Unit description

The unit begins with an examination of the historical and theoretical framework of commercial law. The competing claims of predictability and certainty with principles such as good faith, fairness and reasonableness are analysed. A critical approach to the existing law of contract concentrating on methods of interpretation in the commercial context completes this part of the unit. Students then undertake a detailed study of the law of common commercial relationships and transactions such as principal and agent, commercial sale of goods, negotiable instruments, insurance and bankruptcy.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate a sophisticated understanding of the historical and theoretical development of commercial law and articulate a view of whether commercial law should be treated differently to other areas of law.

Communicate a considered opinion about the role that commercial law plays in commercial relationships and also the importance of factors other than the law in forming and maintaining these relationships

Articulate and critique aspects of Australian contract law's approach to the governance of commercial transactions and compare international and soft law alternatives

Demonstrate practitioner level understanding of the law relating to the major commercial transactions

Solve complex problems in the area of commercial law demonstrating practitioner level ability to identify issues

Demonstrate advanced skills in the communication of legal and commercial information through class presentations and participation

General Assessment Information

NOTE CLOSELY

In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked.

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Moderation

Detailed marking rubrics will be made available on iLearn and on the final take home exam. Markers in this unit undertake a process of 'blind marking' to establish a common marking standard and all Fail papers are double marked.
