Unit description

Fields of study provide a disciplinary basis for future research activities and include Egyptology, Classical Greece, Roman republic and empire, Early Christian and Jewish Studies, Coptic Studies, and Late Antiquity. Students examine methodology and interpretative issues related to the field of study.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity

Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art

Compare different iconographic traditions

Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Communicate effectively with teaching staff and peers

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Research project plan	15%	No	Friday, Week 4
Research seminar	20%	No	Mondays, Weeks 8-13
Research essay	35%	No	Friday, Week 13
Online discussion	30%	No	Weekly

Research project plan

Due: Friday, Week 4

Weighting: 15%

Research project

To hone your research skills, you will carry out a research project during this unit in which you will explore a relevant issue in ancient art history. Suggested topics are as follows:

- The concept of “authenticity”
- The art of forgery
- Antiquities trade / art market: Overview and critique
- The pros and cons of unprovenanced antiquities
- The Parthenon marbles: political, ethical and practical considerations
- Art conservation: Ethics and practice (past and present)
- Career and critique of John Beazley
- Reception of ancient Egyptian art: Egyptomania
- Reception of Greek art by the Romans
- What is “early Christian art”?
- What is “Coptic art”?
- Problems in the study of “Byzantine art”

You may also propose a topic to investigate (however this will need to be approved by the convenor first).

After you have chosen a research topic, you will need to prepare a detailed research project plan (c. 1,000 words total). Your plan will consist of two parts and should include the following details:

Part A: Research plan (c. 500 words)

- The research question to be addressed and why it is important/relevant in the study of art history.

- Your objectives – what outcomes do you expect to achieve through your research project?
- How will you go about addressing this question? What methods (practical and/or theoretical) will you use?
- A short summary of the potential topics and issues that might be covered during your research.

Part B: Annotated bibliography (c. 500 words)

Present a brief review of 3 sources (books, chapters, or articles) that you have consulted while researching your chosen topic. For each work:

- Provide full citation details (these are not included in the word count).
- Describe the main points or argument presented by the author.
- Indicate the relevance of the work to your research project – for example, has the work changed or challenged your thinking regarding your research topic, led you to other relevant literature, alerted you to new approaches or methodologies, provided case studies or relevant data, etc.

Grading criteria

Engagement with the research topic; clarity of expression; attention to detail.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity
- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Research seminar

Due: Mondays, Weeks 8-13

Weighting: 20%

In the second half of the session, you will give a 15-minute Powerpoint presentation to the class, summarising your findings to date, followed by 10 minutes for questions and discussion. Your paper should include the following:

- background information regarding your topic
- your research question
- your methodology
- your findings to date
- a summary slide with 1-3 questions that your work has generated (these may be used to initiate discussion after your talk)

Note: After your presentation, please submit your Powerpoint slides as a pdf document via Turnitin.

Grading criteria

Clarity of the presentation; level of preparation; knowledge of the subject

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity
- Compare different iconographic traditions
- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Research essay

Due: Friday, Week 13

Weighting: 35%

In the last week of the session, you will submit a 2,500-word essay that addresses your research question (as outlined in your research plan). You may present your findings in whatever format you wish (for example, you may divide your paper into labelled sections or write a traditional essay). Illustrations and appendices are welcome.

Note: Footnotes, appendices, figure captions, and the bibliography are not included in the word count

Grading criteria

Level of analysis; clarity of argument; clarity of expression; consultation and use of relevant sources; knowledge of the subject

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity
- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art
- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Online discussion

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 30%

You are expected to post at least one response to the Learning Forum each week. Please do the Required Reading first and then post your response(s) to the discussion question(s), which will be available on the iLearn website each week (see also the Unit Schedule in this guide).

Note: you will have until the end of the following week to post your response (i.e., you will have until the end of Week 2 to post an answer to the Week 1 discussion questions, and so on). Your responses to the Learning Forum will be monitored. 30% of your final grade will reflect both the quality and quantity of your responses on the forum, so it is essential that you take part.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity
- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art
- Compare different iconographic traditions
- Communicate effectively with teaching staff and peers

Delivery and Resources

Required Readings

Textbook:

Sparkes, B.A., The Red and the Black: Studies in Greek Pottery (London, 1996). The book is available from the Co-Op bookshop.

A list of the Required Readings will be provided on the unit website each week. Some of the Required Readings will be from the textbook, while most will be available to download directly from the unit website (additionally, some papers may also be available under Unit Readings on the Library website). Note that Recommended Readings will not be available on the website but must be obtained in person from the Macquarie Library or elsewhere.

Unit expectations

This unit requires a high standard of application and scholarship. This means that you will be expected to do a substantial amount of reading each week and also produce a number of assignments for which you will need to carry out independent research.

Assignment submission

The deadline for written assignments will always be midnight Friday in the week they are due. Written work must be submitted via the Turnitin links on the AHIS701 iLearn website. Presentations will take place during the set tutorial time (see the iLearn site for details).

Late penalties

Late submission of assignments will lose 10% of the mark awarded for each week or part of a week beyond the due date, or date to which an extension has been granted.

Each weekly forum post is worth up to a maximum of 3%. Late postings (e.g., a posting for Week 1 that is made after the Friday of Week 2, etc) will receive a 1% late penalty.

Word limit

Note: Word limits do not include the footnotes or bibliography.

Resources

References: A selected bibliography will be available on the iLearn website.

Unit Schedule

Date	Topic	Assessments
------	-------	-------------

Week 1	What is ancient art? Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Welcome • What comes to mind when you think about ancient art?
Week 2	The discovery of ancient art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do you think that it was inevitable that Greek vases would eventually be considered examples of high art or have they only achieved this status because of collectors like Hamilton who manipulated the market? • Did the timing of Hamilton's publications – just two years after Winckelmann's popular, History of the Art of Antiquity – affect how Greek vases were perceived by European society?
Week 3	The object in isolation Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Vase exercise • What do you think of connoisseurship? Do you believe that it still has a role to play in the study of ancient art?
Week 4	Objects and the viewer Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • In the writings by the Philostrati, do you think they are simply rhetorical exercises or do they give us important information relating to the art of painting itself? 	Research plan (15%) due this Friday
Week 5	The object in context Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do you think Plato's Theory of Art diminished the role of the artist?
Week 6	Museums and conservation Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Given that museums have a 'duty of care', discuss some of the issues that can arise from the conservation of artefacts? Is restoration of objects always for the best?
Week 7	The impact of ancient art on modern design Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What do you think drove the choice of ancient motifs that were incorporated into modern designs (e.g., Egyptian pyramids, obelisks, laurel wreaths, Greek heroes, lotus-columns, etc)? • Was it based on aesthetic appeal (some motifs were simply considered more attractive than others) or do you think that the subset of objects published in catalogues and other sources largely determined which designs were later adopted? • In short, why do you think that some motifs were more popular than others?

Week 8	Issues in the study of Egyptian art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> To what extent does our approach to the study of Egyptian art affect our understanding of the scenes? In your answer, consider whether the art is a reflection of the reality of the ancient Egyptians or completely symbolic. 	Research seminars (20%) begin this week (Weeks 8-13)
Week 9	Issues in the study of Greek art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Discuss the Foundry Painter's name vase, the subject of which is the production of bronze sculpture. Think about the vase in relation to what we know (and don't know) about art production, circulation and reception in the first half of the 5th century BCE. You can choose to discuss it in relation to vase painting or sculpture, or both.
Week 10	Issues in the study of Roman art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> What problems and issues does Kampen identify regarding the study of Roman art in her two articles? What solutions does she suggest and what do you make of these? The issue of 'Roman copies' is mentioned in this week's lecture. Look up the example of Roman sculpture in the Metropolitan Museum discussed in the lecture. Read the entry and comment on the way the 'Romanness' of the sculpture is (or isn't) presented. Can you think of a way to re-write parts of this entry to reflect current ways of discussing Roman art?
Week 11	Issues in the study of Early Christian art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Discuss why you think the study of early Christian art has in the past been neglected or disparaged?
Week 12	Issues in the study of Coptic art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Dora Zuntz distinguishes two types of post-Pharaonic Egyptian painting (and art in general), one of which she calls "Coptic". What are the main characteristics of this "Coptic" art according to Zuntz and how did it originate? Thelma Thomas takes issue with Zuntz's (and other earlier scholars') definition of "Coptic" art. Why does Thomas take issue with the use of the word? What alternative does she suggest?
Week 13	Issues in the study of Byzantine art and architecture Learning Forum questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Do you think it helps that we can see the image discussed by Photius in his homily? What was it about Byzantine art and architecture that made it influential? 	Research essay (35%) due this Friday

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the methods by which ancient art has been studied since antiquity
- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art
- Compare different iconographic traditions

Assessment tasks

- Research project plan
- Research seminar
- Research essay
- Online discussion

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art

- Compare different iconographic traditions
- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Assessment tasks

- Research project plan
- Research seminar
- Research essay
- Online discussion

PG - Research and Problem Solving Capability

Our postgraduates will be capable of systematic enquiry; able to use research skills to create new knowledge that can be applied to real world issues, or contribute to a field of study or practice to enhance society. They will be capable of creative questioning, problem finding and problem solving.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge

Assessment tasks

- Research project plan
- Research seminar
- Research essay

PG - Effective Communication

Our postgraduates will be able to communicate effectively and convey their views to different social, cultural, and professional audiences. They will be able to use a variety of technologically supported media to communicate with empathy using a range of written, spoken or visual formats.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art
- Conduct independent research and synthesise acquired knowledge
- Communicate effectively with teaching staff and peers

Assessment tasks

- Research project plan

- Research seminar
- Research essay
- Online discussion

PG - Engaged and Responsible, Active and Ethical Citizens

Our postgraduates will be ethically aware and capable of confident transformative action in relation to their professional responsibilities and the wider community. They will have a sense of connectedness with others and country and have a sense of mutual obligation. They will be able to appreciate the impact of their professional roles for social justice and inclusion related to national and global issues

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Critically evaluate methodological and ethical issues associated with the study of ancient art
- Communicate effectively with teaching staff and peers

Assessment tasks

- Research essay
- Online discussion
