Unit description

This unit is suited to students who wish to develop skills and confidence with their writing of narrative, either in the short story or novel genre. In addition to weekly writing tasks, students will write two to three short stories or two thematically linked novel chapters. The unit is taught through a combination of lectures; readings in narrative studies and examples of short fiction; and workshops of student writing. Narrative studies topics include focalisation, management of time, scene structures, speech and dialogue. Assessment takes into account each student's creative work, weekly writing exercises, discussion and analysis of the readings, weekly attendance and participation, and the student's workshop and discussion skills. Assessment is ongoing throughout the semester.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Development of creative narrative writing practices through the completion of writing exercises and a short story.

Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.

Ability to critique and analyse narratives using a technical vocabulary drawn from contemporary narrative studies and literary theory.

Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing, and employment of a technical vocabulary and narrative studies concepts in editing and analysis.

Skills in both analysing and discussing the creative work of others in various contexts, including workshop.

Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Development of creative narrative writing practices through the completion of writing exercises and a short story.

- Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.
- Ability to critique and analyse narratives using a technical vocabulary drawn from contemporary narrative studies and literary theory.

Assessment tasks

- Writing Exercises / Drafts
- Creative Writing Assignment

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Assessment tasks

- Participation
- Creative Writing Assignment

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Development of creative narrative writing practices through the completion of writing exercises and a short story.
- Ability to critique and analyse narratives using a technical vocabulary drawn from contemporary narrative studies and literary theory.
- Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing, and employment of a technical vocabulary and narrative studies concepts in editing and analysis.

Assessment task

- Creative Writing Assignment

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Understanding of the limits and possibilities of a range of contemporary forms of creative narrative writing including long and short short stories, realist, metafictional, speculative and the Bildungsroman narrative.
- Development of self-reflective, critical and editing skills in relation to narrative writing, and employment of a technical vocabulary and narrative studies concepts in editing and analysis.

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Assessment tasks

- Quizzes
- Creative Writing Assignment

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Skills in both analysing and discussing the creative work of others in various contexts, including workshop.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Assessment task

- Participation

Socially and Environmentally Active and Responsible

We want our graduates to be aware of and have respect for self and others; to be able to work with others as a leader and a team player; to have a sense of connectedness with others and country; and to have a sense of mutual obligation. Our graduates should be informed and active participants in moving society towards sustainability.
