Unit description

This unit provides opportunities for students to develop an enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge in the complex field of social media management. Students learn about the 'evolution' of the social connection and they will explore how to leverage networks in social media. The unit investigates how consumers can be 'connected', but it also outlines the challenges and trends of social media management. Current cases are discussed and linked to scholarly work.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Critically evaluate the current and emerging social media management literature.

Systematically assess social media management strategies.

Analyse social media management theory to solve complex strategic communication challenges.

Create research outputs that produce new knowledge or insights in relation to the emerging field of social media management across communities and sub-sets thereof.

Develop critically reflective practice in relation to social media management literature, research activities and methodologies, teamwork and also opportunities for future development.

Assessment Tasks

Changes from Previous Offering

Minor changes since last delivery in S1-2016 are in learning objectives in the nature of re-writing for clarity; lectures on functional building blocks, social media in entrepreneurship and social media in customer service are added while shortening or de-emphasising the lecture on economies of attention, values and efficiencies, and platform leadership, both of which are combined in week 7.

Global context and sustainability

This unit teaches marketing and social media principles that can be applied in a global context. The assessment topics include campaigns and activities that were undertaken in Australia as well as different parts of the world.
