Unit description

This unit focuses on the way in which the historian responds to contemporary issues in the pursuit and practice of history, from ancient writers, through modern theorists, to students themselves.

Important Academic Dates

Information about important academic dates including deadlines for withdrawing from units are available at <https://www.mq.edu.au/study/calendar-of-dates>

Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
2. Assess the relevant sources and issues critically, analytically, and in an integrated fashion.
3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.

6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.

7. Treat information in an ethical manner.

Assessment Tasks

Minor Essay	20%	No	2359 hours 10 March 2019
In-class seminar	40%	No	As allocated in Week 1
Major essay	40%	No	2359 hours 9 June 2019

Minor Essay

Due: 2359 hours 10 March 2019

Weighting: 20%

In Marta Alberti's 2018 article about spindle-whorls, are her inferences about low- and high-status users, and about performance of gender in the Roman military context, validly derived and historically useful? If you were on a committee tasked with allocating limited research funding, what degree of priority would you wish to assign to creating a 'complete catalogue and typology of Roman spindle whorls along Hadrian's Wall and in Roman Britain', as she advises?

Initial Bibliography

Marta Alberti (2018), 'The Construction, Use, and Discard of Female Identities: Interpreting Spindle Whorls at Vindolanda and Corbridge' Theoretical Roman Archaeology Journal 1(1): 2, pp. 1–16, DOI: <https://doi.org/10.16995/traj.241>

James Balme (2010), 'Spindle Whorls of Great Britain' <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=n6TGuypgXms>

Christine McLeod (2012), 'How to Spin Yarn Using a Drop Spindle' National Trust for Scotland <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bKAJTKvl0nE>

You will be adding substantially to the bibliography by the time your essay is completed.

Please note that essay form is required. Point form or extended notes are not good enough. Give a bibliography at the end. The word limit (1000 words) includes footnotes but not bibliography. Footnotes should be given, and should conform to the rules laid out in 'Essay Presentation & Conventions: Style Guide', which is available from the following link: https://mq.edu.au/about\_us/faculties\_and\_departments/faculty\_of\_arts/departments\_of\_ancient\_history/current\_students/program\_information/

Submit this minor essay via the turnitin link in iLearn.

Two extra hints:

1. Don't give strings of identical footnotes. Whoever is marking your essay will not be impressed by you scoring fifty footnotes, or even a century. If you are referring more than once to the same page of the same book, consider grouping reference into one footnote, probably at the end of the paragraph. Or if something is so good that it has to be referred to four or five times, why not copy it in as a quotation, then add your discussion?

2. Don't pile up footnote markers in the same place.

This is not Wikipedia.

Place each footnote marker right after the statement of fact which the reference proves to be correct. If you want to place multiple references at the end of a sentence, put them into a single footnote.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
- 2. Assess the relevant sources and issues critically, analytically, and in an integrated fashion.
- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.
- 7. Treat information in an ethical manner.

In-class seminar

Due: As allocated in Week 1

Weighting: 40%

In-class seminar

At the beginning of the semester you will be given a topic for an in-class seminar, and allocated a date and time. These seminars will be given two per lecture hour, and each seminar talk should take between fifteen and twenty minutes to deliver. You may use a powerpoint show or equivalent if you wish, or just speak to the class if you prefer. Questions and discussion will follow each seminar talk.

Topics may be biographical (reflecting on the life and achievements [including weaknesses] of a historian, whether living or dead), or based on a historical question. Whichever kind of topic you are allocated, please direct your discussion to themes relevant to what history is and how one should write history, including ancient history, in the twenty-first century.

In addition to a topic, you will be allocated a date and time for your presentation. This appointment is not flexible, and extensions are impossible. In case of illness, put in a request in ask.mq for special consideration.

You may agree with a fellow-student to exchange appointment slots. Any agreement of this kind must be with the consent of both sides, and the unit convener will not be facilitating exchanges of slots or helping in any way with making the arrangements.

How to handle your topic

Your topic will be given you with minimal help: no bibliography, no hints about why it might be an important topic from the viewpoint of Historiography and Ancient History. Some topics will relate clearly to the study and writing of ancient history, others will be of more general application, and a minority will be principally modern in focus.

There will be some limited possibility of swapping the topic you are first allocated. How easy it will be to exchange for a topic you like better will depend to some degree on final enrolment numbers for this unit.

You should prepare a fifteen- to twenty-minute talk (as a rough guide, this means 2,000 to 2,500 spoken words) to give to the class, and be ready to answer questions. As part of the talk, you may show a Powerpoint show or equivalent using the AV facilities which the classroom has got—but the Powerpoint show is not obligatory.

Aim to go beyond a factual summary, and comment on what can be learnt about historiography from consideration of the person, or the book or article, you are speaking about. By all means disagree with the methods and/or priorities in evidence in the person or the work which you are examining. Give reasons for any opinions you voice, whether in the way of praise or dissent.

Assessment

Your presentation will receive a written response from the unit convener (not given immediately) and a mark out of 40, and it will be worth 40% of the final mark for the unit. No written text need be handed in: the mark is for the talk and the answers to questions.

On successful completion you will be able to:

- 1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
- 2. Assess the relevant sources and issues critically, analytically, and in an integrated fashion.

- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.
- 7. Treat information in an ethical manner.

Major essay

Due: 2359 hours 9 June 2019

Weighting: 40%

Major essay

Your major essay will be a developed version of the study first presented as an in-class talk.

If having given your in-class talk you find that its topic has exhausted its potential and you want another, ask the unit convener: it will be possible to negotiate an amended or completely new topic. Be cautious about asking to do this: it is a labour-intensive option.

Otherwise, please develop your in-class talk into a fully-footnoted major essay (maximum length 3,000 words) with bibliography, on a historiographical theme linked to your original topic.

Please note that essay form is required in this case. Point form or extended notes are not good enough. Give a bibliography at the end. The word limit includes footnotes but not bibliography. Footnotes should be given, and should conform to the rules laid out in 'Essay Presentation & Conventions: Style Guide', which is available from the following link: https://mq.edu.au/about\_us/faculties\_and\_departments/faculty\_of\_arts/department\_of\_ancient\_history/current\_students/program\_information/

Submit this essay through the turnitin link in iLearn.

Delivery and Resources

Successful Completion

To complete the unit successfully, you will need to achieve an overall mark of 50% or above.

Extensions

Extensions for assignments can only be granted for medical reasons or on compassionate grounds. Requests for an extension must be made through Ask.Mq: <https://ask.mq.edu.au>

Faculty Late Submission Penalty

“Unless a Special Consideration request has been submitted and approved, (a) a penalty for lateness will apply – two (2) marks out of 100 will be deducted per day for assignments submitted after the due date – and (b) no assignment will be accepted more than seven (7) days (incl. weekends) after the original submission deadline. No late submissions will be accepted for timed assessments – e.g. quizzes, online tests.”

Lectures and Seminars

There are no tutorials. Attendance at lectures is important: please be present. Students are expected to attend all classes, unless there are extenuating circumstances such as illness etc. Students are required to complete the compulsory readings before the seminar and participate in the discussion.

Electronic Resources

There will be a unit iLearn site, on which readings and resources will be placed.

PC and Internet access are required. Basic computer skills (e.g., internet browsing) and skills in word processing are also a requirement. Any problem, contact onehelp@mq.edu.au (9850 4357) and not the unit convener.

Assessment Submission. All written work must be submitted through the turnitin links for the first and third assessment items on iLearn.

Graduate Capabilities

PG - Capable of Professional and Personal Judgment and Initiative

Our postgraduates will demonstrate a high standard of discernment and common sense in their professional and personal judgment. They will have the ability to make informed choices and decisions that reflect both the nature of their professional work and their personal perspectives.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.
- 7. Treat information in an ethical manner.

Assessment task

- Major essay

PG - Discipline Knowledge and Skills

Our postgraduates will be able to demonstrate a significantly enhanced depth and breadth of knowledge, scholarly understanding, and specific subject content knowledge in their chosen fields.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.

- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.

Assessment tasks

- Minor Essay
- In-class seminar
- Major essay

PG - Critical, Analytical and Integrative Thinking

Our postgraduates will be capable of utilising and reflecting on prior knowledge and experience, of applying higher level critical thinking skills, and of integrating and synthesising learning and knowledge from a range of sources and environments. A characteristic of this form of thinking is the generation of new, professionally oriented knowledge through personal or group-based critique of practice and theory.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
- 2. Assess the relevant sources and issues critically, analytically, and in an integrated fashion.
- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.

Assessment tasks

- Minor Essay
- In-class seminar
- Major essay

PG - Research and Problem Solving Capability

Our postgraduates will be capable of systematic enquiry; able to use research skills to create new knowledge that can be applied to real world issues, or contribute to a field of study or practice to enhance society. They will be capable of creative questioning, problem finding and problem solving.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 1. Uncover and assimilate information in a context and at a level appropriate to BPhil level study.
- 2. Assess the relevant sources and issues critically, analytically, and in an integrated fashion.
- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.

Assessment tasks

- Minor Essay
- In-class seminar
- Major essay

PG - Effective Communication

Our postgraduates will be able to communicate effectively and convey their views to different social, cultural, and professional audiences. They will be able to use a variety of technologically supported media to communicate with empathy using a range of written, spoken or visual formats.

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 3. Demonstrate understanding orally and in writing, by deduction and argumentation.
- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.

Assessment tasks

- Minor Essay
- In-class seminar
- Major essay

PG - Engaged and Responsible, Active and Ethical Citizens

Our postgraduates will be ethically aware and capable of confident transformative action in relation to their professional responsibilities and the wider community. They will have a sense of connectedness with others and country and have a sense of mutual obligation. They will be able to appreciate the impact of their professional roles for social justice and inclusion related to national and global issues

This graduate capability is supported by:

Learning outcomes

- 4. Show, orally and in writing, critical understanding of factual questions and judgements of likelihood and value.
- 5. Relate understanding of the ancient world to broad conceptual frameworks and modern contexts.
- 6. Interpret, understand, and advance the state of thinking about the writing of history, including ancient history, and, when appropriate, read against the sources.
