Unit description

In this practical introduction to writing creative nonfiction students research and write a number of narrative non-fiction pieces such as memoir, personal essay, and writing about place. We consider what creative non-fiction is, looking at the varied cultural contexts in which these very popular and influential texts are currently being written and published, with a focus on the Australian scene. This introductory unit assists students to devise their own topics and to develop skills in primary research and narrative techniques. Assessment is based on participation, practical research tasks and the student's narrative non-fiction writing.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Develop creative nonfiction writing skills in relation to concepts, topics, craft, technique and voice.

Capacity to raise questions and solve problems in relation to the planning, revision, editing and rewriting of written creative works.

Extend skills in individual reflection, revision, editing and textual analysis and communication through collaborative discussion of the creative work of student peers and own work.

Develop research skills, including the use of libraries, journal and archival data-bases, visual records, site visits and/or interviews, and documentation of this research.

Advance skills in critiquing key issues relating to the creativity writing, publication or production of narrative nonfiction writing.

Demonstrate knowledge of Australian writing and publishing contexts for this genre through reading, discussion and debate.

Delivery and Resources

Weekly readings will be made accessible by embedded links on iLearn or through the library's Multisearch function under codes CWPG815 & ENGL714. See: http://www.mq.edu.au/on_campus/library/ The required readings are also detailed in the full Unit Handbook available at the unit's iLearn site.

REQUIRED READING

- Perl, Sondra and Schwartz, Mimi. Writing True: The Art and Craft of Creative Nonfiction. Boston: Wadsworth/Cengage Learning, 2014.
- Garner, Helen. The First Stone: Some Questions on Sex and Power. Chippendale, N.S.W: Picador, 1995.
- Further weekly readings of essays, articles and chapters are available from the unit's iLearn site and e-Reserve at the Library. Each week students will typically read two pieces of creative nonfiction and one 'craft' reading addressing the techniques, ethical concerns and professional standards of nonfiction writing. The reading list includes work by international authors such as Zadie Smith, George Saunders, Rebecca Solnit, Joan Didion, David Foster Wallace, Leslie Jamison, and Elliot Weinberger; and Australian essayists including Ashley Hay, Chloe Hooper, Kevin Brophy and Maria Tumarkin.

RECOMMENDED (i.e. non-essential) READING

- Eisenhuth, Susie and McDonald, Wila (eds.). The Writers' Reader: Understanding Journalism and Nonfiction. New York: Cambridge University Press, 2007.
- Hart, Jack. Storycraft: The Complete Guide to Writing Narrative Nonfiction. London; Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2011.

- Lopate, Philip. To Show and to Tell: The Craft of Literary Nonfiction. New York: Free Press, 2013.
- Ricketson, Matthew. Telling True Stories: Navigating the Challenges of Writing Narrative Non-Fiction. Sydney, NSW: Allen and Unwin, 2014.

- Singer, Margot and Walker, Nicole (eds). Bending Genre: Essays on Creative Nonfiction. New York; London: Bloomsbury, 2013.

External and Internal students must log in to the unit's iLearn site during Week 1. Students will be using the iLearn online site for communications each week. Students access reading materials, discussion boards, web links, each other's work and assignment marks through the unit's online web pages. Please familiarise yourself with the site in Week 1, paying particular attention to Announcements.

Students are expected to participate on a weekly basis, logging-in a number of times (for instance 3-4 times during each week) in order to listen to the lecture, to workshop, and to participate in the discussions of the readings. You can choose what time you do this each week—there is no 'live classroom' in this unit. The online week begins on Monday mornings and ends on Sunday night.
