Unit description

This unit focuses on both the reading and the practice of writing poetry, and is suitable for students with some experience in writing who are interested in developing their knowledge and practice of poetry. Students read a broad range of modern and contemporary poetry, and essays on poetics and creativity, and also do a range of poetry writing activities to develop their own voice. Poetic language and prosody are studied in both formal and free verse and students are encouraged to develop their writing in a range of forms suited to their interests. Assessment is based on students' creative work and reflection, and their critical and analytical writing.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Integrate the study of contemporary and modern poetry with creative writing practice in poetry.

Research and critique concepts and apply them creatively in practical writing and reflective tasks.

Synthesize creative writing skills, applying them in realised compositions that demonstrate awareness of form and language.

Demonstrate professional standards of manuscript submission in writing produced for workshops and assessment submissions.

Evaluate the creative writing of others and oneself on the basis of knowledge.

Demonstrate ability for independent work and for collaborative interaction in workshop and class/ online discussions.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due

Assignment 3	45%	No	11 June
Participation	10%	No	n/a

Assignment 1

Due: 17 April

Weighting: 25%

Creative writing – poetry, and reflective statement

Poetry up to 100 lines, no less than 60 lines; reflective statement 500 words

- Two or more original poem(s) you have written, based on concepts studied in the unit so far.
- A reflective statement on the creative writing process you've used in composing and realising this work.
- The reflective statement must engage with your creative writing process in composing the poems.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Integrate the study of contemporary and modern poetry with creative writing practice in poetry.
- Research and critique concepts and apply them creatively in practical writing and reflective tasks.

- Synthesize creative writing skills, applying them in realised compositions that demonstrate awareness of form and language.

- Demonstrate ability for independent work and for collaborative interaction in workshop and class/ online discussions.

Assignment 2

Due: 15 May

Weighting: 20%

Research paper

1500 words

This is a research and analysis task, in line with the unit's focus on 'reading' as well as writing practice.

Essay topic:

Write an essay in which you discuss the effectiveness of language, sound, rhythm and form in evoking feeling (affect and emotion) in a reader's response. In constructing your argument, discuss in detail at least 3 poems studied to date in the unit. You must also refer in detail to prescribed and recommended reading relevant to your discussion.

You may do research beyond the unit material if this is necessary to your argument, but it should not supplant the use of unit resources as specified.

Criteria are provided in unit materials. Please note this essay is written in a different discourse to creative writing or reflective essays. It is a factual, analytical essay that requires reading and research as well as factual writing skills.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Research and critique concepts and apply them creatively in practical writing and reflective tasks.

Assignment 3

Due: 11 June

Weighting: 45%

Creative writing – poetry, and reflective essay

Poetry 200 – 250 lines; reflective essay 750 words

Submit a group or suite of poems you have written which have emerged from one or more of the unit topics. A suite of poems is a set of poems which is conceptually linked in some way.

Marking criteria are provided in unit materials.

The reflective essay must refer to relevant unit approaches, strategies, concepts and readings, but it is written in first person and must reflect on your creative writing process in writing only the poems submitted for this assignment.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Integrate the study of contemporary and modern poetry with creative writing practice in poetry.
- Research and critique concepts and apply them creatively in practical writing and reflective tasks.
- Synthesize creative writing skills, applying them in realised compositions that demonstrate awareness of form and language.
- Demonstrate professional standards of manuscript submission in writing produced for workshops and assessment submissions.

Participation

Due: n/a

Weighting: 10%
