Unit description

In this unit, students will consolidate their understanding of core concepts and principles of modern theories of governance. They will examine critiques of 'governance' from different disciplinary perspectives. Case studies will be reviewed from the following areas: Public Health, Environment, Commerce, and Human Rights. Students will apply an interdisciplinary lens to produce an independent research paper or policy reform proposal (6,000 words) that builds on their Research Proposal developed in LAWS818. Students may focus on international, national or local governance issues.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate advanced and integrated understanding of a broad and complex body of theoretical and applied knowledge in law, governance and public policy.

Describe and critique the broader context within which law reform and policy are developed, at domestic and international levels, implemented and evaluated.

Recognize and reflect upon contemporary challenges to promoting objectives in social justice, corporate responsibility, effective governance, democracy, the rule of law and sustainable development in a global setting.

Engage in high level critical thinking and exercise judgment in the recognition and resolution of current legal and policy challenges.

Apply sophisticated legal and policy research skills to the resolution of problems and to formulate reform proposals.

Communicate effectively in a written form at a postgraduate level, including adhering to proper referencing standards.

Carry out independent research and engage in self-directed learning to develop new and creative solutions to legal, governance and policy challenges.

General Assessment Information

Assessments are to be submitted online through Turnitin using the unit's iLearn page. All tasks must be submitted in Word (.doc or .docx) format.

Assessments are due by 10pm on the Week indicated for each assessment task.

Note: Deadlines refer to teaching weeks. The semester consists of 13 teaching weeks and a two-week mid-semester break. Teaching Week 9 is therefore week 11 of the semester.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Reflective Essay	30%	No	Week 6
Essay Plan	10%	Yes	Week 7
Research Essay	60%	No	Week 13

Reflective Essay

Due: Week 6

Weighting: 30%

Students will submit a short essay (750 words, excluding footnotes and bibliography) reflecting on principles and theories of governance, consolidating their learning from core readings of the unit. Further instructions will be provided on the unit's iLearn page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate advanced and integrated understanding of a broad and complex body of theoretical and applied knowledge in law, governance and public policy.

- Describe and critique the broader context within which law reform and policy are developed, at domestic and international levels, implemented and evaluated.
- Communicate effectively in a written form at a postgraduate level, including adhering to proper referencing standards.

Essay Plan

Due: Week 7

Weighting: 10%

This is a hurdle assessment task (see assessment policy for more information on hurdle assessment tasks)

Students are encouraged to revise their Research Proposal from LAWS818 to provide a short Essay Plan of 250 words (excluding footnotes and bibliography) for their Research Paper. Further instructions will be available on the unit's iLearn page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Recognize and reflect upon contemporary challenges to promoting objectives in social justice, corporate responsibility, effective governance, democracy, the rule of law and sustainable development in a global setting.
- Engage in high level critical thinking and exercise judgment in the recognition and resolution of current legal and policy challenges.
- Communicate effectively in a written form at a postgraduate level, including adhering to proper referencing standards.

Research Essay

Due: Week 13

Weighting: 60%

Students are required to submit a 5,000 word (maximum length, excluding bibliography, tables, figures and appendices) research essay with references in accordance with the Australian Guide to Legal Citation 3 (AGLC3). They will apply their research skills and understanding of legal research methodologies to execute an independent research project to address a contemporary challenge in legal governance, from either a domestic or international perspective, under one of the following broad topic areas:

1. Public Health
2. Environment
3. Commerce
4. Human Rights

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate advanced and integrated understanding of a broad and complex body of theoretical and applied knowledge in law, governance and public policy.
- Describe and critique the broader context within which law reform and policy are developed, at domestic and international levels, implemented and evaluated.
- Recognize and reflect upon contemporary challenges to promoting objectives in social justice, corporate responsibility, effective governance, democracy, the rule of law and sustainable development in a global setting.
- Engage in high level critical thinking and exercise judgment in the recognition and resolution of current legal and policy challenges.
- Apply sophisticated legal and policy research skills to the resolution of problems and to formulate reform proposals.
- Communicate effectively in a written form at a postgraduate level, including adhering to proper referencing standards.
- Carry out independent research and engage in self-directed learning to develop new and creative solutions to legal, governance and policy challenges.

Delivery and Resources

In the first half of this year-long unit, students will complete all assessment tasks and attend seminars for LAWS818.

The second half of the unit will include online materials and seven 2-hour face-to-face seminars over the second semester of this year-long unit. These seminars are not compulsory.
