Unit description
Popular culture is ubiquitous in today's world. We cannot turn without being confronted by it in some form. It is so pervasive, so powerful an influence on daily lives, that it must be historically significant. But how? From the Beats to Big Brother traces the history of popular culture in the United States, Australia and Britain from the fifties to the present. It particularly focuses on the ways in which class, gender, race and politics have shaped the experience of popular culture. Film, television, music, music video and other forms of new media will be used to evoke seminal moments in the history of popular culture and students will be encouraged to explore such non-discursive forms as primary sources. Students will also be encouraged to consider the reception of popular culture by audiences and to think about their own experience of popular culture historically. This unit offers an important addition to conventional history by exploring the depths of what has often been seen as superficial culture. It raises a number of questions about how we might analyse this culture, whilst offering a detailed explanation for its historical genesis and global dissemination. All enrolment queries should be directed to Open Universities Australia (OUA): see www.open.edu.au

Important Academic Dates
Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at https://www.open.edu.au/student-admin-and-support/key-dates/

Learning Outcomes

1. Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
2. Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
3. Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
4. Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
5. Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
6. Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Weekly Quiz

Due: weekly

Weighting: 25%

You will find a quiz in the iLearn block for each week of this unit, consisting of two short-answer questions (you only need to write a maximum of 2-3 sentences for each answer). The quiz is timed - you will have 10 minutes to write your responses. One question will assess your understanding of the week’s lectures, the other will assess your understanding of the readings. You will do twelve quizzes over the semester (plus one practice test in week one, which is not graded); the best ten will count towards your grade. The quiz will be graded out of 4 (2 possible marks per question). You will receive feedback in the form of model answers for each question.

NOTE: You will need to complete your quiz before midnight on Sunday of each week. Unless you are ill or have an unavoidable absence, and can provide documentation, you will not be able to make up any quizzes after the week in which they are given.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Communicate effectively in a range of written forms

Primary Source Analysis

Due: 25 March, 5pm

Weighting: 10%

In our week 3 discussions, we will focus on analysing primary sources and how to use them in a research essay. We will be working online with a supplied primary source that relates to this week's topic area.
Unit guide MHIX365 From the Beats to Big Brother: Popular Culture Since the 1950s

You will then be supplied (via iLearn) with an additional primary source that also relates to this week's topic area. Using the skills we developed in our discussion, you have one week to write a 500-word analysis of the supplied primary source.

The written piece is to be submitted by Saturday 25th March, 5pm.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture

Research essay proposal

Due: 14th April, 5pm

Weighting: 25%

This task will assess your ability to develop a research question and approach, as well as your ability to locate and analyse primary and secondary sources. It is the first step towards developing your research essay. The proposals will be returned in time for you to work on your research essay after the mid-semester break.

You should proceed as follows:

Thinking about a topic: It is best to start this process as early as possible. Look at the weekly lecture and tutorial schedule. What themes in this course do you find most interesting? What questions are you interested in exploring? Do you want to write about Australia, the United States, or both?

Try to think about popular culture historically - that is, think carefully about how we can use popular culture as evidence of past attitudes, representations, ideologies, and points of view. You are aiming to relate popular culture to broader social, cultural, and political events and ideas, and to relate popular culture to the broader society that produced it.

Developing a question: Your question needs to be direct and focused, because you will be assessed on how you answer it - for example, "How did x reveal ideas about y in the American 1950s?". You can focus on media debate about a particular pop culture text or group of texts, or examine responses of a particular kind of pop culture consumer to an item of pop culture. You can trace the ways responses to a particular event, new technology (for example, television) or social movement (for example, feminism, the Iraq War) played out in popular culture, or explore how certain popular culture texts represent gender or race or sexuality in particular historical contexts and reflect - or contest - dominant representations.

Submitting your proposal: The proposal is due Friday 14th April, 5pm via turnitin on iLearn.

Your proposal should be 1500 words and must include the following:
1. Your research question, clearly framed as an essay question, rather than simply as an idea.

2. Your approach to the question. This section should be around 800 words. In outlining your approach, consider the following questions:
   - What is your topic about? What time and place are you focusing on?
   - What might your main primary sources be? Are they accessible? Why are they useful? List at least three and explain how at least one of your sources relates to your research area and question, explain its key themes, and explain how you might use it as evidence - what components of the source are most useful to you?
   - How does the genre or form of your primary sources shape their meaning?
   - What do you need to know about the historical background/context of your topic? (For example, if you are writing about film and the Gulf War, then you need to include works on the Gulf War as well as its cinematic representations.)
   - What other themes or issues do you need to understand in order to explore this topic properly? (For example, do you need to find out more about changing gender roles, or how propaganda works?)
   - Are there questions about evidence or methodology you need to consider?

3. An annotated bibliography, which must have seven 100 word entries. The works in your annotated bibliography should be the most relevant secondary sources for researching your project. You may use the questions in the ‘approach’ section above as a guide to thinking about the kinds of readings you need to cover in your annotate bibliography.

4. The proposal enables you to start thinking about your research essay at an early stage and understand where your work will fit within the relevant field of study. If you are unsure what an annotated bibliography looks like, see the following websites:
   - https://student.unsw.edu.au/annotated-bibliography
   - http://guides.library.cornell.edu/annotatedbibliography

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
- Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
• Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
• Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Research Essay

Due: 5 June, 5pm
Weighting: 40%

This assessment task evaluates your ability to construct an argument in response to your own self-devised research question, based on primary and secondary sources. This task is the culmination of your assessment tasks in this unit; all your previous assessments are "scaffolding" this final task. You need to observe the conventions of writing and referencing as outlined in "Writing Essays in History".

Your final essay should be 3000 words, not including referencing.

This assessment is to submitted via turnitin on iLearn. Remember to submit the essay self-assessment (available on iLearn) sheet with your essay. You must also include a short statement, about one paragraph, on how you have utilised the feedback you have received on your research proposal when completing your final research project.

There is a rubric for this assessment task included as a PDF download in the "Assessments" section on iLearn.

This Assessment Task relates to the following Learning Outcomes:
• Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
• Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
• Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
• Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
• Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Late Submission

Unless otherwise stated, late submission of written work will result in a deduction of 10% of the mark awarded for each week or part of a week beyond the due date, or date to which an extension has been granted.

Extension Request

The University recognises that students may experience disruptions that adversely affect their academic performance in assessment activities.

The disruption to studies policy (http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/disruption_studies/policy.html) applies only to serious and unavoidable disruptions that arise after a study period has commenced.
Serious and unavoidable disruption

The University classifies a disruption as serious and unavoidable if it:

- could not have reasonably been anticipated, avoided or guarded against by the student; and
- was beyond the student's control; and
- caused substantial disruption to the student's capacity for effective study and/or completion of required work; and
- occurred during an event critical study period and was at least three (3) consecutive days duration, and/or
- prevented completion of a final examination.

If you feel that you've been impacted by a serious and unavoidable disruption to study situation, submit an application as follows:

1. Visit Ask MQ and use your OneID to log in via 'Current student domestic and international'
2. Under 'Forms' select 'disruptions' and fill in your relevant details.
3. Attach supporting documents by clicking 'Add a reply', click 'browse' and navigating to the files you want to attach, then click 'submit form' to send your notification and supporting documents.
4. Please keep copies of your original documents, as they may be requested in the future as part of the assessment process.

Review

Once your submission is assessed, recommendations are sent to your unit convenor to ensure an appropriate solution for affected assessment(s) is organised.

OUA Specific Policies and Procedures

OUA Special Circumstances Process

Special Circumstances refers to late withdrawal from a unit and your request to have your circumstances taken into account for a possible refund of fees and removal of a "fail" result.

Applications for Special Circumstances are to be submitted to Open Universities Australia directly:

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central. Students should be aware of the following policies in particular with regard to Learning and Teaching:

- Disruption to Studies Policy http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/disruption_studies/policy.html _The Disruption to Studies Policy is effective from March 3 2014 and replaces the Special Consideration Policy._

In addition, a number of other policies can be found in the Learning and Teaching Category of Policy Central.

Graduate Capabilities

Problem Solving and Research Capability
Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
• Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
• Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
• Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Assessment tasks

• Weekly Quiz
• Primary Source Analysis

Effective Communication
We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:
Learning outcomes

• Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
• Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s

Assessment tasks

• Weekly Quiz
• Primary Source Analysis
• Research essay proposal
• Research Essay

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

• Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
• Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
• Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
• Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
• Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
• Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Assessment tasks

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
- Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
- Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Assessment tasks

- Weekly Quiz
Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation’s historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
- Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Assessment tasks

- Research essay proposal

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understand the intersection between social and political movements and popular culture
- Understand how the social and political movements of this period were reflected in popular culture

Assessment tasks

- Research essay proposal
- Research Essay

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Read and analyse different kinds of historical evidence, including visual and textual sources
- Find, analyse and apply historical information (especially self-located research materials)
- Communicate effectively in a range of written forms
- Describe the main changes and continuities in popular culture since the 1950s
