Unit description

In this unit students undertake a planning project involving development of, or critical review of, a plan. The planning project may be linked to an internship or student consultancy with a planning employer, or be a personal research project. Examples of plans are spatial plans or policy implementation plans that relate to urban development, social or economic development, and/or environmental planning. Students may be able to include activities in a current workplace as their planning project. The unit is designed to develop knowledge and skills for a new career path in the planning profession across a range of sectors including government, industry, not-for-profit, professional associations and university research partnerships.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Delivery and Resources

Getting Started

This is a self-directed unit where you are required to undertake a substantive planning related project relevant to your studies and to your career aspirations. To get the most out of this unit, it is important to plan early. Please get in contact with Alison (alison.ziller@mq.edu.au) before the beginning of the semester in which you plan to take the unit. Please note that some projects will require a partner agreement, insurance and ethics clearances. It is a good idea to come into this unit with some idea about what you plan to do!

Required and recommended reading

There is no required text. It is anticipated that topic-related background reading will be required for each project and assignment.

Technology used and required

Students will have access to Macquarie Library resources and also the support of planning staff.

Unit Schedule

This is a self directed, project based unit where you are expected to work to the plan set out in the first 2 weeks of semester. There are no scheduled classes for this unit. You are encouraged to investigate possible topics before semester begins. This can involve developing a planning-related project in your workplace; developing a planning based project based on an area where you would like to enhance your planning knowledge; working with local council or planning consultants to develop a project; consulting with academic in Geography and Planning about potential projects. Please get in contact with Alison to discuss your ideas before the beginning of the first week of semester! There is no shortage of planning issues and projects to work on - the purpose of the 'Gateway' unit is to tailor a unit to suit your own interests.

Individual and group 'catch-ups' will be scheduled with Alison throughout the semester to discuss your progress.
