Unit description

Following on from HST150, this unit charts Europe's path from 1789 through to the early years of the twentieth century. It traces the emergence of the key economic, political, intellectual and social forms that characterise Western modernity, providing ideal background for teaching the Year 9 component of the National Curriculum, The Making of the Modern World. Topics explored in this unit include enlightenment rationality, left-right politics, bourgeois society, industrial capitalism, class formation, liberalism, socialism, feminism, nationalism and secular science. The unit ends on the eve of WWI when new ideas such as psychology, relativity and nihilism threatened to undermine all that had been consolidated in the preceding century. Students wishing to follow this journey further can do so in HST310. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914

Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century

Produce written work on multiple aspects of European history based on primary and secondary sources

Construct persuasive historical arguments through cogent writing with appropriate references

Engage with staff and students in classroom discussions and present ideas and opinions orally and respectfully

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Short Essay	20%	No	Monday Week 5 11:59pm
Research Essay	40%	No	Monday Week 11 at 11:59pm
Unit Review Exam	20%	No	Friday week 13 11:59pm
Participation	10%	No	Weeks 1-13
Quiz	10%	No	Weeks 2-12

Short Essay

Due: Monday Week 5 11:59pm

Weighting: 20%

Short Essay (involves comparative analysis of one given primary source and one self-located primary source from a suggested database; analysis should utilise at least three secondary sources; emphasis is on document analysis). Answer one of the five questions provided, in 1200 words. The 'further reading' lists in the Unit Guide will be the best place to start your research.

Refer to the history essay-writing guides under the Assessment tab for information about argumentation, formatting, and citation style. You must build a strong argument through every paragraph. You must present your essay with a title, wide margins, page numbers, and double-spaced. You must cite your references correctly and provide a bibliography at the end, starting on a new page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914
- Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century
- Produce written work on multiple aspects of European history based on primary and secondary sources
- Construct persuasive historical arguments through cogent writing with appropriate

references

Research Essay

Due: Monday Week 11 at 11.59pm

Weighting: 40%

The aim of this task is to assess your ability to produce an extended discussion in written form (2500 words) in response to a specific question. The questions are listed in the assessment section of the course website. We expect you to write your essay using the sources supplied with the questions, but we also expect you to do your own primary and secondary research. Your essay must be fully referenced in line with the 'Referencing Essays in Modern History'. Marks will be deducted in the major essay for inadequate or incorrect referencing.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914
- Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century
- Produce written work on multiple aspects of European history based on primary and secondary sources
- Construct persuasive historical arguments through cogent writing with appropriate references

Unit Review Exam

Due: Friday week 13 11.59pm

Weighting: 20%

The non-invigilated take-home exam requires students to select three (3) questions (from a selection of nine) that relate to broad aspects of the course content. The main purpose of this assessment task is to test your ability to produce a brief but clear and logical argument that is supported by evidence. The total word length for the exam is 1500 words. For this task, you need not consult any readings beyond those listed as required or recommended. The essays must, however, be fully documented in the appropriate forms, with footnotes and a bibliography.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914
- Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century
- Produce written work on multiple aspects of European history based on primary and secondary sources
- Construct persuasive historical arguments through cogent writing with appropriate

references

Participation

Due: Weeks 1-13

Weighting: 10%

The online discussion task, undertaken through the MHIX221 Online Website, tests your ability to communicate ideas, your appreciation and comprehension of the themes and concepts discussed in the course, your ability to critically assess and evaluate the arguments of others, and your ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. It is also a task that monitors your progress across the unit topics. You are expected to participate in weekly discussions and make postings within the time frame of each discussion topic. These begin on Monday of the discussion week and run through to the following Sunday. You will be assessed on the quality of your responses, the frequency of your posts and your engagement with other students. A professional and courteous approach towards staff and fellow students is expected at all times.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914
- Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century
- Produce written work on multiple aspects of European history based on primary and secondary sources
- Construct persuasive historical arguments through cogent writing with appropriate references
- Engage with staff and students in classroom discussions and present ideas and opinions orally and respectfully

Quiz

Due: Weeks 2-12

Weighting: 10%

Quizzes will run each week from 2-12 (excluding week 8 which will be dedicated to essay-writing). They will consist of 2 multiple choice questions related to key ideas and events drawn from the week's topic and texts. It is therefore important to do the readings and listen to the lectures before attempting the quiz. You will have 5 minutes to select your answers and only 1 attempt is permitted. Quizzes are available from Monday until Sunday (11:59) of each given week. The correct answers will be released after each quiz has closed.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Understand and explain some chief threads of European history from 1789 to 1914
- Understand and explain the relationship of Europe to the rest of the world through the long nineteenth century

Policies and Procedures

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure (<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:
