Unit description

This unit deals with researching and investigating ideas for screen media in a convergent era. It explores techniques for generating and developing ideas for drama, documentary, video essays and hybrid forms. Over the course of the unit, students will be guided through the process of writing, editing and producing and critically evaluating their own screen projects. There will be opportunities to work both individually and collaboratively. Together, students will explore the purpose and role of screen storytelling around the globe. The unit is best suited to those interested in screenwriting, creative process and screen production.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate an understanding of the practices and aesthetics of developing an online Video Essay from generating ideas to production

Synthesise and build audio-visual storytelling skills through the development of an online Video Essay.

Critically analyse selected audio-visual products.

Develop further skills in creative media projects by taking an idea through several key stages and working with text and images.

Engage in the process of learning

General Assessment Information

Unit Requirements and Expectations

Students attend and participate in a three-hour seminar each week from Weeks 1-8 of Semester 1. Classes begin in Week 1. You are required to attend all seminars. As participation in the process of learning is linked to and underpins the unit Learning Outcomes, you will need to either apply for Disruptions to Studies to cover any missed seminars (if the disruption is greater than three days) or supply appropriate documentation to your unit convenor for any missed tutorial (if less than three consecutive days).

Students are expected to read and view materials posted by the Lecturer at the iLearn page for this course.

Assessment tasks are aligned to the unit Learning Outcomes. Timely submission of assessment tasks is a unit requirement or penalties apply. 10% per day (including weekends) will be deducted for all late submissions unless Disruption to Studies (including a request for an extension) is approved.

There is no examination for this unit.

Submitting Assignments

Assignments should be submitted via the link at the Course's iLearn page.

They will be returned to students in class.

Video Essay Concept/Outline

Due: 17th March 2017

Weighting: 40%

Assignment 1

Research and Write a Concept/Outline for a 6-8-minute Online Video Essay.

The Concept/Outline should be for a Video Essay that

1. addresses any aspect of screen storytelling, production, aesthetics (fiction, non-fiction or hybrid) that interests you OR
2. addresses a contemporary or historical topic that would make it suitable for dissemination via an online journalism/documentary site.

The Concept/Outline should include *your initial screen idea and your intended approach, themes, subject, imagery, argument, narrative or change over time, tone, genre, tone. (As many of these as appropriate to your idea).

* key images and brief notes on the ways you will research and develop your concept.

* 2 short online video essays you have sourced that might inspire aspects of your own. Briefly identify what they do effectively that you may draw on.

Your Concept/Outline can be presented as:

a. collage or assembly of images and text (may be delivered as PowerPoint presentation, video, or pdf)

OR

b. a written text

It should be a maximum of 750 words or an equivalent in words and images.

This assignment will be discussed further in MECO 851 seminars. Each student will present their concept to the seminar in Week 3.

Submission: via iLearn link

Assessment Criteria:

- Identification and refinement of an idea for an online Video Essay
- Suitability of the Concept/Outline as the basis for an engaging online Video Essay
- Evidence of research in more than one media - print, online, visual, audio etc.
- Clarity of expression and presentation

On successful completion you will be able to:
