Unit description

Only by understanding the past can we understand today's politics, culture and social environment. The Making of Australia examines two-hundred years of Australian history from colonisation to the present. It considers the ways that Australian experience has been shaped by the land, economic forces and cultural identity. The unit begins with the early European response to the land they explored and settled, and to the Indigenous population. From here we take a journey through convictism to the discovery of gold and the push to federation. In the twentieth century we look at Australians in war, Indigenous relations, immigration, sport, religion and the recent political debates over versions of our history. Students completing this unit will leave with a sound understanding of the major forces that have shaped Australia's history; a knowledge of the key events in this history; an ability to locate and interpret historical sources; and an opportunity to reflect upon the way the present has been shaped by the past. The Making of Australia is invaluable to anyone wishing to teach history, develop historical skills or expand their knowledge of Australia's past. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Short Essay	20%	No	Friday Week 4
Major Essay	40%	No	Friday Week 9
Exam	20%	No	Friday Week 13
Online participation	20%	No	Weekly

Short Essay

Due: Friday Week 4

Weighting: 20%

This task assesses your ability to construct a short written response (1000 words) to a supplied question, based on analysis of both primary and secondary sources, which will be supplied. Your essay must be fully referenced, including footnotes and a bibliography – see the referencing guidelines on the unit website for instructions.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the main changes and continuities in Australian society since 1788.
- Explain the dominant social relations and ideologies since white settlement.
- Analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources.
- Interpret historical information, including self-located scholarly research materials.
- Investigate socially complex issues offering creative and innovative resolutions in scholarly written formats.
- Engage with staff and other students in critical, open, and evidence - based classroom/ online discussion.
- Construct research into clear, specific, historical arguments presented in grammatically correct writing with appropriate references.

Major Essay

Due: Friday Week 9

Weighting: 40%

The aim of this task is to assess your ability to produce an extended discussion in written form (2000 words) in response to a specific question. The questions are listed in the assessment section of the course website. We expect you to write your essay using the sources supplied with the questions, but we also expect you to do your own research and use some self-located sources. You should write clearly and cogently. Your essay should be fully referenced in line with the unit's referencing guidelines. Marks will be deducted in the major essay for inadequate or incorrect referencing.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the main changes and continuities in Australian society since 1788.
- Explain the dominant social relations and ideologies since white settlement.
- Analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources.
- Interpret historical information, including self-located scholarly research materials.
- Investigate socially complex issues offering creative and innovative resolutions in scholarly written formats.
- Engage with staff and other students in critical, open, and evidence - based classroom/online discussion.
- Construct research into clear, specific, historical arguments presented in grammatically correct writing with appropriate references.

Exam

Due: Friday Week 13

Weighting: 20%

The non-invigilated take-home exam requires students to select two questions (from a selection of six) that relate to broad aspects of the course content. The main purpose of this assessment task is to test your ability to produce a brief (1000 words per essay) but clear and logical argument that is supported by evidence. For this task, you need not consult any readings beyond those listed as required or recommended. The essays must, however, be fully documented in the appropriate forms, with footnotes and a bibliography.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the main changes and continuities in Australian society since 1788.
- Explain the dominant social relations and ideologies since white settlement.
- Analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources.
- Interpret historical information, including self-located scholarly research materials.

- Investigate socially complex issues offering creative and innovative resolutions in scholarly written formats.
- Engage with staff and other students in critical, open, and evidence - based classroom/ online discussion.
- Construct research into clear, specific, historical arguments presented in grammatically correct writing with appropriate references.

Online participation

Due: Weekly

Weighting: 20%

The online discussion task, undertaken through the HST110 unit website, tests your ability to communicate ideas, your appreciation and comprehension of the themes and concepts discussed in the course, your ability to critically assess and evaluate the arguments of others, and your ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. It is also a task that monitors your progress across the unit topics. You are expected to do the weekly readings, participate in weekly discussions and make postings within the time frame of each discussion topic. These begin on Monday of the discussion week and run through to the following Sunday. You should look to answer at least two of the set questions each week, as well as engaging with the posts of other students. Each individual post should be kept to a maximum of 100 words. A professional and courteous approach towards staff and fellow students is expected at all times.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Identify the main changes and continuities in Australian society since 1788.
- Explain the dominant social relations and ideologies since white settlement.
- Analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources.
- Interpret historical information, including self-located scholarly research materials.
- Investigate socially complex issues offering creative and innovative resolutions in scholarly written formats.
- Engage with staff and other students in critical, open, and evidence - based classroom/ online discussion.
- Construct research into clear, specific, historical arguments presented in grammatically correct writing with appropriate references.

Policies and Procedures

Late Submission - applies unless otherwise stated elsewhere in the unit guide

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Extension Request

Special Consideration Policy and Procedure (<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>)

The University recognises that students may experience events or conditions that adversely affect their academic performance. If you experience serious and unavoidable difficulties at exam time or when assessment tasks are due, you can consider applying for Special Consideration.

You need to show that the circumstances:

1. were serious, unexpected and unavoidable
2. were beyond your control
3. caused substantial disruption to your academic work
4. substantially interfered with your otherwise satisfactory fulfilment of the unit requirements
5. lasted at least three consecutive days or a total of 5 days within the teaching period and prevented completion of an assessment task scheduled for a specific date.

If you feel that your studies have been impacted submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in
2. Fill in your relevant details
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'Browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'Submit Form' to send your notification and supporting documents
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process

Outcome

Once your submission is assessed, an appropriate outcome will be organised.
