Unit description Australia is geographically, politically and economically enmeshed with the rapid changes taking place in the Asian region and our fate is tied up in profound ways with the so-called 'Asian Century'. Drawing on case studies from Japan, China, Singapore, India, Malaysia and Indonesia, this unit will explore, through a sociological framework, key social transformations in modern Asian societies. Through the lens of these nation-states, the unit will take a thematic approach to consider societal transformations across contemporary Asia and will explore what a distinctively sociological treatment offers: 1) Asian diversities and migrations; 2) The Intimate sphere, gender and changing family formations; 3) Asian economies and the growing middle class; 4) Comparative Welfare and social policies; 5) Urbanisation and Asian cities; and 6) Asian global cultural flows; and 7) Globalisation and interconnectedness in the Asian century.

- Presentation Report

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- 1. Examine the Asian region and Asian societies. 2. Explain the core societal transformations taking place in Asia and understand how these relate to processes of globalisation. 3. Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
