Unit description

Students in year two of the Master of Research program in Philosophy enroll in this unit. Seminars and other activities are arranged to enable students to pass milestones on the way to successful completion of a research thesis, including 1) clarification of research methodology; 2) the composition of a literature review; and 3) formulation of a thesis concept.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Demonstrate a strong understanding of how to define a specific academic discipline.

Demonstrate awareness of the historical development of the discipline in which the project is being undertaken.

Demonstrate a clear ability to communicate the relationship of the project to the discipline and sub-discipline in both written and oral form.

Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

General Assessment Information

Some of these assessments contribute towards your final grade for the MRES, others are milestones that must be completed satisfactorily to allow your further progression and final submission of the MRES thesis in October.

Assessments with 0% assigned to them are 'milestone' assessments used to monitor progress; students cannot graduate unless they have satisfactorily completed all of the milestone assessments.

Assessment deadlines and tasks may be updated throughout the year so keep checking online in the ilearn space to stay abreast of any updates.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Conference presentation	5%	No	At unit session
Written Report	5%	No	1 week after presentation
Draft Literature Review	0%	No	End of Week 11
Methods Report	0%	No	End of Week 13

PhD Proposal Workshop	0%	No	After thesis submission

Conference presentation

Due: At unit session

Weighting: 5%

Students will give an oral presentation (value 5% of overall MRes grade) of 10 minutes during one of two sessions of the unit in which they will:

- Briefly outline their MRes Research Project
- Identify and describe the broader field and/or discipline in which their project sits, noting the key research questions that guide researchers in the field.
- Describe how their own project is situated in relation to the discipline (and/or sub-discipline), relevant key thinkers and questions.
- Identify any relevant sub-disciplinary and/or cross-disciplinary initiatives and directions that have moved researchers into new areas of investigation/analysis.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a strong understanding of how to define a specific academic discipline.
- Demonstrate awareness of the historical development of the discipline in which the project is being undertaken.
- Demonstrate a clear ability to communicate the relationship of the project to the discipline and sub-discipline in both written and oral form.
- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

Written Report

Due: 1 week after presentation

Weighting: 5%

One week after the conference presentation students will submit a 3000 word report (value 5% of overall MRes grade) to their MRES director. This will consist of two parts. The first part will consist of the paper as presented at the unit session or the Faculty conference. The length of this part of the report will not exceed 2500 words. The second part of the report will be a 500 word reflection on the conference or unit session.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a strong understanding of how to define a specific academic discipline.
- Demonstrate awareness of the historical development of the discipline in which the project is being undertaken.
- Demonstrate a clear ability to communicate the relationship of the project to the discipline and sub-discipline in both written and oral form.
- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

Draft Literature Review

Due: End of Week 11

Weighting: 0%

As part of your thesis, you will survey the current literature relating to your individual research project. This assessment is designed to give you a framework within which to complete this component of your thesis, A draft literature review or survey must be submitted to your supervisor for comment by the deadline. The length of the literature review is dependent on the discipline/sub-discipline, and this draft will act as part of the final thesis, where it will be assessed.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate a strong understanding of how to define a specific academic discipline.

- Demonstrate awareness of the historical development of the discipline in which the project is being undertaken.
- Demonstrate a clear ability to communicate the relationship of the project to the discipline and sub-discipline in both written and oral form.
- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

Methods Report

Due: End of Week 13

Weighting: 0%

The research methods program builds on the skill-based units undertaken in year one of the MRes – for year 2 direct entry candidates this is even more important as you may not have had this recent recap on methodology and project design. Remember the activities you undertake here must also be supported by regular contact with your supervisors – combined, this will equip the candidates with all the relevant skills to conduct their thesis research.

Assessment: Students are be expected to complete all three components of the Research Methods program (i.e.: Research Diary; Oral Report and Methods Report). The Methods report will be no more than 500 words and will be graded as satisfactory/unsatisfactory. The final methods written report is due approximately one week after the workshop session and must be submitted to the MRes Year 2 Convenor.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

Thesis submission

Due: Date advised

Weighting: 90%

Candidates are expected to complete a significant individual research project of their own design in order to demonstrate individual research capability to conduct major (PhD) research project.

Candidates will prepare a thesis equivalent to 15,000-20,000 words, subject to disciplinary standards, equivalent to a research paper published in a high impact (first quartile) journal in the appropriate discipline.

The thesis will be due on the date advised by the HDRO.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate awareness of the historical development of the discipline in which the project is being undertaken.

- Demonstrate a clear ability to communicate the relationship of the project to the discipline and sub-discipline in both written and oral form.
- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

PhD Proposal Workshop

Due: After thesis submission

Weighting: 0%

The PhD proposal will build on the MRes thesis (as a foundation for future research), but it should also offer a focus, topic and/or set of research questions distinct from the MRES thesis.

A workshop on planning the PhD will be offered after MRes thesis submission.

Students should explore possible topics and discuss their ideas with their supervisors as early as possible and work on draft documents closely with the supervisor throughout the year.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Demonstrate an ability to critically evaluate the leading scholarly approaches within in the sub-discipline.

Delivery and Resources

Macquarie University provides a range of learning skills support and training to assist research candidates in developing essential skills in academic literacy, research methods and professional development. Most of these resources are free for current MQ MRes candidates; for those which attract a fee, interested candidates should consult their department about funding options, e.g. using research training funds. In addition to seeking advice from their supervisors, candidates should explore the options below.
