Unit description

This unit explores the relationship between fiction and history. It looks at the rise of the historical novel from the 18th century onwards, and it asks: How is history used in fiction today? Is historical fiction a form of history or historiography? We will examine contemporary literature as well as popular genre fiction - crime, romance and fantasy novels - to analyse how historical novels engage with "medievalism", "neo-Victorianism" and the representation of problematic pasts such as settler-indigenous relations in Australia, slavery in the United States, or the Holocaust. We will also evaluate: the claim that women's historical novels represent a significant intervention by women writers into male-dominated historical narratives; the longstanding historiographical debate about the relative truth-status and relationship between fiction and history; and the development of what Canadian critic Linda Hutcheon has called "postmodern historiographic metafiction" – historical fiction that points self-reflexively and self-consciously to its own artifice as historical discourse. Novels to be studied include A.S. Byatt's "Possession", Ian McEwan's "Atonement", Kate Grenville's "The Secret River" and Marcus Zusak's "The Book Thief" as well as other genre fiction.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Explain the development and evolution of historical novels
2. Analyse and explain the various ways history is used in different genres of fiction
3. Investigate and explain the role of historical fiction in debates in the public sphere over contested or problematic histories
4. Evaluate critical literary and historiographic scholarship on historical fiction
5. Develop well-researched and well-reasoned arguments about literary texts, and present these arguments orally and in writing

General Assessment Information

ASSIGNMENT SUBMISSION

- Please read The Preparation and Presentation of Essays on the iLearn site.
- Students are required to submit their written work electronically only, via the Turnitin link in the unit's iLearn site. Note that your essay will not be marked unless it has been submitted via Turnitin in the unit's iLearn site. Do not send essays via email.
- Return of marked work and feedback will be via the unit's iLearn site.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATION AND SUBMISSION OF LATE ASSIGNMENTS

If you have a legitimate reason for being unable to submit your work on time, for which you can provide documentation, you will need to complete a Special Consideration request (which must be submitted at www.ask.mq.edu.au within 5 working days of the commencement of the disruption). The full special consideration policy can be found here:

<https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policies/special-consideration>

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved,

1. a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and
2. no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Please be aware that if you apply for Special Consideration, your unit convenor might not be alerted and might not process your request, so please alert them separately by email when lodging a Special Consideration application. For any issues relating to university policies and processes, please note that the Student Advocacy Service and other support services are available.

Delivery and Resources

Lectures

You must attend or access the one-hour lecture each week, beginning in week 1.

Please consult the MQ Timetable website: <http://www.timetables.mq.edu.au> for updated information. To complete your enrolment in the unit, you must enrol in the weekly lecture as well as one tutorial.

Recorded lectures and slides are available in the ENGL234 iLearn site: <https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/login/MQ/>

Tutorials

You must attend a 1-hour tutorial each week, beginning in week 1.

Attendance at tutorials is compulsory, and is a prerequisite for both fulfilling the requirements of the unit and for earning the tutorial participation mark. Attendance at tutorials is only a prerequisite for the tutorial mark; active participation, showing significant preparation beforehand, is necessary to earn a good mark.

Policies on Missed Classes:

Absence from more than two tutorials without written explanation (medical or counselling certificate) will result in loss of the whole of the 20% tutorial mark

Students who miss class as the result of attending a teaching practicum or to participate in sporting or other activities that do not fall under the University's Special Consideration provisions should alert their tutor beforehand, and complete the allocated task as directed (the written submission of tutorial questions, due within 48 hrs of the missed class). Failure to complete the task may jeopardise the student's participation mark. These alternative arrangements may extend to a maximum of 2 weeks of the teaching session, other than in exceptional circumstances via prior negotiation with the unit convenor.

Single Missed Class

For a single absence covered by a medical or other certificate, no Special Consideration application is necessary. Rather, email your tutor with an explanation and copy of the certificate, and send written responses to the questions relating to the missed tutorial.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 2. Analyse and explain the various ways history is used in different genres of fiction
- 4. Evaluate critical literary and historiographic scholarship on historical fiction
- 5. Develop well-researched and well-reasoned arguments about literary texts, and present these arguments orally and in writing

Assessment tasks

- Critical book review
- Research Project
- Exam

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Explain the development and evolution of historical novels
- 2. Analyse and explain the various ways history is used in different genres of fiction
- 5. Develop well-researched and well-reasoned arguments about literary texts, and present these arguments orally and in writing

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
