Unit description
Students will undertake a placement at the Macquarie Social Justice Clinic, a new university-run legal clinic housed on campus at Macquarie Law School. Students will work under the close supervision of solicitor-teachers on real world social justice cases, undertaking a range of activities including legal research and writing, client interviewing, and legal and non-legal advocacy. Students work face-to-face with their solicitor-teacher for one day a week in the clinic on campus. They are also expected to undertake an additional 6-8 hours of independent work per week outside this setting. Online modules will provide students with the knowledge and skills required to participate in a clinical legal environment (e.g. ethical and reflective practice, research skills) and introduce them to social justice issues and aspects of public interest law.

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at http://students.mq.edu.au/student_admin/enrolmentguide/academicdates/
Learning Outcomes

1. Demonstrate competency in practical 'lawyering' skills, including preparing file notes and court documents, conducting legal research, and drafting legal correspondence and other forms of legal and non-legal writing.
2. Understand how to learn from experience, observation and reflection
3. Critically analyse the personal and professional expectations of a lawyer in practice and entrenched issues of disadvantage in the legal system
4. Identify, manage and reflect on ethical issues that arise in legal practice

General Assessment Information

In the absence of a successful application for special consideration due to a disruption to studies, any assessment task submitted after its published deadline will not be graded and will receive a mark of zero. Applications for a Disruption to Studies are made electronically via ask.mq.edu.au and should be accompanied by supporting documentation. Students should refer to the Disruption to Studies policy for complete details of the policy and a description of the supporting documentation required.

Word limits will be strictly applied and work above the word limit will not be marked.

All assessments in the unit are to be submitted electronically. Plagiarism detection software is used in this unit.

Quiz

Due: Thursday 16 March
Weighting: 10%

The quiz will test your understanding of your ethical and professional obligations set out in the Clinic Operating Manual and Volunteer Agreement

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Demonstrate competency in practical 'lawyering' skills, including preparing file notes and court documents, conducting legal research, and drafting legal correspondence and other forms of legal and non-legal writing.
• Identify, manage and reflect on ethical issues that arise in legal practice

Goals and Reflection
Due: 17 March and 13 June
Weighting: 30%

This exercise requires you to develop aims and goals for your learning in the clinic and meet with the Convenor to discuss these goals (17 March, 5 marks); and prepare a goal outcomes report and personal reflection (13 June, 25 marks)

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Demonstrate competency in practical 'lawyering' skills, including preparing file notes and court documents, conducting legal research, and drafting legal correspondence and other forms of legal and non-legal writing.
• Understand how to learn from experience, observation and reflection
• Critically analyse the personal and professional expectations of a lawyer in practice and entrenched issues of disadvantage in the legal system
• Identify, manage and reflect on ethical issues that arise in legal practice

Portfolio
Due: 13 June
Weighting: 60%

This task requires you to select and collate your three best outputs created during the course of your work at the clinic. This can include (but is not limited to) formal legal writing, such as submissions, statements or legal correspondence; timelines or background research relevant to litigation; research memorandum; blog posts or community education/empowerment materials.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Demonstrate competency in practical 'lawyering' skills, including preparing file notes and court documents, conducting legal research, and drafting legal correspondence and other forms of legal and non-legal writing.
• Understand how to learn from experience, observation and reflection

Delivery and Resources
Students will undertake a placement at the Macquarie University Social Justice Clinic, a new university-run legal clinic housed on campus at Macquarie Law School. Students will work under the close supervision of solicitor-teachers on real world social justice cases, undertaking a range of activities including legal research and writing, and legal and non-legal advocacy. Students work face-to-face with their solicitor-teacher for one day a week in the clinic on campus. They are also expected to undertake an additional 6-8 hours of independent work per week outside this setting. Online modules will provide students with the knowledge and skills required to participate in a clinical legal environment.

Adjunct Professor George Newhouse will be acting as the solicitor-teacher for this offering. Students will assist Professor Newhouse with his caseload from the National Justice Project (NJP), of which he is the Director. More information about the work of the NJP can be found here: http://www.justice.org.au/. Students will be required to attend the clinic in person from 10am to 4pm on Fridays, from week 2 to week 13.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens
As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
