Unit description

This unit presents an historical and conceptual approach to citizenship from ancient world to the present. The aim of the unit is to enhance students' theoretical understanding of issues of citizenship and national identity in an historical setting, moving from classical understandings of citizenship through the Renaissance and early modern period to the shifting political and socio-cultural landscapes that have given rise to transnational and global citizenships.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship

Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment

Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives

Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks

Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis

Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

General Assessment Information

Requirements for all written work

1. Please submit your work as a double-spaced document with 2.5cm margin (left and right) for comments. Standard fonts (e.g., Times New Roman or Arial), font size 12pt.
2. Please keep in mind that every author and website referenced in your work must appear in your bibliography / reference list (depending on which of the allowed referencing styles you are using). Wikipedia and Encarta are not academic references.
3. Please note, accepted filetypes are: .doc and .docx
4. You MUST ensure you reference all written work appropriately. In INTS202, you can use either Oxford or AGLC styles - both are footnoting styles. Style guides for both are available at the University Library's Referencing Guides pages (<http://libguides.mq.edu.au/Referencing>).
5. You must also review the Macquarie University Academic Honesty Policy at http://www.mq.edu.au/policy/docs/academic_honesty/policy.html

All students are encouraged to seek learning, writing, and research support. Your tutor will be happy to answer any questions you have, and other support is available through the Learning Skills website (http://www.students.mq.edu.au/support/learning_skills/). All students are strongly encouraged to utilise these services - you should contact the Learning Skills team well in advance of your assignment due date in order to allow enough time to apply new skills to your assignment preparation.

Assessment tasks

All assessment tasks in this unit are compulsory and must be submitted on time. As a general rule, extensions will not be granted without a valid and documented reason. Requests for special consideration (including requests for extensions) must be made in a timely manner through <https://ask.mq.edu>. You must follow the instructions at <https://ask.mq.edu.au> regarding providing supporting documentation. If you cannot attend a tutorial, you need to provide evidence as to why you were unable to attend. You cannot miss more than 2 tutorials without a valid and documented excuse. Work commitments are not a valid excuse for missing tutorials or requesting extensions for assessments.

Assessment tasks handed in early will not be marked and returned before the due date.

Indicative examples of assessment tasks will be available on iLearn.

Late Assessment Penalty

Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Class participation	20%	No	Ongoing
Quiz	10%	No	Week 4
Annotated bibliography	30%	No	Week 7
Research essay	40%	No	Week 13

Class participation

Due: Ongoing

Weighting: 20%

This assessment task requires you to participate in weekly tutorials, basing your contributions on the information covered in the lectures, readings, and on your own knowledge and experiences. Students will be required to actively participate in tutorials. What constitutes active participation is outlined in the marking rubric for this assessment (available on the INTS202 iLearn page). Please read this carefully and ensure you prepare for tutorials by listening to the lectures, reviewing the weekly readings, and thinking about the tutorial questions prior to each class.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship
- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Quiz

Due: Week 4

Weighting: 10%

Students will be required to demonstrate their knowledge of the material covered in weeks 1-3

(inclusive), by answering 5 multiple choice questions online. Each question is worth 2 marks. The quiz will be available for 3 days after the week 3 lecture (the date and time the quiz opens and closes can be found on iLearn). You must ensure that you will be available to log on to iLearn to complete the quiz during the times published on iLearn. If you will be unable to attempt the quiz during this time period, you must apply for special consideration (with supporting documentation) via <https://ask.mq.edu.au>.

Once you access the quiz, you will have 20 minutes to complete the quiz. Once 20 minutes have elapsed, your answers will automatically be submitted. Please ensure you have a reliable computer and a wired (not wireless) internet connection before you attempt the quiz. If you encounter technical difficulties, please take a screenshot of the issue and email the unit convenor immediately. This is important because if you encounter difficulties and are unable to complete the quiz, it cannot be reopened without evidence of a technical error.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives

Annotated bibliography

Due: Week 7

Weighting: 30%

In this assessment, you will start preparing for the research essay (due week 13) by identifying six sources relevant to your essay, and annotating three of the sources selected. You will receive feedback that will help you refine your research for the essay. You must have identified the sources yourself through undertaking research using scholarly databases - i.e. the sources you use for this assignment must not be sources that are provided to you as part of the unit materials on iLearn (although these materials are a very good place to start your research and develop your understanding of the essay topic). The sources must also be scholarly sources from peer reviewed journals or chapters from scholarly books. The citations for the sources themselves do not count towards the word limit. For the 3 sources that you do annotate, the word limit is 200 words per annotation (total word limit 600 words, not including references). Please note that these word limits are absolute maximums and that any words beyond this will not be read or taken into account in grading your work. Further instructions for this assignment, including criteria and standards for this assessment task, are available in the 'Assessment' section of the INTS202 iLearn page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship
- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives

- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Research essay

Due: Week 13

Weighting: 40%

In this assessment, you will undertake independent research to inform your answer to one of two essay questions (the essay question will be provided on the INTS202 iLearn page). You will be expected to write an essay that offers a clear and sophisticated argument based on sound knowledge of the literature on the topic, and supported by relevant evidence and examples. Your essay must engage with at least one theoretical perspective on citizenship covered in INTS202 lectures and readings, by undertaking research into these perspectives and applying it to a range of case studies or examples relating to citizenship. You are encouraged to draw on the content covered in the unit to help you develop your ideas, but are also required to undertake independent research for this assessment task (this means going beyond the articles and book chapters that are set readings for INTS202 and provided on iLearn). As a guide, you should aim to consult at least five relevant scholarly sources beyond the unit readings in order to achieve a passing grade. The word limit is 2000 words not including references. Please note that the word limit is an absolute maximum and that any words beyond this will not be read or taken into account in grading your work. Further instructions for this assignment, including criteria and standards for this assessment task, are available in the 'Assessment' section of the INTS202 iLearn page.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship
- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Delivery and Resources

INTS202 is offered internally in first semester. Assessment is by coursework. The unit includes a weekly 1 hour lecture and a 1 hour tutorial (please note that in some weeks, lectures will be available online rather than being delivered live - this will be detailed in the unit schedule available on iLearn).

TECHNOLOGY USED AND REQUIRED

Online Unit

Login is via: <https://ilearn.mq.edu.au/>

Is my unit in iLearn?: <http://help.ilearn.mq.edu.au/unitsonline/> to check when your online unit will become available.

Technology

Students are required to have regular access to a computer and the internet. Mobile devices alone are not sufficient.

For students attending classes on campus we strongly encourage that you bring along your own laptop computer, ready to work with activities in your online unit. The preferred operating system is Windows 10.

Students are required to access the online unit in iLearn by the end of Week 1 and follow any relevant instructions and links for downloads that may be required. If applicable, students are required to download the relevant language package prior to Week 2.

Please contact your course convenor before the end of Week 1 if you do not have a suitable laptop (or tablet) for in-class use.

- For central technical support go to: http://www.mq.edu.au/about_us/offices_and_units/information_technology/help/
- For student quick guides on the use of iLearn go to: <https://students.mq.edu.au/support/study/tools-and-resources/ilearn/ilearn-quick-guides-for-students>

The unit will be taught in English; all assessment components should be submitted in English.

As this unit involves a series of lectures in preparation for independent research, attendance at all lectures is highly recommended. Students who miss tutorials must provide evidence of an unforeseen and serious disruption (e.g. illness, supported by a professional authority form) via ask.mq.edu.au. Ongoing work commitments are not a valid reason for missing classes.

It is expected that you prepare for each lecture with the help of the reading material which is provided to you via the iLearn online platform. Each lecture will then provide you with information, references and relevant sources guiding you towards more independent research. Each week, you will be given focus questions to consider in preparation for your tutorials. Beginning in Week 2, the tutorials provide you with the opportunity to actively participate in discussions and to enhance your essay writing skills. Adequate preparation will help you to engage with the topics discussed in the tutorials.

For each week of the semester, an audiorecording of the lecture will be uploaded into iLearn after the lecture.

You are expected to visit the iLearn site for INTS202 and check your student email account more than once a week to obtain all updates and announcements in relation to the course.

Submission of written work

Please submit Assessment 3 and Assessment 4 online via Turnitin found in the relevant submission boxes in iLearn.

Advice on essay writing

Students are expected to present a very clear and concise answer in their written work. You are advised to ensure that every sentence you write relates directly to the question and contributes to your argument. Your analytical, research, and formal writing skills will be assessed in the written assessment tasks. The better the writing, the clearer your argument. You are strongly advised to proof-read your work prior to submission. Spellcheck will not identify a correctly spelled word used incorrectly in a sentence ("where" instead of "were" is one example of a common mistake which will alter the meaning of your sentence and detract from your argument). Proofread for spelling, style, syntax, vocabulary, and grammatical mistakes, all of which will weaken your writing and have the potential to change the meaning of what you had hoped to express. Do not leave the research, reading, or writing for these assessments until the last moment. If you rush your research, you will not have time to develop your thoughts. If you rush your writing, you will not have time to re-read for content and style or to proofread for errors. You must ensure you reference your work appropriately, or you risk committing plagiarism. This is a serious offence, and penalties can include a reduction in marks, failure of the assessment task or unit, and disciplinary action (including exclusion from the University). A range of academic referencing styles are explained and illustrated at: <http://libguides.mq.edu.au/Referencing>.

Required and recommended texts

You will be supplied with references for each individual reading and information within lectures on iLearn. In addition to taking notes in class, please use iLearn and the Library to obtain the necessary information.

Please familiarise yourself with the material available in the library by attending one of the library information tours offered at the start of each semester.

Plagiarism

Assignments are to be your own work. Using someone else's words (either another student's, from a book, a journal article or a website) without clear acknowledgement is plagiarism and can incur serious penalties. The University defines plagiarism in its rules: "Plagiarism involves using the work of another person and presenting it as one's own." Plagiarism is a serious breach of the University's rules and carries significant penalties. Information about plagiarism can be found in the Handbook of Undergraduate Studies, on the web at <http://www.student.mq.edu.au/plagiarism> and on the Faculty of Arts cover sheet, which you must sign before you submit your assignments. If you are in doubt consult your lecturer or tutor.

Grading

The university has a set of guidelines on the distribution of grades across the range from fail to high distinction.

HD	High Distinction which denotes work of outstanding quality. This may be demonstrated in areas such as criticism, logical argument, interpretation of materials or use of methodology. This grade may also be awarded to recognise a high order of originality or creativity in student performance;
D	Distinction which denotes work of superior quality in the same areas of performance as above. This grade may also be awarded to recognise particular originality or creativity in student performance;
Cr	Credit which denotes work of predominantly good quality, demonstrating a sound grasp of content together with efficient organisation, selectivity and use of techniques;
P	Pass which denotes a clear pass and satisfactory achievement of unit objectives;
F	Fail which denotes that a candidate has failed to complete a unit satisfactorily.

Policies and Procedures

Macquarie University policies and procedures are accessible from Policy Central \(https://staff.mq.edu.au/work/strategy-planning-and-governance/university-policies-and-procedures/policy-central\). Graduate Capabilities

Creative and Innovative

Our graduates will also be capable of creative thinking and of creating knowledge. They will be imaginative and open to experience and capable of innovation at work and in the community. We want them to be engaged in applying their critical, creative thinking.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Assessment tasks

- Class participation
- Quiz
- Annotated bibliography
- Research essay

Capable of Professional and Personal Judgement and Initiative

We want our graduates to have emotional intelligence and sound interpersonal skills and to demonstrate discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgement. They will exercise initiative as needed. They will be capable of risk assessment, and be able to handle ambiguity and complexity, enabling them to be adaptable in diverse and changing environments.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment

Assessment tasks

- Class participation
- Quiz

Commitment to Continuous Learning

Our graduates will have enquiring minds and a literate curiosity which will lead them to pursue knowledge for its own sake. They will continue to pursue learning in their careers and as they participate in the world. They will be capable of reflecting on their experiences and relationships with others and the environment, learning from them, and growing - personally, professionally and socially.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis

Discipline Specific Knowledge and Skills

Our graduates will take with them the intellectual development, depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content in their chosen fields to make them competent and confident in their subject or profession. They will be able to demonstrate, where relevant, professional technical competence and meet professional standards. They will be able to articulate the structure of knowledge of their discipline, be able to adapt discipline-specific knowledge to novel situations, and be able to contribute from their discipline to inter-disciplinary solutions to problems.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis

Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

We want our graduates to be capable of reasoning, questioning and analysing, and to integrate and synthesise learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments; to be able to critique constraints, assumptions and limitations; to be able to think independently and systemically in relation to scholarly activity, in the workplace, and in the world. We want them to have a level of scientific and information technology literacy.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis
- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Problem Solving and Research Capability

Our graduates should be capable of researching; of analysing, and interpreting and assessing data and information in various forms; of drawing connections across fields of knowledge; and they should be able to relate their knowledge to complex situations at work or in the world, in order to diagnose and solve problems. We want them to have the confidence to take the initiative in doing so, within an awareness of their own limitations.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment
- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives

- Build upon existing research skills to undertake independent research into a range of topics with limited guidance, in preparation for lectures, tutorials, and assessment tasks
- Understand the intellectual and imaginative concepts of others, build upon them, and communicate the resultant synthesis

Effective Communication

We want to develop in our students the ability to communicate and convey their views in forms effective with different audiences. We want our graduates to take with them the capability to read, listen, question, gather and evaluate information resources in a variety of formats, assess, write clearly, speak effectively, and to use visual communication and communication technologies as appropriate.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcome

- Present sustained, cogent and persuasive arguments in both written and oral work

Assessment tasks

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- Acquire, through unit content and independent research, knowledge of histories and theories of citizenship
- Ability to demonstrate independent thought and judgment

- Understand, interrogate and apply a variety of theoretical positions, and weigh the importance of various perspectives
