Unit description

This unit provides a graduate-level introduction to theories, concepts, processes and debates in the field. Students taking the unit will critically explore a range of topics which include: the changing nature of work and organisations, the development of modern labour management thought, theoretical foundations for understanding behaviour in the workplace, current trends in management methods, key management roles and functions, gender and work, interconnections between paid and unpaid work, the relationship between work and identity, technological change, and ethics and fairness in organisations.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Identify the key issues that influence our understanding of work and appreciate how these change over time.

Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.

Critique current debates and practice regarding gender, ethical practice, flexibility, organisational structure and organisational change.

Demonstrate skills relevant to graduate study, including verbal and written communication, independent research, critical analysis, self-reflection and problem-solving.

Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Group Case Study	30%	No	3pm Thursday, Week 6,7,8 or 9
Individual Essay	30%	No	3pm Thursday, Week 11
Final Examination	40%	No	University examination period

Group Case Study

Due: 3pm Thursday, Week 6,7,8 or 9

Weighting: 30%

This group assignment will develop your case study skills through secondary research. The exercise will also allow you to gain teamwork experience and polish your verbal communication skills. Both are essential in a work environment. Sharing your learning and knowledge with the class will stimulate relevant discussion and new ideas. Additionally, if applicable, you may refer to this case study in your essay to support your arguments. This assessment involves two specific tasks:

- Task 1 Group Presentation (15%, each student will be individually marked on their delivery): Each group will present their case study in class in an assigned tutorial in Week 6, 7, 8 or 9. They will also lead class discussion on the case and answer questions from peer students.
- Task 2 Group Case Report (15%): A 2000-word case study report is to be uploaded to turnitin on iLearn prior to the group presentation in the assigned week.

Each group should upload one copy of your case study report to turnitin on the unit's ilearn website before Thursday 3pm on your presentation day. We do not require you to hand-in a hard copy of your case study.

No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for disruption of studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the key issues that influence our understanding of work and appreciate how these change over time.

- Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.
- Critique current debates and practice regarding gender, ethical practice, flexibility, organisational structure and organisational change.
- Demonstrate skills relevant to graduate study, including verbal and written communication, independent research, critical analysis, self-reflection and problem-solving.
- Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Individual Essay

Due: 3pm Thursday, Week 11

Weighting: 30%

Through completion of this assessment, students will learn how to:

- Research a topic in an in-depth manner;
- Provide a critical perspective of the literature on a topic;
- Construct a sustained argument in response to the question.

Details of the essay question(s) and further guidance will be provided in Week 5.

You should submit your essay to turnitin on the unit's ilearn site before Thursday 3pm of Week 11. We do not require you to hand-in a hard copy of your essay.

No extensions will be granted. There will be a deduction of 10% of the total available marks made from the total awarded mark for each 24 hour period or part thereof that the submission is late (for example, 25 hours late in submission – 20% penalty). This penalty does not apply for cases in which an application for disruption of studies is made and approved.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the key issues that influence our understanding of work and appreciate how these change over time.
- Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.
- Critique current debates and practice regarding gender, ethical practice, flexibility, organisational structure and organisational change.
- Demonstrate skills relevant to graduate study, including verbal and written communication, independent research, critical analysis, self-reflection and problem-solving.
- Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Final Examination

Due: University examination period

Weighting: 40%

A three hour final examination for this unit will be held during the University examination period. Further details will be provided during the examination briefing. The exam is worth 40 per cent. A final examination is included as an assessment task for this unit to provide assurance that:

1. the product belongs to the student and
2. the student has attained the knowledge and skills tested in the exam.

If you experience disruptions that adversely affect your academic performance in assessment activities, please see the university's Disruption to Studies Policy.

http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/disruption_studies/policy.html

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate skills relevant to graduate study, including verbal and written communication, independent research, critical analysis, self-reflection and problem-solving.
- Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Delivery and Resources

Classes

Number and length of classes: 3 hours face-to-face teaching per week consisting of 1 x 2 hour lecture and a 1 hour tutorial

The timetable for classes can be found on the University website at: <http://www.timetables.mq.edu.au>

Technology Used and Required

Technology used: iLearn. Please ensure that you have access to a personal computer so you are able to use iLearn.

Students will find resources to assist their study on iLearn, such as lecture notes and other resources. Please also check iLearn regularly for unit announcements.

Unit web page

Course material is available on the learning management system (iLearn) <http://ilearn.mq.edu.au>

Learning and Teaching Activities

The unit is taught using a combination of lectures & tutorials.

Additionally, it is essential that you keep up to date with the reading for tutorials - details of which you will be given in the preceding weeks lecture.

Please note that attendance will be taken in tutorials - You are expected to attend at least 10 of the 12 tutorials. Failure to do this may affect your final mark.

To complete the unit satisfactorily, you must achieve an overall score of 50 marks or more.

Graduate Capabilities

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify the key issues that influence our understanding of work and appreciate how these change over time.
- Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.
- Critique current debates and practice regarding gender, ethical practice, flexibility, organisational structure and organisational change.
- Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Assessment tasks

- Group Case Study
- Individual Essay
- Final Examination

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Identify the key issues that influence our understanding of work and appreciate how these change over time.
- Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.
- Critique current debates and practice regarding gender, ethical practice, flexibility, organisational structure and organisational change.
- Explore how these issues affect management and organisations.

Assessment tasks

- Group Case Study
- Individual Essay
- Final Examination

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Compare different perspectives on and approaches to work and management and assess their implications.

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Demonstrate skills relevant to graduate study, including verbal and written communication, independent research, critical analysis, self-reflection and problem-solving.

Assessment tasks

- Group Case Study
- Individual Essay
