
2. How does the history of colonial policing fundamentally inform contemporary relations between Aboriginals and the law?

3. According to Davis, what is the relation between race and the punishment industry? You must discuss, in particular, the connection between racialised minorities and the political economics of prisons.
4. Explain and discuss the “prison industrial complex” in the context of Australia’s Refugee Detention Centres.

WEEK 5: Aboriginal Law Versus Colonial Law

Readings: Irene Watson, “Buried Alive”

Shaunnagh Dorsett and Shaun McVeigh, “Just So: ‘The Law Which Governs Australia Is Australian Law’”

Screening: Dhakiyarr vs the King

Questions:

1. Define the legal concept of terra nullius and discuss in detail its impact on Australia’s Indigenous peoples.
2. Discuss Watson’s understanding of Aboriginal law and how it differs from European law.
3. How does white common law ensure the reproduction of colonial possession of the continent of Australia?
4. Discuss the collision of Aboriginal law and white colonial law in the context of Dhakiyarr vs the King.

WEEK 6: The Racialisation of Crime and Cultural Panics

Readings: Jock Collins et al, “Crime and Ethnicity in Australia: Myths and Realities”

Scott Pointing et al, “The Arab Other”

David Fraser et al, “Violence Against Arab Australians”

Joseph Pugliese, “The Locus of the Non: The Racial Fault-Line ‘of Middle Eastern Appearance,’” Borderlands e-journal 2.3 at: http://www.borderlandsejournal.adelaide.edu.au/vol2no3_2003/pugliese_non.htm.

Questions:

1. What is problematic about the ethnic descriptor “of Middle Eastern appearance” as used by both the police and the media?
2. Discuss the relationship between issues of class, gender and ethnicity in Of Middle Eastern Appearance.

3. Discuss the role of government and the media in creating cultural panics about “ethnic crime” and “ethnic gangs.”
4. Explain what is at stake in the use of qualifiers like the term “ethnic” in the discussion of crime and criminal behaviour.

MID-SEMESTER BREAK

WEEK 7: READING WEEK

WEEK 8: The Camp and Histories of Internment

Readings: Suvendrini Perera, “What is a camp...? Borderlands 1.1 (2002), at <http://www.boderlandsejournal.adelaide.edu.au/>

David Mitchell and Sharon Snyder, “The Eugenic Atlantic: Disability and the Making of an International Science”

“William Cooper: The Aboriginal Who Stood up to Hitler”

Osvaldo Bonuto, “‘J’accuse’: Internment”

Lara Palombo, “Whose Turn Is It? White Diasporic and Transnational Practices and the Necropolitics of the Plantation and Internment Camps”

Questions:

1. Discuss the importance of the camp in the construction of the nation, its aliens and its borders, with reference to the Perera and Palombo essays.
2. What is the relation between 9/11 and the internment of aliens during World War II?
3. Discuss the use of science by politicians and the military in the internment and eventual extermination of people with disabilities in the context of the Nazi death camps, with reference to the Mitchell and Snyder essays.
4. What are the key issues that Bonuto’s story of internment exposes?
5. Discuss the contemporary interment of aliens (eg, refugees, people of “Middle Eastern appearance,” and the prisoners at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba).

WEEK 9: The Cultural Politics of Suburban Space and Ethnic Architecture

Mirjana Lozanovka, “Abjection and Architecture: The Migrant House in Multicultural Australia”

Said and Souad Lahoud “It’s In the Blood: Culture and Identity and Their Suburban Backyard”

Joseph Pugliese, “A Topolitology of Mourning: Practices of Mourning and the Diasporic Transpositions of Space”

Joseph Pugliese, “Migrant Heritage in an Indigenous Context”

Questions:

1. What is the relation between migrant architecture, hegemonic concepts of nation/identity and abjection?
2. Discuss the dismissal of migrant architecture, house styles and decoration in terms of “kitsch.” Examine the value system operating in these acts of condescension.
3. How is the suburban backyard a site of resistance and a refuge against assimilation ideologies?
4. How is the home “a place for the body, a place for life?” Discuss in detail.
5. Discuss the significance of locating migrant heritage within an Indigenous context.

WEEK 10: “Fighting with Our Tongues”: Indigenous Life Writings

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
