Unit description

The unit will examine contemporary research in the field of Modern European Philosophy. Examples of areas to be explored include recent developments in the Frankfurt School tradition of Critical Theory (especially the 'recognition' paradigm'), theories of subjectivity and intersubjectivity, and recent developments in French Philosophy (especially aesthetics). The unit will revolve around a current 'hot' topic of research in this area. Students will be brought up to speed on this topic so that they are in a position to begin to pursue their own research project.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Delivery and Resources

The unit has a dual structure:

- an in-depth reading, section by section, of Hegel's Elements of the Philosophy of Right (1820).
- after each section, a focus on a key issue raised in the section just studied. Through this focus we explore the tremendous legacy of Hegel's social and political thought on a wide range of important questions and topics.

The unit will be delivered by way of weekly seminar discussions.

The seminar is scheduled on Wednesdays, 1-3pm, in Room Y3A 210.

The main texts will be provided through the unit's iLearn space.

Further references and sources will be provided during the semester.

Unit Schedule
