Unit description

Students will undertake historiographical and historical studies in ancient sources and cultures relevant to their field of interest. This unit provides students with fundamental introductory knowledge and understanding in ancient sources and modern scholarship relevant to their field of interest. It is a foundational unit for students who do not have a degree with a major in the field of ancient world studies.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

Acquire knowledge of a range of ancient cultures in their geographic and chronological contexts above undergraduate level.

Understand how past societies developed and interacted worldwide and some of the principles, concepts and techniques used in the study of their history and/or archaeology above undergraduate level.

Read ancient sources and literature from different historical and/or archaeological disciplines and interpret written and material evidence with appreciation and understanding above undergraduate level.

Plan and present written arguments about ancient cultures and material in coherent and documented form above undergraduate level.

Apply and adapt knowledge of a range of issues, questions and problems relating to the contemporary understanding of the past above undergraduate level.

Demonstrate critical engagement with a variety of modern scholarly opinions.

General Assessment Information

This unit is a so-called 'shell' unit, which means that the student need to enrol in some other teaching unit in order to pass this one. Students must choose an AHIS undergraduate unit, and inform the course convenor of the chosen unit to check if it is possible to attend it, as some units have certain pre-requisites. Please refer to the iLearn site for AHIS602 to get more information.

The assessment will follow the assessment for the selected unit (combined assessment), with the addition of a Special Research Project task carrying 25% of the final mark. The content of this Special Research Project will be determined in consultation with the course coordinator of the chosen unit.

Assessment Tasks

Name	Weighting	Hurdle	Due
Combined assessment	75%	No	Weeks 1 to 13
Special research project	25%	No	Weeks 1 to 13

Combined assessment

Due: Weeks 1 to 13

Weighting: 75%

This part of the assessment will include all the different assessment tasks for the AHIS unit the student has selected to do (e.g. quizzes, essays, exams, participation, etc.). Please refer to the Unit Guide of the selected AHIS unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire knowledge of a range of ancient cultures in their geographic and chronological contexts above undergraduate level.
- Understand how past societies developed and interacted worldwide and some of the principles, concepts and techniques used in the study of their history and/or archaeology above undergraduate level.
- Read ancient sources and literature from different historical and/or archaeological disciplines and interpret written and material evidence with appreciation and understanding above undergraduate level.

- Plan and present written arguments about ancient cultures and material in coherent and documented form above undergraduate level.
- Apply and adapt knowledge of a range of issues, questions and problems relating to the contemporary understanding of the past above undergraduate level.
- Demonstrate critical engagement with a variety of modern scholarly opinions.

Special research project

Due: Weeks 1 to 13

Weighting: 25%

This part of the assessment will be arranged in consultation with the course coordinator of the selected AHIS unit.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- Acquire knowledge of a range of ancient cultures in their geographic and chronological contexts above undergraduate level.
- Understand how past societies developed and interacted worldwide and some of the principles, concepts and techniques used in the study of their history and/or archaeology above undergraduate level.

Engaged and Ethical Local and Global citizens

As local citizens our graduates will be aware of indigenous perspectives and of the nation's historical context. They will be engaged with the challenges of contemporary society and with knowledge and ideas. We want our graduates to have respect for diversity, to be open-minded, sensitive to others and inclusive, and to be open to other cultures and perspectives: they should have a level of cultural literacy. Our graduates should be aware of disadvantage and social justice, and be willing to participate to help create a wiser and better society.
