Unit description

This unit is focused on simultaneous interpreting practice from English into LOTE for first semester Master of Conference Interpreting students. It teaches students how to use acquired skills to apply various strategies in dealing with different constraints in the on-line information process. Students are required to simultaneously interpret both improvised and well-prepared speeches on wide-ranging topics into LOTE, which are selected from various sources according to difficulty levels.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

By the end of the semester, students are expected to

- 1). demonstrate the sub-skills required for simultaneous interpreting into Chinese;
- 2). demonstrate familiarity with a range of strategies to cope with challenges inherent to SI;
- 3). demonstrate a good understanding of the differences between English and Chinese in the context of SI;
- 4). apply self-analysis of interpreting performance into Chinese; and
- 5). demonstrate skills in individual, peer and group evaluation.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Class performance	20%	Yes	On a weekly basis
Mid-term examination	30%	Yes	Week 7
Final examination	50%	Yes	Week 14

Class performance

Due: On a weekly basis

Weighting: 20%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

Students are required to participate in in-class activities. In developing conference interpreting skills, students are required to record their individual in-class performances for self-assessment, peer review, instructor's feedback and group discussion with a view to finding out solutions to improving their weaknesses

On successful completion you will be able to:

- By the end of the semester, students are expected to
- 1). demonstrate the sub-skills required for simultaneous interpreting into Chinese;
- 2). demonstrate familiarity with a range of strategies to cope with challenges inherent to SI;
- 3). demonstrate a good understanding of the differences between English and Chinese

in the context of SI;

- 4). apply self-analysis of interpreting performance into Chinese; and
- 5). demonstrate skills in individual, peer and group evaluation.

Mid-term examination

Due: Week 7

Weighting: 30%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

During the mid-term examination, students will interpret one speech of 1000-1500 words from English into Chinese, with an input rate of 110 words per minute. The theme of the speech will be advised through iLearn one day before the examination.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- By the end of the semester, students are expected to
- 1). demonstrate the sub-skills required for simultaneous interpreting into Chinese;
- 2). demonstrate familiarity with a range of strategies to cope with challenges inherent to SI;
- 3). demonstrate a good understanding of the differences between English and Chinese in the context of SI;
- 4). apply self-analysis of interpreting performance into Chinese; and
- 5). demonstrate skills in individual, peer and group evaluation.

Final examination

Due: Week 14

Weighting: 50%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

During the final examination, students will interpret one speech of 20 minutes (2000-2500) from English into Chinese with an input rate of 120-140 words per minute. The theme of the speech will be advised through iLearn one week before the examination.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- By the end of the semester, students are expected to
- 1). demonstrate the sub-skills required for simultaneous interpreting into Chinese;
- 2). demonstrate familiarity with a range of strategies to cope with challenges inherent to SI;
- 3). demonstrate a good understanding of the differences between English and Chinese

in the context of SI;

- 4). apply self-analysis of interpreting performance into Chinese; and
- 5). demonstrate skills in individual, peer and group evaluation.

Delivery and Resources

Materials used for this unit are largely selected from the Internet in general and YouTube and EU Speech Repository in particular. The learning and teaching strategies used are mainly through face to face interaction between lecturers and students. Additionally, students will be also encouraged to leverage iLearn for communication and participate in group discussion, peer evaluation and group research project for interpreting assignments.
