Essay (2000 words)

Due: Friday Week 11

Weighting: 35%

An essay of 2000 words on one chosen topic. (Essay topics to be advised via iLearn). Due date: Before 4:30pm, Friday week 11 All written assignments are submitted via Turnitin. Hard copies to be submitted to the teacher in class. Assignments are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason (e.g. medical certificate). Late submissions will be penalised by 5% for each day (including weekends) the assignment task is late. No assignments will be accepted after assignments have been corrected and feedback has been provided. Assignment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date. Essay marking rubric will be published on iLearn.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- To develop knowledge of Chinese art and history of Chinese art through a broad of sources and practical painting skills.
- To explore a wide range of concepts and theories of Chinese art and schools of philosophy related to Chinese art, in terms of written texts, on both concrete and abstract topics, commentaries and literary texts.
- To identify and extract information from a wide range of reading sources; to research and critically evaluate topics on Chinese art and history of Chinese art.
- To express points of view and provide analysis and argumentation on topical issues; to write a clear, well-structured text on subject matters of Chinese art and Chinese history.

Class participation

Due: Every week

Weighting: 20%

Students should attend all tutorials. Less than 50 minutes attendance in any session could be considered an absence. Student must sign the roll call list in each session. Participation will be marked on attendance, willingness to participate in class discussion, preparation and performance of reading and responding to questions. Students are expected to be well prepared in order to participate in class discussion – this will ensure good use of class time as well as improving your learning skills and sharing your knowledge with others. Class attendance and participation is expected and will be part of the assessment. This means you not only come and sign in the class but come well prepared and participate in class discussion. You need to read the assigned reading material and think about the topics and share your thought with others.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- To develop knowledge of Chinese art and history of Chinese art through a broad of sources and practical painting skills.
- To explore a wide range of concepts and theories of Chinese art and schools of philosophy related to Chinese art, in terms of written texts, on both concrete and abstract topics, commentaries and literary texts.
- To identify and extract information from a wide range of reading sources; to research and critical evaluate topics on Chinese art and history of Chinese art.
- To express points of view and provide analysis and argumentation on topical issues; to write a clear, well-structured text on subject matters of Chinese art and Chinese history.

Online discussions (iLecture)

Due: End of Week 6 and Week 10

Weighting: 20%

NOTE: This is for iLecture students ONLY.

All students are required to participate in online discussion groups in iLearn. There will be two set topics, and all students are required to respond before the deadline as stated in iLearn.

There is no opportunity to contribute to the discussion once it is closed, so please ensure you do not leave submitting until the last minute to avoid any technical issues on your end which might prevent you from submitting.

Students will be assessed on the relevance of their contributions in relation to readings and lecture materials as well as their responses to others in the group.

There is a minimum of 300 words per entry.

Students must engage in a respectful dialogue or run the risk of being banned from further contributions and therefore losing marks. Please visit the university's policy on Netiquette: http://www.mq.edu.au/iLearn/student\_info/netiquette.htm

NOTE: Non-iLecture students must finish a short quiz after each lecture in the Lecture Theatre.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- To develop knowledge of Chinese art and history of Chinese art through a broad of sources and practical painting skills.
- To explore a wide range of concepts and theories of Chinese art and schools of philosophy related to Chinese art, in terms of written texts, on both concrete and abstract topics, commentaries and literary texts.
- To identify and extract information from a wide range of reading sources; to research and critical evaluate topics on Chinese art and history of Chinese art.
- To express points of view and provide analysis and argumentation on topical issues; to write a clear, well-structured text on subject matters of Chinese art and Chinese history.

2 painting tests

Due: Weeks 7 & 13

Weighting: 25%

Literati painting has been regarded as an important part in the history of classical Chinese painting. It has been a long tradition that the four kinds of plants (ie. plum blossoms, orchids, chrysanthemum and bamboo) have been regarded as the symbols of the four Confucian gentlemen, embodying the virtues of stereotyped literati.

Students are required to demonstrate the ability to appreciate this category of Chinese art tradition through water ink painting skills.

Test 1: students to paint a small section of plum flower with brush and ink on Chinese paper in week 7 within an hour. (10%)

Test 2: students to paint a full plum flower painting with brush and ink on Chinese paper in week 13 within an hour. (15%)

On successful completion you will be able to:

- To develop knowledge of Chinese art and history of Chinese art through a broad of sources and practical painting skills.
- To explore a wide range of concepts and theories of Chinese art and schools of philosophy related to Chinese art, in terms of written texts, on both concrete and abstract topics, commentaries and literary texts.

- To identify and extract information from a wide range of reading sources; to research and critical evaluate topics on Chinese art and history of Chinese art.

Delivery and Resources

Lectures (2 hours per week)

Tutorials (please check the timetable according to your enrolled class)
